OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Dr. A. Salisbury has the exclusive right to use Dr. Steiman's Local Anesthetic for the Painless Extraction of Teeth in this city. Office Rockwood Block.

Dr. Withers, Dentist, Union Block.

CITY CORDIALS.

—Yesterday was a beautiful Sunday. —Falls City had a jail delivery Saturday.

—This is the regular city council night.

—There is a bad sink in the pavement on Third street.

—The blackberry crop this year will be superabundant.

—Celebrate. Will we, or will we not. We think we will not.

—A revolver taken from the debris of the Johnston flood is on exhibition at Carruth's.

—Those who like to see a never ceasing rain have found no fault with the fore part of the day.

—The U. S. river steambot "Alert" passed down the river on Saturday evening about 6 o'clock.

—The fact that Main street is paved is quite an inducement for people to go down town now-a-days.

—Meeting for the young people at the M. E. church tonight with ten minutes' song service, opening at 7:30.

—This week Commissioners Foltz and Todd will meet to make annual settlement with the county treasurer.

—Tonight at 7:30 o'clock a final meeting in regard to the Sunday school excursion will be held in the M. E. church.

—Circumstances preventing Miss Watson's appearance at the M. E. church yesterday again caused disappointment to the congregation.

—The school bonds of Wabash voted last fall, amounting to $1200 have been purchased by county Supt. Spink for $1220—at a premium.

—The securing of nice delivery wagons and teams by several firms of this city recently is a move in the right direction.

—John Byers, who held meetings in a tent on court house square some time has moved into the old Wheeler block.

—Several accidents have come near happening at the bridge on the county road west from the ball park. It is expected soon to place tiling there and take the crossing out.

—The town of Cambridge, in the southeast part of the state is greatly excited over the foul murder of Jas. H. Palmer, a farmer and stock raiser, who was waylaid while on his way home from an alliance meeting.

—Two floaters were arrested in the city yesterday for being drunk and disorderly, one of whom used boisterous, profane and insulting language on Main street last evening. They were tried before Judge Russell and got $10 and cost, each, which will be served in jail.

—That a brick wall will not stand when undermined was again proved at Lincoln last week. Excavations close to the foundation of a livery barn, for curbing, caused one wall to crush in. No lives were lost, but a fine carriage was destroyed. The barn was occupied by W. D. Fowler.

—The small boy that has so persistently longed for the moonlight to shine on the cherry orchard in the fore part of the night, has been sorrowfully disappointed, for his superstitious fear of fruit that ripens in the dark of the moon overcame his proclivity to steal, though engendered by an voracious appetite. But he is now stealing around at the sunset hour locating the red June and yellow harvest apple trees with calculations which also take in the adjoining melon patch.

—The term "horse sense" is quite common, but what quantity that is, many people do not know. An illustration was given the passengers of No. 4 this morning near Bellevue. A horse got on the track, and was driven off by the engineer after slowing up and a great deal of whistling; then the train's speed increased and the horse got on the track again ahead of the engine. It is possible suicide was the intent of the animal or damages against the road, at any event those who witnessed it did not greatly admire the horse sense manifested.

—The case of state vs. Parker Saturday in Justice Clifford's court, in which Wm. Osborn charged Parker with using profane and threatening language before ladies, took up about two hours. Five witnesses were called for prosecution and two for defense. The testimony showed some bad actions and words. The families at fault live in a double house on south Sixth street. During the trial Mrs. Parker seemed very much humiliated and shed tears. Judge Sullivan appeared for defense and Mat Gering for prosecution, and eloquence on moral and social relations and courtesy flowed freely. The court took the case under advisement and at 10 o'clock this morning passed sentence, fining Parker $1 and costs.

—The washing of some of the streets makes them dangerous for travel. One that is in need of immediate repair is Oak street on Fifth, where there are gutters two feet deep—enough to break the leg of any valuable animal.

—The frame buildings on lower Main street came near being burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. Fire caught in the one occupied by Melvin as a second hand store and gun shop, while they were away from home. Men near by noticed the smoke issuing from the roof and sides of the building and secured ladders, axes and buckets and cut the roof open and extinguished the fire which seemed to be in the walls. The exact origin of the fire is not known.

—Attorney S. F. Thomas, who came here about a year ago and has since made this city his home, practicing law in our courts, today wound up his business here and leaves tomorrow for Denver, Col., where he will take up his home and continue law practice. Mr. Thomas sold his residence last week to P. Krause, and has shipped his personal effects to Denver. During his stay here his acquaintance and dealings with us and the people have been most pleasant, and the good wishes of many for him and his family follow them.

