

REPORT IS CONFIRMED.

F. E. White Telegraphs War Department for Information.

Report that Guy Livingston was killed in Confirmed—Lost His Life in the Engagement at Manila and the Government Has Arranged for the Shipment of His Body.

F. E. White telegraphed to G. D. Meikiejohn, assistant secretary of war, in regard to the reported death of Guy Livingston. The report was confirmed by the war department, it being stated that the unfortunate soldier met death in the engagement at Manila, but did not give the date and it is not known whether it was Saturday evening or Sunday.

It is expected that his body will arrive here in about a month.

Henry Guy Livingston was born in Plattsmouth November 11, 1868. He was a graduate of the Plattsmouth High school and of the law department of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He was a kind-hearted young man and a true friend and there was probably not a young man in the city who enjoyed a larger circle of friends.

In Memoriam

Resolved, That the members of Cass Campaign, No. 332, M. W. A., unite in expressing deep and profound regret on account of the death of our esteemed Neighbor, Fred Longenhagen.

Resolved, That we deplore his death and mourn the loss we sustain; and for the benefit of his sorrowing parents we call to mind his uniform kindness and courtesy.

Resolved, That in his death his parents have lost a kind and loving son, and our lodge one of its esteemed, beloved and honored Neighbors.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Longenhagen, and that a copy be sent to each of the daily papers for publication, and that a copy be spread upon the records of the lodge.

D. B. SMITH, GEO. A. HAY, WALTER H. EDGE, Committee.

A Wonderful Turnout.

One of the daintiest turnouts in the world, we are told by a San Francisco friend, belongs in this city to a 2-year-old girl, Ada Wegener. Her team consists of six of the handsomest cocker spaniel dogs ever seen, every one of them thoroughbreds from the tips of their sensitive noses to the ends of their cropped-off tails.

Champion Havoc, Dufferin Pastime, Polly Pastime, Peg Woffington, all of them black, and Colorado and Tootsy, W. red cocker spaniels, make up the distinguished personnel of this team.

Occasionally La Paloma and another dog have been added to it, making an eight-in-hand. Little Miss Wegener's uncle, Louis Haaf, who trained the dog, declares that it took but four or five weeks to break them to harness.

He invariably accompanies the little wagon, and can turn the team to right or left, or entirely around by a single word to the leaders. The animals are always eager to be "hitched up," and break into wild capers at the sight of wagon and harness.

Cheap Labor

May be all right in its place, but there is none of it employed in the manufacture of any of Otto Wuri's cigars. The fame of his "Gut Heil" and "Wuri Bros." brands is not confined to the state of Nebraska alone. All the leading dealers sell (not keep) them. Try them.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Herbin's perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood. Price 50 cents. F. G. Fricke & Co.

Public Sale

The undersigned will sell at public auction at the F. G. S. O. farm, three miles northwest of Plattsmouth, on Thursday, February 16, 1899, at 10 o'clock, the following goods and chattels, to-wit:

The sale will consist of twenty head of horses, about forty head of hogs, cattle, all kinds of farm implements, hay in stack, a feed grinder, buggies, wagons, carpenter and blacksmith tools, thirty-eight stands of bees and many other articles. W. D. Jones will act as auctioneer.

LAWRENCE STULL, Administrator of the estate of Fred Stull, deceased.

Costumes For the Ball

A gentleman will be down from Omaha Saturday morning with a full supply of costumes for the Turner mask ball. Anyone desiring costumes should call at John Kihland's, one door west of the Turner hall.

LOUISVILLE ITEMS.

Bleak breezes blight bright blossoms. Ben Metzger was at Springfield last Saturday.

John Ahi was an Omaha visitor on Wednesday.

C. E. Twiss was attending court at Plattsmouth Wednesday.

Wm. Johnson went to Plattsmouth Wednesday to pay his taxes.

W. A. Amos was attending court at Plattsmouth Wednesday.

Twenty-four degrees below zero Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Byron Clark of Plattsmouth was in town last Tuesday on legal business.

