LIABILITIES AND RESOURCES. In the matter of public indebtedness intelligent persons have always known in a general way that the United States is in a highly pleasing condition. The census bureau, however, has just furnished figures on this subject which show that our condition is much better than the average person has imagined. Allowing five persons to a family the calculations of the the federal government, of the states and of the counties, amounts to an average of $78.15 for each family in the country. On a similar basis of computation the British family owes $337.60, the French $581.75, and the Austro-Hungarian $354.20. Figures for the German empire are not furnished, but it is evident from the debts of erated, that the indebtedness of the whole country would make the average for each family at least $400. In nearly every one of the second or third class countries of Europe and in almost all of those of South America the amounts are also high. Apparently no other important nation in the world has

as low an average of indebtedness

as the United States. There is another consideration which also deserves to be taken into the account which renders the situation still more favorable to this country. Not only are the burdens Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise of the support of the government on" Heart and Nervous Diseases" smaller in this country than in any other in world, but the ability of the & Co. people to meet them is lagrer. Wealth is growing in the United States faster than it is anywhere else on the globe, and it is being more widely diffused among the whether it will really benefit this people. Everywhere else the sum of the public indebtedness is either the Restorative Nervine by Dr. Franklin Miles is doubtful. This is stationary or continuously and just what the American people need shrinking year by year. Concurrently with the increase of indebtedness abroad and the decrease in this country there is a growth in resources and capital here which finds no parallel in any other nation. These are facts which nation. These are facts which tain no opium, morphine or danger should be kept constantly in mind, ous drugs. GOT THE LICKING FOR NOTHING. What Havoc a Youngster of Five Years Can Create.

"The worst licking I ever got in my life was one that was wholly undeserved," said a well-known gentleman the other day. "In fact," he went on, "it was the only real licking I ever received, and the smart of it still lingers in my imagination.

"It happened a long time ago," he continued, reflectively, "and I wasn't more than 8 years old. My folks were living on a farm then, down in Indiana, and my father believed in teaching boys how to work. Like most youngsters, I fancied play more than | Co., who recomends this unequailed labor, yet I was not a lazybones by any means, for I never hesitated to help around the house and elsewhere when I saw something in it.

"To stimulate my industry my father often offered me small sums of money for the performance of little jobs to which I was equal, such as splitting up kindling wood, shelling corn and feeding the horses. On one occasion the barnyard, promising me a quarter tor the job.

"Well, I went at it with zest, visions of candy and raisins spurring me on. It was late in the afternoon, and I was scraping away at the trash and refuse like a good fellow, when I glanced up and saw my mother approaching with an air that told me at once that something had happened. But I didn't expeet what was coming, proceeding vigorously and cheerily with my task.

"My mother always steps pretty high when she is mad," the gentleman explained, "and this time I noticed that her stride was unusually aggressive. I wondered what could be the trouble, but speculation was cut short by her coming up, seizing me by the scruff of the reck, turning me across her knee and basting me furiously with a barrel-stave which I saw her pick up as she came toward me.

"It was a terrible surprise and it wasn't until she had paddled me until I felt like I was afire that I managed between my sobs to demand an explanation.

"I'll teach you how to kill my chickens," she panted, "I'll teach you -" and she made another dash at me, as if she meant to give me another dose of the same medicine. But I was on my guard and eluded her clutch.

"Kill your chickens?" I cried, rubbing smarts. 'Why, I never touched your chickens.'

"You did, you little rascal. You did. See! Look there! Look! Oh, I'll skin you alive,' and she started for me again, but I dodged her, and she began to cry.

"I wouldn't have believed you could do such a trick,' she sobbed. 'Here every old hen on the place is running about with a chicken or a duck in her bill-'

"And sure enough that was what I saw when I looked about me. The barn-vard was full of hens and every one of them was running about with a chick that had evidently got out of its shell prematurely. There were scores of the biddies and they were having a pienie. I saw what destruction had been wrought at a glance. I knew that a dozen nests had been broken up and at least twelve times that number of chicks and ducklings had been

"Why. ma. I didn't do it. I didn't. You know I wouldn't do so bad a thing.

"Then who did, you little scamp? she asked, not believing. "And just then I caught sight of my 5-year-old brother.

"He was standing at a little distance with a duckling daugling in one hand and a chick in the other.

"But I had had the licking just the

A Determined Man.

"When I bought my brass bedstead," said Fickleby to the Arounder, "the man in the store said that if the brass tarnished I'd better rub it with a little beer. So the minute the bedstead came I ordered a dozen bottles. Well, the thing didn't tarnish as quick as I thought it would, and I had to drink the beer. Then I ordered another dozen, thinking I could use that on the we are on the eve of one of the most prosperous periods of the nation's history is one in which many continuous formula on the state of the many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous formula on the nation's first one in which many continuous fo Startling Facts.