—The newspaper scribes of Plattsmouth will turn out en masse tonight to represent the press and report the council meeting and thus show their appreciation of a kindness done them by that august body in purchasing a convenient reporter's table for their use in answer to a petition praying for it, about six months ago. Yes the reporters are glad. They will no longer have to write on their knee or rest their arm upon the railing around the audience front, but have a real table like the scribes of Omaha. It is not a costly piece of furniture, but we hope it will last till the city hall is built and it may find a serviceable corner there.

—One of those incidents where a man gets lots of electricity accidentally from an electric wire and still lives, happened in Omaha yesterday to a street car driver named George Miller. At No. 246 Chrystie street a covered electric light wire dangled in a loop so low across the street that it grazed the top of the Second avenue box-car. When he came to the spot, seeing how near the horses the wire hung, he stopped the car and, taking his car hook, caught the wire in the loop and pulled, intending to tear it down, but the next instant was hurled from the car. There he hung as if his hands were glued to the iron hook, kicking and gesticulating wildly, while the muscles on his face, neck and hands stuck out like whip cords. Soon one man, of the whole crowd of people that had been attracted to the spot by Miller's gyrations, came to his rescue. He was Mr. Langdon, of No. 54 Kent avenue, Brooklyn. Seizing Miller around the body with one hand and the hook with the other he tore him away by main force, but in so doing he himself also received a terrific shock. Once free from the grasp of the current Miller fell unconscious to the street, and an ambulance was summoned. The surgeon soon had Miller sufficiently restored to enable him to proceed to the depot in the car with another driver, and from there he was sent home to receive further medical attention. Both of his hands across the fingers are badly burned, and every muscle in his body from his head down was as sore as if he had gone through a threshing machine, and although his injuries are only temporary it will be some days before he entirely recovers.

—A Costly Bank Joke. A couple of Omaha National bank boys have played a joke which cost them their positions. It seems that in their effort to be very funny they drew up a draft for $1,500,000 on the Chemical National bank of New York and signed Jay Gould's name to it. The check clerk, it seems, learned of the joke and intended to throw the piece of paper out, but it passed along to another and through an oversight got in with the other mail and left the city. The next day the boys came to themselves and confessed their indiscretion to Cashier Wallace, who promptly telegraphed to have the check returned upon its arrival. It came back and President Millard immediately discharged the youngsters.

—A Bad Spell. A merchant's clerk wrote a check for forty dollars, and spelled the numerical adjective "f-o-u-r-t-y." His employer directed his attention to the error, with the remark, "you seem to have a bad spell this morning." To which the clerk replied, "sure enough; I've left out the 'g-h'." Let us hope the clerk will still further amend his orthography, meanwhile, if any suffer from a bad "spell" of headache, superinduced by constipation, ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Entirely vegetable, mild, prompt and effective, and a most efficient remedy for derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

MEMORIES OF THE PAST.

For the HERALD.
The thoughts and visions of the past,
That over my memories softly steal,
Of sunny days and shadowed east,
And joys no artist can reveal.
The days when I was young—
The thoughts come crowding thick and fast,
Where are those friends—the songs we sang—
Were all those things too good to last?
Oh! such a pleasure beyond worth—
Could I recall one single hour—
When nature's realm seemed all in mirth
As I stroited through the dell and bowler.
How hallowed all—the grove, the hill,
The birds' sweet songs, the flowers wild,
The bees' low hum, the valley hill,
But then such nonsense—I'm no child.
What if I could recall an hour
I then would nly wish to stay;
And then methinks I'd wish the power
To live one constant yesterday.
But there's a charm we can not tell
In cherished memories of the past;
And if our years a hundred swell,
We'll cherish memories to the last.

ERETT-WILES.

Davis Errett and Ursula Wiles United in Matrimony at the Bride's Home.

Yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Miss Ursula Wiles and Rev. Davis Errett were united in the bonds of matrimony, at the home of the bride's parents southeast of the city, by Rev. J. K. Reed, of the Christian Church of this city, and brother-in-law to the groom. Mr. Errett is a Christian minister, traveling in Nebraska, but makes Omaha his home, is the son of Rev. Isaac Errett, a preacher of the same denomination of considerable reputation. Miss Wiles is thoroughly well acquainted with the citizens of Plattsmouth and Cass County, by whom she was very favorably known and her acquaintance highly esteemed. There were present at the ceremony members of the family and near relations, some of whom were from Omaha. The happy couple have gone to Omaha and Fairfield, but will be at home in Omaha. Many congratulations follow them.
