SPECIAL MARKET LETTER

The following market letter is furnished us by McLAIN BROS. & Co.,

Commission Merchants, Rialto Build-The stock market during the past week has been active and irregular, the securities of grain carrying roads taking the lead and maintaining their position with greater stability than others less favored; increased earnings and the magnitude of the grain movement are the chief governing factors, and as traffic shows no signs of abatement, there are no special reasons for anticipating any decrease in earnings for some time to come

The enhanced value of both railway and industrial stocks, requiring a much larger volume of money to carry them, and the freer movement of funds to the country, is reflected in the sharp decrease in bank reserves and a large increase in loans, with but a nominal increase in deposits. It has been stated by accredited authorities that Europe has during the past four months re-turned to America one hundred and fifty to two hundred millions of dollars in securities; ween this amount is added to the volume to be provided for at enhanced values it affords the incentive for demanding higher interest rates, and suggests the possibility of a wider circulation of gold in the near future. The fact that Europe parts with American securities at a time when many of them promise a dividend for the first time in several years, is indicative of the unfavorable state of affairs abroad, which daily become more apparent. Crop failures and other causes have so pronouncedly interrupted Europe's trade with India that there is an unwelcome decrease in the demand for manufactured goods, and some disturbance in financial affairs. America is particularly interested in the welfare of Europe's toilers this year, because of the shortage in foreign crops, and the abundance of her own, the surplus from which can be sold abroad at high prices unless consumption is decreased through the poverty of prospective buyers. How much the consumption will be reduced on account of higher prices and the want of employment by a large number of consumers is problematical, but it will doubtless be considerable, for, without unusual industrial depression in Europe last year, the decrease on account of a moderate advance in prices, according to Mr. Broomhall, amounted to one and one-half per cent. Our wheat market continues irregular and nervous, the tenor of the news being reflected quickly in its fluctua-tions. It responded sharply to the recent unconfirmed reports of a contemplated reduction in the French duties, and Odessa advices that Austrians were liberal purchasers of Russian wheat; and declined as quickly when the French news was denied, and foreigners were reported as reselling in American markets. with domestic receipts steadily increasing and home-grown foreign wheat available for immediate use, there are no substantial reasons for the control of the filled, unless the movement from Russia sharply decreases, for, with the prospective American exports and liberal Russian shipments in sight supplies will gradually increase; American shipments being assured, those from Russia will determine the price, and as that government fosters agriculture and assists its farmers even to the extent of loaning them money to carry reserves through periods of depression and gives only such crop information as it deems advisable, the only guide to the true situation there is its exports; these, according to the weekly returns, have been increasing, and until they show a tendency to materially decrease, the reports of no exportable surplus will not do to rely upon.

Domestic crop news indicates a larger winter wheat crop than has been reported, and that the spring wheat yield at the Northwest will be large, but under early estimates, with the quality uneven and unsatisfactory. The gov-ernment report, which suggests a yield of but 464,000,000, bu of winter and apring wheat, being about 75,000,000 bu below the most conservative estimate of any recognized private authority, was accorded scant courtesy and exerted no influence on the market, which, despite the stringency which the report if correct would indicate, declined sharply on much less important news.

Corn continues the favorite speculative commodity of the public, and the volume of trade in it is large. Weather conditions have been the chief factor of strength, and while reports of damage from climatic causes are conflicting, the "country" quite generally adheres to the claim of disappointment when husking begins. If the future of this cereal depended wholly on the growing crop the price would doubtless quickly rise; but there are other factors which render the task of lifting it at present a difficult one, the great quantity of old corn on hand being the greatest barrier, for it furnishes immediate supplies in unprecedented volume and, with the advance already sustained, checks the Eastern demand which has for so long absorbed all offerings because of its cheapness. Another adverse influence is the weakness developing in hog products on account of yellow fever, which, if it becomes epidemic, will not only affect pro-visions, but will disturb the market for all other commodities. The government report, indicating a yield of 1,880,000.000 bu, is as much above other estimates as it is under on wheat. the most reliable private guesses being about 1,750,000,000 bu. As the official estimate is based upon data secured before the recent period of excessive heat the discrepancy may be due wholly to the changed conditions upon which the private estimates are based.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada shows the following changes for the past week: Wheat increased 949,000 bu, corn in-creased 2,444,000 bu and oats icreased

Owing to over-crowding and bac ventilation, the air of the school com is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils frequently suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says A. C.