Ed McNeally has been laid up for the past week with a boil on his left hand.

The L. O. O. F. lodge at this place look in a large number of new members last Monday night.

Who stole Ruby's wheelbarrow? He swears by all the horned toads that he will never load another tool again.

Mrs. Sadie Church of Lincoln, formerly of this place, paid a visit to her many old-time friends here this week.

Twenty-two degrees below is a little too cold for the local pen pusher to get very far from the fire these cold days.

Why not elect our senators by the vote of the people? That would do away with all this bush-whacking business at Lincoln.

We had quite a smallpox scare last Saturday evening. Everybody, to even the old maids, were scared but it was only a fake report.

There has been a good many people this week that got a nose or an ear frozen, and some have had frozen feet.

It has been a good many years ago that we had a winter as cold as this one.

Owing to the cold weather the first part of the week, the farmers were kept pretty close home, for if there is anything that a farmer enjoys in the winter time it is to sit close to a red-hot stove and make his pipe of peace.

We have it from good authority that there will be a nice two-story brick with a forty-eight foot frontage and eighty feet long, that will be built this spring on the vacant lots that lie between Brown's drug store and E. C. Twiss' meat market. Let the good work go on.

Who said the Nebraska soldiers were cowards? From their action last Sunday it shows that they are made of sterner stuff. Perhaps Germany wants to pit her drilled and posted soldiers against Uncle Sam. If she does there surely will be a hot time in Germany.

Miles Drake is an odd fellow. Last Saturday evening Miles went to Springfield to assist the local camp of Odd Fellows there in some funny work. Miles attempted to pull a moving train off the track by waiting until the engine came along and catching hold of the last hand-hold.

But the train was going at a very good speed and jerked Miles around very suddenly, shaking him up so badly that he was confined to his room for several days.

A very nice sight was witnessed last Sunday at a business house on Main street. That was seeing married men and also some young men go into a certain business house for the one purpose of gambling. Now don't that look nice for a set of men in broad daylight to go in a front door and pull down the blinds and lock the door and then for a social game!

Gambling is getting to be too common in our town, and steps are on foot now to break up the gang, or some one will die trying. The money spent in that game could have been used at home to good advantage.

WEEPING WATER NOTES.

The city schools will be open again next week, as quarantine was raised on Monday last.

Attorney J. L. Root of Plattsmouth was in Weeping Water on business between trains Monday.

A L. Timblin of Nebraska City was in Weeping Water on business Tuesday evening of this week.

Sirs Finney and Mosier, who have been quarantined on account of their having been exposed to smallpox, are out again and are glad that they are free.

See Mrs. H. D. Travis as Aunt Beckie, a maiden lady, whose one aim in life is to benefit cats. At White's Hall Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Sweeping

"Mrs. Higgins, I never saw a woman sweep into the parlor with such stateful grace as your lovely daughter." "I wish my daughter would sweep out the parlor occasionally, and the dining-room and bedrooms as well."—Tit Bits.

Cure for Elephantiasis

The Venezuelan Herald announces that the natives of Calcutta on the frontier of Venezuela and Colombia, have discovered a cure for elephantiasis in an herb called tutua, or frailejon. This dreadful disease has hitherto been regarded as incurable, and if there be any truth in the report from Calcutta, which is vouched for by a priest, the information may prove of great value to the medical world.

RICH PEOPLE'S CHARITY.

The Reason It Sometimes Makes Their Friends Smile.

The woman who has many beneficiaries on her list of people to look out for never fails to think of them, even though she may be away for a vacation, says the New York Times. So a New York woman, meeting a rich matron last summer, was ready to accuse her of anything that might be true.

There were some old shoes which were too shabby for her children to wear, and as she didn't know what to do with them, the woman of many good works immediately put in a claim for them. Of course, she could have them; the woman would be only too glad if they could do some really good service, and they were handed over in a day or two.

