Offwhat are you thinking, my little lad, with the honest eyes of blee.

As you watch the vessels that slowly glide o'er the level ocean floor?

Beautiful, graceful, silent as dreams, they pass away from our view.

And down the slope of the world they go, to seek some far-off shore.

They seem to be scattered abroad by chance, to move at the breezes will.

Aimlessly wandering bither and you, and melting in distance gray:

But each one moves to a pur ose firm, and the winds tacir sails that all Like faithful servants speed them all on their appointed way. For each has a rudder, my dear little lad, with

And the rudder is never left to itself, but the will of the man is there;

There is never a moment, day or night, that the vessel does not feel The force of the purpose that shapes her course and the helmsman's watchful

Bome day you will launch your ship, my boy, on life's wide, treacherous sea,—
Be sure your rudder is wrought of strength to stand the stress of the gale,
And your hand on the wheel, don't let it flinch, whatever the tumuit be,
For the will of man, with the help of God, shall conquer and prevail.

—Celia Thaxter, in St. Nicholas.

AT THE CLUB.

It was just turning midnight when Mr. Forrest and I entered the Jefferson club, where Colonel Hamilton was revisiting the pale glimpses of his pleasures of thirty years ago. I re-member quite well the time, because the club was closed promptly at 1 o'clock in the morning, and I reflected afterwards how much that was unexpected could be compressed within the brief compass of a chance hour. The Jefferson Club was composed of gentlemen, but at that time-as in many other clubs that have since been wrecked and forgotten as bad dreams because of it-gambling was permitted, and was, indeed, one of the principal occupations of the members in attendance. But the gambling was confined by consent, generally, to the round games in which gentlemen then took their excitement.

Colonel Hamilton had, upon entering, both whist and poker proposed to him. He chose the latter, but, it seems, after pursuing fortune with even chances for a short time he had proposed that some of the gentlemen present form a bank for faro. This was a suggestion that met with much favor, as the Colonel was well known by reputation to most of the members; and when Mr. Forrest and his friend entered, a dozen persons were gathered around the improvised faro-table, half of them betting against the game, the others composing the bank watching the progress with much interest. Colonel Hamilton, his chair drawn up in the center, was eagerly playing while Major Kilgore sat across the table from him watching the changes of fortune in his serious and dignified way. The stakes were small and the game proceeded with much good humor and occasional laughter.

In the midst of it the door of the card-room was quietly opened, and Count Meagher, who Major Kilgore keenly disliked walked in.

Mr. Forrest and I were standing where we could see him as he first enfor a moment and then begin to beat rapidly with an expectation of grave consequences. It was not grave the charge was launched, was now turned back again upon Major Kilgore. tered, and I felt my heart stand still consequences. It was that instant recognition of a crisis which a reporter feels when he sees a man led out for death, and which makes his pulse gallop like a race-horse while his trained observation, like a cool jockey, sits firmly with an eye for every motion and awake to every detail of the pict-

As had been said before, the door of the hall opened quietly and Count Meagher walked into the room as the game was proceeding amid good humor and laughter. Colonel Hamilton had just lost on the queen, and, replacing the stake, he said:

"I am too old a man to be fortunate with the ladies, and therefore I shall copper the queen to lose, Mr. Dealer."

All the players and most of the spectators were gathered around Col. Hamilton, who had his back turned to the hall door. All of them laughed as he made the bantering remark. By this time Count Meagher had advanced a dozen steps towards the table. His quick eye had comprehended the meaning of the group. He did not look at Mr. Forrest or at me. He was advancing thus, easily, confidently, smilingly, when suddenly like a piercing draught of winter penetrat-ing a glowing room, the hard, irritating voice of Major Kilgore demanded above the hum of good humor:

"What! Is that man permitted here?" Instantly there was a hush.

"What!-Is that man permitted here!" he said again, not interrogatively alone, but with indignant and scornful surprise in the tone.

Every smile vanished; all present looked up inquiringly at Major Kilgore, and then, following his scornful look, saw Count Meagher in the middle of the room. I saw the smile fade from Meagher's face. With a lightning glance that comprehended instant-ly the situation, as his careless glance had comprehended the occupation of the group, he stopped, instantly, under a chandelier.

