OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Dr. A. Salisbury has the exclusive right to use Dr. Steinar's Local Anesthetic for the Painless Extraction of Teeth in this city. Office Rockwood Block.

Dr. Withers, Dentist, Union Block.

CITY CORDIALS.

A delightful shower came and went early this morning.

County Clerk Critchfield today was busy making out the B. & M. road tax.

The electric power and manufacturing house is now complete in the walls to the roof.

The ladies of the M. E. church gave an ice cream and cake social at their church last night.

The stringers for the rails of the street railway on Main street have been placed on the street.

A judgment in favor of plaintiff in case of Elson vs. Bardhurt was rendered in Justice Pottenger's court today.

Yesterday witnessed the opening of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Chautauquassally grounds at Council Bluffs.

The wedding of Mr. A. Vin E. Gass and Miss Belle Wendall occurred this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the bride home.

A healthful and most pleasant exercise being taken by some of the young ladies of the city is horse back riding.

Ed Threlkeld, the popular Main street restaurant man has moved from his old stand down to the corner room of the Riddle house block on Main and Third streets.

A party of Chas. Parmele Tom Paterson, Bert Pollock, et al, leave in the morning for Langston on a fishing excursion along the Nishnabotna. They will take their bicycles with them.

A wedding in grand style is to come off this evening near Weeping Water. The contracting parties are Wm. K. Crabbe, and Miss Ella O. Howard. The Taite orchestra was sent for and went out this afternoon to furnish sweet music for the evening.

Today the Omaha Bee, celebrates its eighteenth anniversary and its entrance into its new quarters, and takes several pages, well illustrated, describing the occasion and claims the largest fire proof newspaper office in America. The building is 126x126, and is eleven stories high.

In response to a most cordial invitation yesterday a HERALD representative visited the home of D. K. Barr in the west part of the city to "eat cherries and mulberries." Such an abundance of fruit as was there to help one's self to, took away all bashful feelings and we waded in. Old trees, young trees and middle aged trees, from small to large were full of delicious fruit and bushels had already been gathered. But this was not all the fruit there was there. Blackberries of several varieties, raspberries, grapes, plums, peaches and apples crowded the bushes, trees and vines by bushels, and foretold a rich harvest for the summer and fall. Several trees bearing bushels of fine California plums stood on the hillside as a testimony of Nebraska's fair climate, while a dozen trees of two varieties of peaches bent gracefully under the burden of much fruit, and the orchard of apple trees is already bent to the ground. While admiring all this crop of fruit the scribe didn't neglect to "fill up" and promises to be diligent in accepting the invitation to "call again."

A PROFOUND YOUNGSTER.

He Enlightens the Assembled Theologians by His Discovery in Profane History.

There was a convention of Sunday school teachers in session at Crystal Lake, and all the teachers of the three counties represented were there. The amount of biblical and theological knowledge they had was something astounding. On the last day of the convention the high chief ranger of the affair announced to the 400 delegates that he would be pleased to have the knowing ones think up some hard questions on subjects pertaining to their work, write them on slips of paper and submit them to him, and that evening, at the last session, which was to be a sort of entertainment, he would answer them. A lot of people wrote their questions and gave them to the great professor, and when evening came he had about fifty good old gnarly problems in his bunch of paper slips.

The evening's exercise began with reading and answering the questions, and though some of them were from away back and very obtuse, the good man who had put himself up there as a mark coped with them successfully and impressed the great gathering with his vast knowledge.

Finally he ran against a question that made him knit his brows. He scowled at it a moment and then laid it aside. When he answered all the rest he picked up this side tracked query and said: "Here is a question which I confess I am unable to answer. I submit it to the audience, and if any one is able to give the answer I will be glad to hear what it is."

Then he read this query: "Who was the boy and what was his name who held the basket containing the five loaves and two fishes which fed the multitude?"

Nobody made any effort to answer it, and the professor said: "It seems that nobody knows any more about it than I do. I will have to call on the person who submitted the question to come forward and answer it. Will you please do so?"

