How Snakes Climb.
 How do snakes climb? Is a question which has been frequently asked. Many have thought that they accomplish the feat by wrapping themselves about the tree and following a spiral course upward. Several years ago a story went the rounds of the papers to the effect that two woodchoppers, having fallen large oak tree several feet in diameter and very tall, found in its top two common blacksnakes.

After pondering for some time the men arrived at the conclusion that one snake had taken hold of the other's tail, and thus by co-operation they had been enabled to clasp the trunk, and by climbing about it had ascended to the top.

Whatever probability may have attached to this conclusion has been dispelled by the observation of two young naturalists while landing firewood from the forest.

A black snake, measuring perhaps three or six feet, was found clinging to the side of a small tree, around which it could have wrapped itself nearly two hundred times. Instead of this, the snake passed right and left at equal distances, reaching the folds along its under parts over and behind the slightly projecting roughnesses of bark.

As the snake rested only five or six feet off the ground one of the young men grasped its tail to test its climbing qualities, but so great was the force with which it pulled upward that it proved a difficult task to hold it. Finally, becoming annoyed at this ill treatment, the snake reached down threateningly at the offending hands, and losing its hold fell to the ground. It was borne home in triumph but was afterward returned uninjured to the forest.—Youth's Companion.

The Lady Factotum.
 The "lady factotum" is what our English neighbors call those engaged in the vocation of "visiting housekeeper." This is an employment which has been highly recommended, and which a number of ladies in this country as well as in England have adopted. Such a person visits ladies who from ill health or some other reason are unable to perform their domestic duties. She oversees the servants, inspects the stores and possibly undertakes shopping, marketing and the writing of notes, and she performs other offices which are of too confidential and responsible a nature for the ordinary servant to undertake.

If she is a woman of energy, tact and health she can accomplish a great deal by visiting a number of families for about an hour a day. She may go so far as to employ assistants in marketing and shopping, whose work she is able to oversee with intelligence. She is paid for this work on even a better scale than a visiting governess, and if she is an able, efficient woman in the items of im-specting stores and furnishing food at down town prices, she can easily save a family half her liberal remuneration.

The institution of such a vocation is a great relief to many overburdened or ill or incapable housewives, and presents an excellent and lucrative field to women of efficiency and refinement. It is a place such as an elder sister might take, and such indeed as many elder and unmarried sisters do take for no remuneration beyond "love and affection."—New York Tribune.

"Tower of the Tongues." Our story of the Tower of Babel is known in Chaldean and Aramian tradition as "The Story of the Tower of Tongues." It is one of the earliest recollections of the Tiro-Euphrates basin, and is related by Berosus in the following manner:
 "The first inhabitants of the earth, glorying in their own strength and despising the gods, undertook to raise a tower whose top should reach the sky. This tower they erected in the plain where Babylon's ruins now lay.
 The tower was covered with gold, silver and precious stones, and its walls were decorated with pictures of the gods. The king of the city, Nimrod, was the author of this enterprise. The tower was completed in the space of a few years, and its height was such that it was visible from all parts of the world.
 The gods, however, were displeased with the pride of the men, and decided to confound their language. As a result, the people were unable to understand one another, and the tower was abandoned and fell into ruin.
 The city of Babylon was thereafter called 'The Tower of Tongues.'—St. Louis Republican.

Subsides in English Aristocracy.
 Besides among the aristocracy in Eng-reign of King

Two Classes of Opium.
 The opium of today are divided up into the white or seed opium, and the black or house opium, who keep their opium in a secret. This division of the opium shows that they are gradually yielding to the possession of outside business, and the complete destruction of their national identity will be a matter of time.—George Ethelbert Walsh in New York Epoch.

CHASED BY MAD DOGS

HAIRBREADTH ESCAPE OF A MAN AND HIS BEST GIRL A man who had only a few hundred dollars left out of a fortune called one day at a banking house and asked to see the manager, who was a man of conservative mind and fully acquainted with the best and most profitable investments.

Throwing down his roll of banknotes he said: "Invest this for me. Use your pleasure with it. I'm going to the country for the remainder of the summer. I will leave my address with you, and you can let me know what you do with it."

The man walked out and was not seen again for many months. His money was judiciously invested on his carte blanche order and began to accumulate. The house duly informed him, according to its business methods, of his good luck, but nothing was heard from him personally for some time.

Some months afterwards he presented himself at the banking house, rusty health beaming in his face, well dressed and portly. The manager failed to recognize him at first, but when his memory was refreshed he recalled the circumstances of the case.

Now, this was an example of a man who more than doubled his savings by simply taking the advice of an experience and reliable man. And this is not a solitary case. It is one of many such that happen every day throughout the length and breadth of our land.— Henry Claws in Ladies' Home Journal.

Japanese Women.
 It would be hard to say how Christianity-in-name, as we usually have it, could improve the conduct or character of the Japanese women, who seem always to have been very good Christians without knowing it, if we are to believe Miss Bacon. Perhaps the answer to the conundrum is that Christianity is not primarily a purifying force, but is first an enlightening force; that its ideal is virtue, not innocence—Gethsemane, not Eden. The harmlessness of the dove will not avail without the wisdom of the serpent; the impulse of our faith is toward consciousness, knowledge. No doubt this is what the Japanese feel in it; probably it is what makes them willing to change their civilization for ours.
 They really seem a race of better and sweeter nature than ourselves; unless their witnesses misreport them they are gentler, kinder, even truer, than we are naturally.

A TERRIBLE CHASE.
 "A crisis came, when one day I took my sweetheart out for a sleigh ride in a low pung belonging to her father, to which was harnessed my own snare and swift footed mare. It was a lovely day and we expected to make a safe and rapid descent of the mountain, a distance of ten or twelve miles. The air was crisp and cold, the sleighing fine, and we skinned up the ascent and reached the landing before we knew we had started. There we were met by the dogs. I think it would have been less difficult to have gotten rid of a pair of wolves. I dare not give my mare her head going down that long, steep declivity on frozen snow, and the dogs, emboldened by the cold or maddened by repeated lashings from my whip, jumped at my companion and tore her cloak and her dress in mouthfuls. I clabbied with my whip and bent them on the head, but they did not even seem to feel my blows.
 Their great black and yellow frames quivered with ferocity. The hair on their backs stood up like manes; their eyeballs glared red and angry, and the noise they made was deafening and distracting.
 "Oh! I exclaimed, "why haven't I a pistol?"
 "Look in the box under the seat," cried my companion, whose face was blanched.
 "I looked quickly, and found a rusty double barreled horse pistol of a make of forty years ago.
 "Is it loaded?" I asked.
 "Yes, but don't shoot. If you do that man will kill you!"
TWO SHOTS FIRED THEM.
 "I remember thinking how like a woman it was to tell me where to find the pistol and then ask me not to shoot.
 "I had the reins loose on the mare's back and away she went like the wind, beyond my control now, and I knew she would never stop till she was a mile beyond the level ground at the foot of the hill.
 "If the pung held together; if nothing made the mare swerve from the direct line; if, in fact, if Providence kept an eye on us, and the breeding didn't break, we might escape breathing our souls. I looked back and saw the dogs bounding on, and I saw that I had then I took aim and fired. Bang! Bang!
 There were two dark spots lying prone on the snowy road, and as quick as one could wink they disappeared under the hoofs of the mare. She was indeed beyond my control now.