Then Major Kilgore arose from his chair, with his nervous hands at work. and, looking at the gentleman inquiringly asked again:
"Does the Jefferson Club, gentlemen, . . . permit that man to

And, that there might be no doubt as to the man he meant, he leveled his finger straight at Count Meagher, as

As if by instinct, to avert or delay the catastrophe of a serious situation that nobody fully understood, several gentlemen moved towards Count Meagher and others towards Major Kilgore. As they approached the Count he stepped aside to cast a look of inveterate defiance at Major Kilgore, and called out to him-"Do I understand, sir. that you are speaking of me?" . a informa-

"I am asking . . of gentlemen, sir," returned Major Kilgore. "I have not addressed you." The old major's voice was as cold as lead and his words as direct as bullets | toward Meagher. answered: fiv. He stood as erect as an athlete, as rigid as stone, his nead thrown back with an air of contempt, and fine scorn in every line of his face. His fingers were playing with the lapels of his coat, and his eyes were flaming.

As he spoke, the few persons who had moved towards each adversary went nearer to them, as if still inclined to interpose. One of the party near the forgotten table of pleasure sought to penetrate the mystery of the situation.

"Why, Major Kilgore," he asked, deprecatingly, "what is the matter with Count Meagher?"

"Is his name Meagher?" retorted the Major, as coldly and raspingly as possible. "I have given him no name, sir . Perhaps you are better . informed than I am, sir. . .

But that," pointing again over the in-tervening heads directly at Count Meagher's pale face and gleaming eyes, "that is the man I mean."

"You do?" returned Count Meagher. "Then I mean you when I say you are a miserable fool, and that you are impertinent, and that if these gentlemen will give us the room we can deal with each other."

He held his hat in his hand. As he spoke he tossed it to one side across the room and with a deft motion of his hand was about to draw a revolver from his hip pocket. But those who were intent upon averting the catastrophe were as quick as he. They seized him and prevented him from drawing the weapon, and others came to their assistance. Count Meagher seemed to fear hostility in this, and struggled to free himself. But he was overcome, and the weapon, taken from his hand. In the mean time, Major Kilgore had not moved from his place, nor had his face abated a jot of the coldness and contempt that it expressed. Two gentlemen had laid hands upon him, also, in abundant caution. To these he said. "Gentlemen, I am not armed." "Gentlemen," said the speaker, "will some of you kindly lock the doors?"

This was done, and then addressing himself to Major Kilgore, he continued: "As a member of the Governing Board of this club, I feel that I have a right to ask Major Kilgore the meaning of the serious words he has directed at Count Meagher, also a member."

There was a silence to hear the reply.
"I have directed no words at Count Meagher," said the Major, laying emphasis on the name. "I spoke of that man!" And again he pointed with a glance of contempt at the Count, whose face, now pale and set, was a mask of defiant hatred. "I do not know his name. . . . It may be Count Meagher here, . . . as it was Jack Quinn at San Francisco . . . or may have been other aliases . as a professional gambler and sharper needed . . . the protection of disguise!" "It is a lie!" cried Count Meagher, leaping from the hands that held him and starting toward Major Kilgore, who instantly advanced to meet him. Both men were held back by those who had thrown themselves between the antagonists.

Major Kilgore's accusation had fallen like a bomb-shell, and every eye, that bad turned on Count Meagher as the

"I have proof of the truth of my statements . . . in my friend Colonel Buckley Hamilton, . . . San Francisco, . . . whom all of you must know . . . by reputation as a gentleman. . . . For him I am responsible to the club . and to the members of the club. Col. Hamilton recognized . . . that man . . . this morning distinctly." . that

As he spoke Colonel Hamilton's name that gentleman came out from the group and stood beside Major Kilgore. Count Meagher gave him one look of implacable hatred, and then fastened his eyes upon the Major, who, waving his hand towards Colonel Hamilton, stepped aside.

"We all know Colonel Hamilton," said the Governor, "well enough by reputation and in person to accept him among gentlemen as worthy of fullest credence.—This is all true, Colonel Hamilton?" he concluded interrogatively a significant way of putting the question.

"And more," answered Colonel Hamilton, promptly. "He was Jack Quinn in 'Frisco, and Jack Quinn in the army who was a run-down from a good old New Orleans family, but I did not know him then. But this Jack Quinn here I did know in 'Frisco, and he was a 'skingambler.' I told Major Kilgore of it, and I say again that it's Jack Quinn -and you know you are, Jack!"