To the great surprise of the 400 people and of his mother as well, Frank Jones, a 13-year-old school boy, got up and modestly walked up the aisle. Everybody looked at him amazed. The professor said:

"Did you submit this question?" "Yes, sir."

"Can you answer it?" "Yes, sir."

"Well, I am sure everybody will be glad to hear it."

"The boy," said Frank quietly but steadily, "was Ben Ezra, son of Miriam, who was a sister of Philip, one of the twelve disciples."

A murmur of astonishment ran over the audience. Here was something too deep for even the professed theologians in convention assembled. The professor turned to the boy:

"Did you find that in the Bible?" "No, sir."

"Where, then, did you get it?" "In Greek history?"

That was the cap sheaf. A lad of thirteen bowling down 400 declared teachers in the Christian cause, and telling them in an unassuming way that he dug the information out of Greek history.

I think it will be well to give this boy room to spread himself when he becomes a man.—Chicago Mail.

An Ophidian Bonanza.

James McCallan, a young man residing on Walnut creek, near Index, Mo., was squirrel hunting. Noticing his dog barking furiously, he went forward. The object of the dog's attention was an enormous black snake, which, when killed, measured fourteen feet nine inches. The reptile stood perfectly erect for about four feet of its length, and seemed unable to move the middle part of its body at all.

Although somewhat abashed by the formidable appearance of the reptile, Jim was not slow to observe that it could not move from the spot where its body seemed bound to the earth, so he picked up a stout club and striking the monster several blows upon its head, which it was waving about in the air, soon dispatched it. He was again astonished when, attempting to raise the monster upon his stick, he was unable to lift it from the ground.

About that time he saw a neighbor on the road. Calling upon him for assistance, they cut the snake open at the place where the immense weight was located. They took from its body an old boot leg thonged together at each end, and containing something so heavy they could scarcely lift it. Great was their surprise and joy when, upon cutting open the boot leg, it was found to be filled with gold coins from $1 up to $20.

The only plausible explanation is this: It is well known by parties living here that during the late war a party of bushwhackers buried a boot leg full of gold somewhere on Walnut creek. The monster was found near a small ravine, where it is supposed the gold was washed out of its hiding place and found by the snake.—St. Louis Republic.

A Photographing Phonograph.

An invention which has already been foreshadowed is reported from Mexico. By speaking in a photophone transmitter, which consists of a highly polished diaphragm, reflecting a ray of light, this ray is set into vibration, and a photograph is made of it on a traveling band of paper. If the image of this photographic tracing is projected by means of an electric arc or oxyhydrogen light upon a solenium receiver, the original speech is then heard.—New York Telegram.

Teaching Children.

Too many children never accomplish anything because they fear both their parents and their teachers. Too many never succeed because they are made to feel they never can. Many a child who is full of animation and life and fun and happiness is made to hate his school and school books, because his teacher does not take the time and trouble to study his disposition, and thus learn how to govern him.—Herald of Health.

Rain? Well, yes. Misses Wilson and Graves visited over Sunday at S. Richardson's.

Remember church and Sunday school Sunday. Come one and all.

Wm. Murray bought a fine lot of hogs of the farmers of this vicinity recently.

John Beverage, of Omaha, visited his sisters, Mrs. Wm. and H. Snyder, over Sunday.

Arthur Sullivan, of Rock Bluff, visited with his cousins, the Misses Murray, over Sunday.

A young married couple, yet old in years, passed through this place a few days ago.

R. W. Kirkpatrick has returned to his home at Carl, Iowa, on account of sickness of his parents.

J. C. Gilmore visited at Elmwood, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. John Gustin, the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Craig returned from Greenwood last week where she has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Sawyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barker, and Tillie and Almira Venard attended the dedication of the South Park tabernacle on Sunday, June 9.

A. L. C., who is farming this year, seems to have ample time this summer to worship his one idol—

"Oh hear dear wedding bells a ringing, 'Tis sweet I do declare," Oh hear Mr. Lee a singing, As he plows away over there.

The basket and ice cream supper given at the school house was well attended and proved a success in every way. A number of the Plattsmouth shop boys attended and seemed to enjoy themselves beyond expression, returning home with more than they brought—some of the girls' hearts.
