nothing lost

Scott's Emulsion makes cod-liver oil taking next thing to a pleasure. You hardly taste it. The stomach knows nothing about it—it does not trouble you there. You feel it first in the strength that it brings; it shows in the color of the cheek, the rounding of the angles, the smoothing of the wrinkles. It is cod-liver oil digested for you, slipping as easily into the blood and losing itself there as rain-drops lose themselves in the ocean.

What a satisfactory thing this is—to hide the odious taste of cod-liver oil, evade the tax on the stomach, take health by surprise.

There is no secret of what it is made of—the fish-fat taste is lost, but nothing is lost but the taste.

Perhaps your druggist has a substitute for Scott's Emulsion. Isn't the standard all others try to equal the best for you to buy?

Some days ago a letter was received from him by his brother, who went to Michigan and brought him back home today. He claims that he can remember scarcely anything about leaving home, where he has been or what he has done since. He says, however, that he has been at work most of the time since he left Omaha and was at work when his brother went after him. It was only a few days since that he awoke to a realization that he was away from home, at which time he immediately wrote his brother. He also says that it was worry over his work that unbalanced his mind.

The Crete Gold Fields.

CRETE, Neb., Oct. 6.—John H. Gruben, who went to St. Louis some three weeks ago with a car load of dirt from the Muff farm to have the same smelted and assayed, returned last evening very much pleased over the results of the trip. The dirt run between $16 and $17 worth of bullion per ton, according to the assays at the St. Louis Refining company. Considerable delay was caused in smelting on account of a lack of water and Mr. Gruben was compelled to leave before all was run through, about five tons left to smelt. He brought with him a small chunk of the bullion as a sample, which he prizes highly. As soon as a report is received from the remaining five tons of dirt and an accurate statement obtained from the entire car load, work will begin in earnest and a large smelter put up. Many of the doubting ones who were inclined to ridicule the idea at first, have now changed and think the dirt to be good paying property. Mr. Gruben's report has occasioned quite a flurry of excitement and everyone is anxiously awaiting future developments.

Surprised Brother Venner. Tuesday was W. H. Venner's birthday, but he thought little of the event and in the evening at his usual hour he began to undress for the night, just at this moment a knock was heard at the door which he answered, and to his utter discomfiture the whole neighborhood seemed represented, and the people were not slow in getting in the house. Mr. Venner was chagrined when he thought of his bare feet and the crowd which laughed heartily at his expense. He was allowed to arrange his toilet and listen to the songs and speaking of those present, a neat program having been arranged. A nice supper was served later on, and a delightful evening was spent. Among the guests present were the following gentlemen and their families: Robt. Probst, W. B. Porter, jr., Z. W. Cole, Silas Long, Olin Cole and Ramsom Cole. It was a general crowd, but it would have a good time any where, and Mr. Venner is in luck to have such neighbors.

The Best Remedy For Rheumatism. (From the Fairhaven, N. Y., Register.)

Mr. James Rowland of this village writes that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time she was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

Sounds Fishy.

A little rat-terrier dog belonging to Col. P. J. Hand, of this city, followed a rabbit into a hole in the hillside about two weeks ago, and in digging threw the dirt behind him, filling up the passage way out, says the Nebraska City News. Then he began to dig, trying to get out. Twelve days he worked, feasting on the rabbit between times. On the twelfth day he emerged from the hole, a mere shadow, but still full of grit. After several good meals he was himself again.