The Colonel appealed innocently enough to Meagher, who stood without a tremor on his face, erect as a soldier, and coolly waiting for the story to end.

"Mr.-Meagher," said the Governor turning to him, "you are a member of the Jefferson Club, and you have a right to be heard. Do you care to say anything now, or would you prefer to wait until the matter is heard by the board? For, I take it, it must be heard, and, as a member of the board, I shall report it for investigation. But in the mean time, as a member, you have a right to be heard by all these gentle-men who have listened to the other

He was pale and deliberate under the scrutiny of those two dozen eyes, but he was prompt to answer. Bowing to the Governor, he said:

"I am a stranger in this town, although I have many acquaintances. I have been here a year, and I have paid my way. I ask any gentleman here if I have not paid like a gentleman, or if he knows anything that I have done in that time which was unworthy. I am not to be catechised here or elsewhere, for that matter-as my honor, except to those having the right. But I will say this much of you Colonel Hamilton-and I leave it to those who know me to say whether I am a man of my word—that I never saw him in my life before last night. and that, old man as he is, he should know better than to gamble and to lie. And I will be pleased to repeat this anywhere else." This retort was straight into Colonel Hamilton's teeth. It caused a flutter and a sensation, in the midst of which the Colonel smiled, and stepping a pace

"Inat's all right, Jack; you are brave enough, and if you were not such a sconndrel I'd give you a chance to say it elsewhere.

"Does it occur to you, gentlemen," Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and reasked Meagher at this moment, "that Major Kilgore is drunk and irresponsi-

"It occurs to me," retorted the Governor, turning a withering glance upon him, "that this has gone quite far enough. I know Major Kil-gore very well. He is quite responsi-ble for all he says. I think you better go—Mr. Quinn."

There was a moment of dead silence. Count Meagher, being released, adjusted his disordered dress deliberately, buttoned his long frock-coat carefully across his breast, brushed his sleeve, looking intently at his hand as he did so, and seeming all the time to be meditating something to say. walked to one side of the room, where he had thrown his hat, recovered and smoothed it with his silk handkerchief, placed it upon his head, and hesitated for a moment as he looked at Major Kilgore, who, exhausted, had sunk into a chair, where he was surrounded by friends. Then Count Meagher turned on his heel and walked to the

"I shall send your pistol to your hotel," called out the Governor, as Meagher stopped while the door was un-locked and opened.

"I shall be in luck to get it!" was his last contemptuous retort, flung in the face of all, as he turned his back and walked out into the hallway and disappeared from view.—From the; Passing of Major Kilgore in Lippincott's Magazine.

Well-Disciplined Ducks.

Blackwood has a good account of a journey of 1,200 miles up the Yang-se-Kiang full of description and leaving on the mind the impression that China, besides being one of the most original of civilized countries, must be one of the most beautiful. The following passage may raise in some fowl-breeders a new appreciation of Chinese skill in disciplining their feathered flocks:

"During our stay at Hankow we visited a duck farm. The process of keeping the ducks is simple. A large wooden shed stands near the edge of the river, where the owner of the farm or an employe spends the night with his feathered friends. There must have been several thousand of ducks in the farm we visited. Before sunrise the door of the shed is opened, and out run the ducks, scrambling, one over the other into the river, where they spend the day feeding. As soon as sunset approaches, from all parts of the river they come, for they wander far among the rushes and islands during the day, and there is still more hurry and scurry to get into the shed than there was to get out at dawn. The reason is simple. Immovable by the door sits the Chinaman, a long cane in his hand, and woe betide the last duck to enter, for down on its back comes the long bamboo with a paininflicting thud. In this way punctualty is insured among the ducks." Children could hardly have learned their lesson better than the ducks.

Grown People. The number of adults in the United States on the basis of a supposed present population of 64,500,000 (62,622,-250 in 1890) are calculated to be 42,-500,000. Of these about 21,000,000 may be supposed to be adult women, 21,500,000 adult men and the rest (22,-000,000) minors.

Following Instructions.

The spirit of implicit obedience is always to be commended in a child, even though the too literal interpretation of instructions may occasionally have an unexpected and amusing result.

Mabel, a very circumspect and conscientious young maiden of 4, was sent into the parlor to entertain a caller for a few minutes until her mother ably arrangek for its purpose. could appear.