The New York woman took them with delight, but as she looked at them real tears gathered in her eyes, for in them she saw an epitome of the selfishness of the rich for the poor—for these little ones with whom she was striving so hard trying to make clean, thrifty citizens. From every pair of those boots every button had been ripped. It is not only the women who show these little traits of meanness in giving. It was a man who was deploring the ungratefulness of the world at large and the thanklessness of the recipients of other's bounty.

"But they are not all ungrateful," he said the other day, talking on his favorite topic. "There was a woman who came to my office the other day"—this is an office in one of the busy parts of the city, where there are no large office buildings and numerous scrub women—"and she was truly grateful. I was really sorry for her," he went on pompously. "Poor thing, she had hardly a shoe to her foot, the soles were fairly oily. Well, I let her scrub my office floor and wash the windows, and then I gave her a quarter. And you should have seen how thankful she was. Poor woman, she must have been destitute. She had done a lot of hard cleaning for a mere pittance, taken herself away to in the cold with her poor, unprotected feet, paid 5 cents for car fare, perhaps, to go home, and had money enough then for a few bowls of soup, and was grateful." And the man, figuratively patting himself upon the back, exclaimed joyfully: "Oh, what a great man am I!"

THE DUTCH SABBATH.

The Christian Strictly Trained to Observe It.

In studying the changes which the map of the world has undergone in the course of the last 200 years, it must often have seemed a puzzle why the Netherlands, with all their colonial enterprise, could never hold their own against their British and French rivals. "New Amsterdam" and the names of the Hudson river, Harlem and the Catskills still commemorate their presence in eastern North America. All Australia was once known as New Holland. Netherland colonists settled southern Africa from the cape to the valley of the Zambesi; but, with the exception of Java and a remnant of their former share of Guiana, all their transmarine possessions have slipped out of their hands. The natives of their colonies, as a rule, preferred any other masters. Yet in some points Myneer cannot be called an illiberal bigoted. As a traveler he is open-handed, an indulgent skipper and generous patron of artists and bric-a-brac dealers. Dutch heroism in defense of national independence twice stood before the fire ordeal of a life and death struggle against aggressors of portentous power. But visitors of Holland-American settlements soon realize the fact that the dogmatic conservatism of that plucky race transcends anything lingering in Scotland or Upper Canada. From Saturday midnight till Monday morning Myneer Van Kerken's youngsters are kept under strict surveillance to prevent the possibility of their getting a minute's fun indoors or outdoors, and United States postoffice commissioners not long ago investigated the case of an old lady with a Friesland name and a suburban postoffice who declined to admit letter-carriers at the end of a week to obviate the obligation of distributing their mail the next forenoon. A similar state of affairs prevails in cosmopolitan Johannesburg. Sixteenth-century by-laws are enforced without resources of appeal, and rather than run the risk of innovations, the aldermen voted to disfranchise 60,000 Uitlanders, who pay four-fifths of the city taxes. Yet those same nationalists claim to represent the only free portion of the Dark Continent.

Fashion's Big Game.

Big game is said to be extraordinarily plentiful in the region of Fashoda. The river swarms with crocodiles and hippopotami, while great herds of antelopes of various kinds and giraffes are frequently met with. The latter fact is particularly interesting, as most of the zoological gardens in the world are in want of a specimen of the North African giraffe, which they have been unable to obtain, owing to the closing of the Central Sudan for so many years.

THE LIFE OF A WATCH. Depends greatly on the care which the owner bestows upon it. A good watch, if CAREFULLY CLEANED and OILED once a year, as it should be, will last a lifetime; yes, a hundred years. Many good watches are allowed to go without cleaning and oiling for years, with the result that the oil is entirely dried up, the pivots are out and rusted out, so that it costs twice as much to put the watch in proper condition again as it would if given timely attention. I have a long established reputation for serving my customers carefully, as well as doing the best work. If your watch is not giving satisfaction, bring it to me and I will tell you just what it needs. No charge for examination, and if left with me, I guarantee that you shall have an accurate and reliable TIME-PIECE.
