REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.
The republican electors of the state of Nebraska are requested to send delegates from their several counties, to meet in convention in the city of Lincoln, Thursday, September 24, 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for one associate justice of the supreme court, and two members of the board of regents of the state university, and to transact such other business as may be presented to the convention.

THE APPORTIONMENT
The several counties are entitled to representation as follows, being based upon the vote cast for Hon Geo. H. Hastings, for attorney-general in 1890, giving one delegate at-large to each county, and one for each 150 votes and the major fraction thereof:

It is further recommended that the state central committee select the temporary organization of the convention.

JOHN C. WATSON, Chairman.
WALT. M. SEELY, Secretary.

R. R. MILLS, in a speech in Iowa, says that "our wheat shipments are falling off because our importations are falling off." The records, on the other hand, show that our foreign trade was larger in the fiscal year ended six weeks ago than it ever was before in the whole history of the country. It is the old story. Mills doesn't know what he is talking about.

NEW YORK Democratic and Mugwump organs are very sure Secretary Blaine is not in sympathy with his party. They declare "he is for reciprocity," and "reciprocity is antagonistic to protection." In the meantime the relation between the President and the Secretary are most cordial, and no conventions of Republicans assemble anywhere that don't throw up their hats and praise both the administration and Mr. Blaine.

A CHICAGO man has come forward with a novel World's Fair suggestion. Instead of trying to build some lofty structure, he says, the thing to do is to dig the deepest hole in the ground on record, say ten miles deep. Besides the mineral bonanzas that might be struck, a great many geological problems would be solved, and a lot of money could be made by rigging the shaft with an elevator and taking passengers to the bottom.

THE Louisiana farmers' alliance has decided not to put a third party ticket in the field; for the coming State election, but to act with the Democratic party to secure alliance nominees, as has been done in other southern states. That is the rule in the south. "The alliance" was intended for Ohio and Iowa and Ne-

THE suit about to be brought against the owners of a great amount of Nebraska property once held by the late David Butler will be annoying to men who supposed that their titles were perfect, but under our system of land transfers such thing are bound to occur, frequently. The Torrens plan, under which the state passes upon all titles and guarantees them, is simple and secures justice for all parties. Some day it will be given a trial in Nebraska. The Australian system of land transfer will be just as popular as the Australian ballot.

A TIN-PLATE TRADE VALEDICTORY.

In the course of a retrospective-historical article the Colliery Guardian, London, says:
We may, therefore, take it for granted that the tin-plate trade of the United Kingdom—at any rate, so far as the United States are concerned—has reached the zenith of power in the first half-year of 1891.

And we learn from "Griffith's" Guide to the Tin-Plate Manufacturers that of the 482 tin-plate mills which were in active operation in June, 377 "are closed until the end of July." It is said that the balance will close for one week during each of the four succeeding months. This is undeniably done to raise the natural price of tin-plates in this market. It is done by a trust, a combination, a syndicate. But those who in the past have charged that the Standard Oil Trust was a direct result of Protection will be found in the ranks of those "strong-siding champions in Chicago and elsewhere," who "must work and work hard" for the Welsh tin-plate trust.

"WAS IT SUICIDE?"

Why marriage is sometimes a failure is an interesting and important question to all; and every one, married or single, should read the absorbing story with the above title, by the poet novelist Ella Wheeler Wilcox, written in that popular author's most forcible style, which is published in the September number of that always bright periodical Demorest's Family Magazine. It contains, besides, an abundance of other good reading matter, just the sort that one enjoys at this season. There is a splendid article, fully illustrated, about "Brazil"; "A Poet at Home" tells about Ella Wheeler Wilcox and her lovely home, and with it are pictures of "the poet's corner" and portraits of her in some of her noted gowns; whether you ever enjoyed that rare sport moose-hunting or not, you will be interested in "A Stray Shot at a Moose," written by the fortunate amateur sportsman who brought down his game at the first shot, which is also finely illustrated. "A Seven Day's Tramp and What it Cost" describes a "tramp" made by eight girls and a chaperon, and the chaperon tells the story; then there are stories and poems, and the various departments are replete with useful and amusing matter, and there are nearly 200 illustrations, besides a beautiful water-color, "Play ball Pa!" which appeals to every admirer and devotee of baseball. And this is only a fair sample of what one gets monthly in this ideal Family Magazine, which is published for $2 a year, by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York City.

What Betsy Ann Has to Say.
Say she; "That air gal of Dekin Pogran, she don't know—why she jest don't know putty' so she don't. There's that air gal, she burned her hand awful, so she did, and instead of a puttin' on Haller's Australian Salve which ud tuck all the fire rite out and jist made it git well rite off, so it would, why, she jest put on a whole lot of stuff and—and—you jes' bet she'll know better next time. For sale by all druggist."