The conversation drifted to Mabel's intellectual acquirements, and the visitor asked: "And do you know the alphabet, Mabel?"

"Yes, ma'am." "Well, will you say it for me?" Mabel began very glibly, but after three or four letters she stopped abruptly and said: "If you please, ma'am, I guess I'd better not."

"Why?" asked the other in surprise. "What makes you think you had better not?"

"Cause," replied this exceptionally discreet young woman, "that's about all I know, and mamma says I mustn't tell all I know."- Youth's Companion.

A man breathes seven hogsheads of air in a day.

Rattled.

A story is going the rounds of a dear old northern general more noted for fighting capacity and goodness of heart than for eloquence, who, at a recent dinner had to propose the tonet of the relieve the lungs, effecting a pergeneral made a rambling but a highly eulogistic speech and concluded by saving:

manent cure in a very short time.

25 and 50 cent bottle for sale by F.

down amid a shout of laughter and pupils. then seeing his mistake he strove to

"Gentlemen," he said, "you must forgive me for the slip I have just made. The toast I wished to propose was: 'Here's to the gallant 126th New York regiment, equal to none."

There was another burst of laughter and the general rose for the third time, but his words were lost in the noise and merriment and the toast was bonored as he had proposed it .- N. Y. Recorder.

The cod bank of Newfoundland is 600 miles long.

Roses in California.

Roses bloom every day in the year in California. Near Hayward there is a rose-bush that covers nearly half an sere of ground.

European travelers and merchants have gathered up all the ancient carpets that were for sale in Persia

"In buying a cough medicine for children," says H. A. Walker, a

A certain cure for Chronic Sore Eyes Tetter, Salt Bheum, Scald Head, Oh Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Prairie Scratches, Sore Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by tafter all other treatment had failed. It is put up in 25 and 50 cent boxes.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corna stope all pain. He. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

Jee Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cou Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50

move your pimples, freckles, blackheads, moth, tan and sunburn, and give you a lovely complexion. 1 This remedy is becoming so well

BREAKFAST

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa. Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor' bills. It is by'the judicious use of such articles of diet that a consitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle "eladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever here is a week point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure bloo' and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Madosi simply with boiling water or milk, Sold only in half-pound tins, by groceries, labelled thur:

JAMES EPPS & DO., Homeopathic Chemist London, England mention. All who have used Elecl tric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do al-that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.— Will drive malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all malarial fevers .- For cure of headache, constipation and indigestion try Electric Bitters.-Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded .-

Church Howe has $100,000 invest ed in his Nemaha county stock farm and has 125 head of trotting horses.

Price 50c and $1 per bottle at F. G. Fricke & Co's drugstore.

Safe and Reliable

prominent druggist of Ogden,

Utah, "never to be afraid to buy lief is always sure to follow. I particularly recommend Chamberlain's because I have found it to be safe and reliable. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum. Fever

Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains,

Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required.

It is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box.

January is gone, yet some papers

Do not confuse the famous Blush of Roses with the many worthless paints, powders, creams and bleaches which are flooding the market. Get the genuine of your druggist, O. H. Snyder, 75 cents per bottle, and I guarantee it will re-

Electric Bitters.

and so popular as to need no special are still publishing those lists of

For sale by F. G. Fricke

marriageable young men.

THE BEST SALVE in the world for Cuts

A Fatal Mistake. Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease" which may be had free of F. G. Fricke & Co., who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles' unequalled new Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headache, fits, etc.

It Should be in Every House.

I. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharps Pa., says he will not be with out Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good Robert Barber, of Cocksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than any. thing he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it Free trial bottles at F. G. Fricke & Co's drugstore. Large bottle, 50c. and $1.00.

The girl's industrial school building at Geneva is Well along toward completion, and is said to be admir-

A Mystery Explained.

The papers contain frequent notices of rich, pretty and educated girls eloping with negroes, tramps and coachmen. The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says all such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very impulsive, unbalanced; usually subject to neadache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, immoderate crying or laughing. These show a weak, nervous system for which there is no remedy equal to Restorative Nervine. Trial bottles and a fine book, containing many marvelous cures, free at F. G. Fricke & Co's., who also sell and guarantee Dr. Miles' celebrated New Heart Cure, the finest of heart tonics. Cures fluttering, short breath, etc.

