Wonderful.

E. W. Sawyer, of Rochester, Wis., a prominent dealer in general merchandise, and who runs several peddling wagons, has a case of his horses badly cut and burned with lariat. The wound refused to heal. The horse became lame and still notwithstanding careful attention and the application of remedies. A friend handed Sawyer some of Haller's Barb Wire Linciment, the most wonderful thing ever saw to heal such wounds. He applied it only three times and the sore was completely healed. Equally good for all sores, cuts, bruises, and wounds. For sale by all druggists

Safe and Reliable.

"In buying a cough medicine for children," says H. A. Walker, a prominent druggist of Ogden, Utah, "never to be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. I particularly recommend Chamberlain's because I have found it to be safe and reliable. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. G. Fricke & Co."

A Fatal Mistake.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease" which may be had free of F. G. Fricke & Co., who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles' unequalled new Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headache, fits, etc.

It Should be in Every House.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe" when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cocksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at F. G. Fricke & Co's drugstore. Large bottle, 50c and $1.00.

A Mystery Explained.

The papers contain frequent notices of rich, pretty and educated girls eloping with negroes, tramps and coachmen. The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says all such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very impulsive, unbalanced, usually subject to headache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, moderate crying or laughing. These show a weak, nervous system for which there is no remedy equal to Restorative Nervine. Trial bottles and a fine book, containing many marvelous cures, free at F. G. Fricke & Co's, who also sell and guarantee Dr. Miles' celebrated New Heart Cure, the finest of heart tonics. Cures flitting, short breath, etc.

Cough Following the Grip.

Many persons, who have recovered from the grippe are now troubled with a persistent cough. Chamberlain's cough remedy will promptly loosen this cough and relieve the lungs, effecting a permanent cure in a very short time. 25 and 50 cent bottle for sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Startling Facts.

The American people are rapidly becoming a race of nervous wrecks and the following suggests, the best remedy: alphonso Humpfling, of Butler, Penn., swears that when his son was speechless from St. Vitus Dance Dr. Miles great Restorative Nervine cured him. Mrs. J. L. Miller of Valparaiso, J. D. Taelor, of Logansport, Ind. each gained 20 pounds in a taking it. Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vasturl Ind. was cured of 40 to 50 convulsions easy and much headach, dizziness, backach and nervous prostration by one bottle. Trial bottle and fine book of Nervous cures free at F. G. Fricke & Co., who recommends this unequalled remedy.

February, in 1900, will not contain twenty-nine days, although it will be leap year. February, in 1700, also contained only twenty-eight days. There is a slight error in the Gregorian calendar, but it will only amount to one day in 3,325 years.

During the months of August and September in the city and vicinity of Voronezh more than five thousand horses were killed for their hides because their owners had no food for them. The slaughtering of good horses has continued at even a larger rate since that time.

A Japanese doctor never dreams of asking a poor patient for a fee. There is a proverb among the medical fraternity of Japan: "When the twin enemies, poverty and disease, invade a home, then he who takes aught from that home, even though it be given him, is a robber."

In the new works of the Pegasus-Athens railway station the marble head of a woman has been found, of good workmanship. It wears a diadem and the features are very finely carved. It is thought to belong to a headless statue found on this site in the city a little time ago.

The latest fad in the West is a shoe party. They stretch a sheet across the road and the ladies stand behind it and stick their feet under it so you can only see their shoes. Then you go along and pick out a pair of shoes and the lady who is in them you take down to supper.

The Burmese women are great personages and play a great part in their households. They choose their own husbands and divorce them when they like, retaining their own property and all that they have earned. They are at liberty to marry again, whether as widows or divorcees.

The New Alpine railway, the Brenner-Rothornbahn, is the highest railway in the world, and commands magnificent views. It is 2,351 meters (7,836 feet) high at the summit level, and ascends 1,682 meters (5,605 feet) or 64 meters (225 feet) higher than the Pilatus Railway. The journey occupies 1-1/2 hours.

There are 2,000 Italians in London who serve in the Italian cafes and restaurants. In some of these they have to pay for the privilege, and in others they receive nothing in direct wages, but they are fed at the cost of the proprietor and recoup themselves in the tips. A smart man in a well-frequented street earns about $20 a week.

The municipal commissioner of Baroda has published a pamphlet in which he advocates the inoculation of the blood serum of the common weasel as a cure of snake bite. This animal is, he contends, proof against the poison of snake bites, from which it never suffers in the slightest degree, and attacks and kills any snake it comes across.

There is a strong dislike to the bat among the peasants of south Germany. A feeling of disgust and fear takes possession of the farmer who finds bats in his chimney, not only because he believes the creatures will feed upon his pork that hangs in the smoke, but because bats are regarded as unlucky and bring poverty and misfortune.

One of the most ingenious methods practiced by poachers for the purpose of netting pheasants is that in which a game cock is fitted with artificial spurs, and then carried to the preserves. Then the game bird crows, one or two more of the cock pheasants immediately respond and advance to fight. In this way sometimes five or six pheasants are taken, while the game cock remains unharmed.

