"Would you consider troops" asked Robertson, "that federal troops force men at the point of the bayonet to protect the property of the mine owners and that similar protection be withheld from the men?" "I would use just as much power and just as much influence," replied Gen. Merriam, "to have mine owners observe their obligations as to compel the mine men to observe theirs."

General Corrects an Interview.

General Merriam was questioned as to an interview representing that at a meeting of the citizens in the Coeur d'Alene he stated that Congress should pass a law to deal with unions as criminal organizations. He said he was glad of the opportunity to correct the errors of this alleged interview. He had not, he said, mentioned Congress, nor did the interview so state. He stated that what he had said at that meeting was in substance, "You ought to have a conspiracy law which makes the action of these people—as narrated by Mr. Sovereign in his paper—criminal, punishable by law." He also stated that the remedy for the trouble was in the state.

Charge That Was Made by Gomers.

"Did not Mr. Gomers at Denver charge you with making the statement?" asked Robertson. "I never saw Mr. Gomers in my life," answered General Merriam. "Robertson stated that in an address at Denver Gomers had made a charge of this character," General Merriam said he had repeatedly stated that he never pronounced the unions of the Coeur d'Alene district criminal organizations. To Representative Disk Merriam said he did not disapprove labor organizations, but for like other social and charitable organizations they accomplished much good within their legitimate sphere. He also had engaged under contract twenty experts in lace making, and his purpose in seeing the treasury officials was to learn whether there would be any legal objection to their coming into the country.

He Was Informed by the Secretary that the contract labor laws of the United States made specific exception in the cases of workmen to be employed in an industry new to this country, and as lace-making undoubtedly was a new industry here there could be no objection to his bringing over the men he had engaged. Dr. Dowle stated that he had 20,000 acres of land near Waukegan, where his lace plant would be established for the benefit of the members of his church community, and he expected to make the enterprise very profitable.

The place of honor was given to the Canadians, who advanced very cleverly under their dancing commander, Colonel Otter. The Boers reserved their fire until the Canadians had reached the top of the kopjes. Then they opened with a terrific hail of bullets. The Canadians, however, had taken good cover, and were not greatly damaged. They were able to support the assault by the Grahamstown Horse. Successive rushes brought them right up to the kopjes, when Colonel Otter was struck twice, one bullet inflicting a nasty but not dangerous wound in the arm and the other one damaging his clothes. Philadelphia, April 30.—Interest has been aroused in the approaching Populist national convention which will be held in Cincinnati May 9, owing to the possibility of that party turning its back upon W. J. Bryan. According to Wharton Barker, of this city, who has received the endorsement of some of the Populist state conventions for president, there will be between 800 and 1,500 delegates at the Cincinnati convention, the majority coming from the south, west and central west. Asked as to the effect of his nomination for the presidency by the Populists on Bryan's candidacy Barker said: "There can no longer be a doubt in the mind of any one who considers the situation that at least 1,500,000 of the 1,000,000 Populist votes cast for Mr. Bryan in 1896 will this year be lost to him and cast for the presidential candidate of the People's party. The Democrats will probably give the nomination to some one else and thus invite the gold Democrats back into the fold."

Barker Scouts His Has Hopes.

Barker scouted the idea of a strong opposition to President McKinley at the Republican convention in this city. He asserted that the president's friends control the machinery of the party and that he would be renominated. Barker says he thinks the Populists have a fighting chance to win the presidential fight, with McKinley, Bryan and Barker as the candidates he believes the former will win, but with Bryan not in the race McKinley's prospects would be less bright. "I think," said Barker, "Bryan is the man the Republicans would like nominated."

The respective tickets this year will be headed by the same men as in 1890—McKinley and Bryan. It is my candid opinion that should Admiral Dewey run as an independent candidate he will draw more votes from McKinley than from Bryan. As between Bryan and Dewey no true Democrat would vote for Dewey, for it is well known that Dewey is a Republican."