Cough Following the Crip

Many person, who have recovered from la grippe are now troubled with a persistent cough. Cham-berlain's cough remedy will promptly loosen this cough and

"Here's to the gallant 126th New The principal of the Ulysses York regiment, the last to reach the schools has been arrested on the The principal of the Ulysses tield and the first to leave it." He sat charge of unmetcifully beating his

> Startling Facts. The American people are rapidly becoming a rase of nervous wrecks and the following suggests, the best remedy: alphouso Humpfling, of Butler, Penn, swears that when his son was spechless from st. Vitus Dance Dr Miles great Restorative Nerving cured him. Mrs. J. L.

Miller of Valprai and. J. D. Taolnr, of Logansport, Ind each gained 20 pounds if an taking it. Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vastulr Ind, was cured of 40 to 50 convulsions easy and much aeadach, dizzness, bockach and nervous prostiation by one bottle. Trial bottle and fine boek of Nervous cures free at F. G. Fricke, & Co., who recomends this unequailed remedy.

Ely's Cream Balm is especially adapted as a remeby for catarrh which is aggravated by alkaline dust and dry winds.—W. A. Hover, Druggist, Denver. Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment.

NESS & HEAD NOISES CURED

GRATEUL-COMFORTING

How Lost! How Regained!

Or SELF-PRESERVATION. A new and only Gold Medal PRIZE ESSAY on MERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY, ERRORS of YOUTH, EXHAUSTED VITALITY, PREMATURE DECLINE, and all DISEASES and WEAKNESSES of MAN. 300 pages, cloth, gilt; 125 invaluable prescriptions. Only $1.00 by mail, double sealed. Descriptive Prospectus with endorsements FREE! SEND of the Press and voluntary FREE! SEND testimonials of the cured. Consultation in person or by mail. Repert treatment. INVIOLABLE SECRECY and CERTAIN CURE. Address Dr. W. H. Parker, or The Peabody Medical Institute, No. 4 Builinch St., Boston, Mass.

The Peabody Medical Institute has many imitators, but no equal. — Herald.

tators, but no equal. — Herald.

The Science of Life, or Self-Preservation, is a treasure more valuable than gold. Read it now, every WEAK and NERVOUS man, and learn to be STRONG. — Medical Review. (Copyrighted.)

HENRY BOECK The Leading

FURNITURE DEALER

--- AND--

UNDERTAKR Constantly keeps on hand everythin you need to furnish your house.

CORNER SIXTH AND MAIN STREET

Plattsmouth

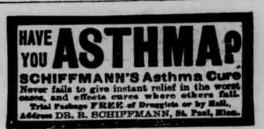

For Atchinson, St. Joseph, Leavenworth, Kansas City, St. Louis, and all points north, east south or west. Tickets sold and baggage checked to any point in the United States or Canada. For INFORMATION AS TO RATES

AND ROUTES Call at Depot or address H, C. TOWNSEND. G. P. A. St. Louis, Mo.

J. C. PHILLIPPL A. G. P. A. Omaha. H. D. APGAR. Agt., Plattsmouth. Telephone, 77.

A REGULAR SCIMITAR

That Sweeps all before it. CLOSELYPACKED Q PEAS IN A POD

very productive, high quality and sugar flavor. Has great staying qualities. Vines 3½ to 4 ft. high. In season follows "Little Gem" and before the "Champion of England." We have thoroughly tested it, and confidently recommend it as the best ever introduced. Price by mail, per packet, 15 cents; pint, 75 cents. GIVEN FREE, IF DESIRED, WITH ABOVE,

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE 1892, which contains several colored plates of Flowers and Vegetables. 1,000 Illustrations.

Over 100 pages 8 x 101/2 inches. Instructions how to plant and care for garden. Descriptions of over 20 New Novelties. Vick's Floral Guide mailed on receipt of address and 10 cents, which may be deducted from first order. AMES VICK'S SONS, Rochester, N.Y.

Mexican Mustang Liniment.

A Cure for the Ailments of Man and Beast.

A long-tested pain reliever.

Its use is almost universal by the Housewife, the Farmer, the Stock Raiser, and by every one requiring an effective

No other application compares with it in efficacy. This well-known remedy has stood the test of years, almost

No medicine chest is complete without a bottle of MUSTANG

Occasions arise for its use almost every day. All druggists and dealers have it.