A temporary resident of Dallas, Texas, has had a wide experience. He has traveled for fourteen years, crossed the county from New York to San Francisco, worked his way through South America and has been a fireman, a policeman and a railroad man, a sport, a drummer and a soldier. He says that the world has used him pretty well so far and that he intends to wander around until he dies.

The authorities of the city of Tambov have printed check books containing each ten to twenty checks. Every maker in the city gives for every check a pound of bread, for which it charges the city two kopecks. The residents of the city were notified not to deal out any money to mendicants, for such money is in most cases spent on drink, but to buy checks at the city hall and to distribute them among the poor.

According to the school statistics of Finland there are this year 4,203 pupils attending the male schools and 1,567 the female schools. The population of Finland is 2,200,000, of which 200,000 are Swedes, with a small admixture of other nationalities. To judge by the languages which the school children speak, the proportion of education is very unequally divided between the native Finns and their Swedish neighbors.

The standing army of the Argentine Republic numbers 6,000 men, and there are over fifty generals on the active list. This gives a general to about every hundred other warriors of all lower grades. At this ratio, when the officers are all accounted for, the poor private must be a very lonesome creature. They manage these things still better in some republics, where every man in the army is an officer of some sort.

The Spaniards are the most expert smokers in the world. A Spaniard takes a heavy pull at his cigarette, inhales it, takes up a wine skin or wine bottle, pours a half-pint down his throat, holding the vessel a foot from his mouth and not spilling a drop, and then with a sigh of satisfaction closes his eyes and exhales the smoke from his nose and mouth in clouds. He will also inhale the smoke, converse for a few minutes in a natural manner and then blow out the smoke.

A Geographical Question.

A great deal has been said and written about the woe which the compositor inflicts upon his helpless victims, and, speaking from experience, I know that they are many and varied; but yet "the gifted author" has occasionally to put up with a good deal of annoyance from higher powers than the poor "comp," as the following experience of an intimate friend of mine will prove:

He was the art critic, and he had just sent out an unusually brilliant account of a recent exhibition of paintings to the desk editor, who, not having made much of a study of art, was naturally unfamiliar with the language of the studio, but was preparing to wrestle with his difficult task. He was new at the work, and it was beset with pitfalls. Heading the list was this enigmatical sentence: "A Landscape in Sepia."

"Landscape in Sepia!" shouted the scribe, addressing the sporting editor, who was busily engaged in describing a spirited set-to between two favorite light weights. "Where the deuce is Sepia?"

"Don't know," answered the sporting editor, thoughtfully. "Never heard of the place. Sepia can't be in the United States, or I must have heard of it, surely. It must be in Syria somewhere."

"I don't believe the place exists at all," snapped the puzzled genius of the desk. "I think—"

A heavy fall in the adjoining room broke off the conversation here, and a hurried investigation revealed the art critic in strong convulsions on the floor. He had heard the entire conversation, and was conveyed to his lodging-place in an ambulance.—Harpur's Magazine.

Got The Wrong One.

A certain well-known railroad man, who has lots of children of assorted sizes, made a very curious mistake in identity the other evening, says a N. Y. Recorder writer. He was sitting in his library trying to read, but was very much disturbed by the noise overhead in the nursery. The nurse was putting the two youngest children to bed, a proceeding to which they objected vociferously. Finally he called up the stairs that he would come up and punish them if they didn't keep still. There was silence for a moment, and then the shrill little voice of Ruth, his youngest born, piped out:

"Shut up!"
Fairly staggered by this irreverent outburst, he stood a moment in silence, scarcely believing his own ears, when down the staircase floated again:

"Shut up, you!"
This was too much. He bounded up the staircase, determined to chastise saucy Miss Ruth. Rushing in the darkened nursery, he seized the offender from her bed, and, laying her across his knee, applied his palm in a scientific manner. The victim kicked and struggled considerably, and finally shrieked out:

"Papa, papa! You're whipping the wrong kid! I'm not Ruth; I'm Horace."

Ramie Steam-Pipes.

Steam-pipes have been made in England from the ramie fiber. The material is subjected to tremendous hydraulic pressure, and, having the property of being unaffected by moisture, will neither shrink nor swell, beside being a nonconductor of heat. The pipes have twice the tensile strength of steel pipes.

Greeted His Dog First.

One of the every-day sides of human nature was exhibited at the railway station this morning, says an exchange. A resident of this city, a business man, went to the depot to meet his wife, who had been absent on a long visit to eastern relatives. She arrived, accompanied by a male cousin and her husband's greyhound, a dog that had not seen his master for several months. The moment the business man afforded caught sight of his dog he whistled to the animal, and when it reached him he submitted to its extravagant expressions of joy, the dog's nose touching his face several times. Only after that did the husband notice his wife. He expressed his delight, then, at seeing her, and, embracing her, kissed her fervently.
