The Woodmen do whatever they undertake to do, well; that is the way in which they managed a reception last Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Radtke who are soon to leave for their future home in Waukomis, Okla. The lady woodman assisted the Woodman proper in the exercises of the evening with the result that everyone had a royal good time; the spread was excellent and there was an air of general good feeling among those present, dulled somewhat by the fact that they are so soon to lose this estimable family from their midst. Both Mr. and Mrs. Radtke known for their spirit of hospitality and good will and it is with much regret that we see them leave Cass county. We trust, however that they will like their new home in the south-land and we are sure that they will enjoy the esteem of their neighbors there in the same full measure they had here. Mr. Radtke will hold a sale of his effects next Monday, Jan., 25th and they ship out soon after.

Many of our citizens who read with interest the proceedings of the trial of the night riders in Tennessee, are not aware that the prosecuting attorney whose eloquent appeal to the conviction of eight of the night riders, is Attorney Victor Hal Holmes. He is the Victor who served in the Spanish-American war and was severely wounded. He studied law here and was later admitted to practice. He headed the movement of those who captured the night riders, and as prosecuting attorney is making a bitter fight against such lawlessness. It is said the night riders will get him and have made threats to that effect.

Talks of Early Days.

L. H. Young, of Nehawka, was in the city Thursday attending court, and took occasion to make the News-HERALD office a most pleasant visit. Mr. Young came to Cass county forty-two years ago from Ohio making the entire distance by water—down the Ohio and up the Mississippi and Missouri—the trip taking twenty-one days. He relates many interesting reminiscences of the three long weeks, and says that "snipe hunting" in the timber by night was a favorite relaxation of the crew when chance furnished them a victim. Mr. Young's son-in-law, John Perry, is making preparations to remove to Canada in the spring. He will go with Will Murlin, an account of an injury to whom was given in our Weeping Water news last week. It seems that we were in error in saying that Mr. Murlin's team ran away, causing the accident. The jar caused by the wagon coming in contact with the telephone wire and them being suddenly released caused Mr. Murlin to lose his balance and fall, the team not running away at all. We are glad to note that he has been removed to his home from the hospital and is getting along nicely.

BENEFIT HUMANITY

Modern Woodman Fight White Plague By Conducting Sanitarium For Members.

At the December meeting of the Executive Council of the Modern Woodmen Society, held at the headquarters of the Society in Rock Island, Ill., it was decided to conduct that Society's sanitarium, located at Colorado Springs, Colo., for the treatment of members afflicted with tuberculosis, free of all charge to members.

The Modern Woodmen Society, several months since, acquired 1,350 acres of land within seven miles of Colorado Springs, and has established thereon an up-to-date sanitarium, the tent colony plan being employed. The first colony plan was ready for the reception of patients on Jan. 1, and is equipped to care for 60 patients, to which number admissions must be limited for the present.

The tents are octagonal structures, with shingle roofs, canvas sides, hard wood floors on solid cement foundations, heated by a central plant, equipped with all modern conveniences, such as telephones, etc., and each tent will accommodate one patient. An administration building for physicians, nurses, dining hall, baths of all kinds, etc., stands in the center of the colony.

Dr. J. E. White, formerly of the Nordrach ranch sanitarium, the medical director in charge, states that only those consumptive members who are curable, or whose lives may be prolonged for a considerable length of time, will be admitted as patients. The wisdom of this rule is apparent. Rigid medical examination as a condition precedent to admission will be insisted upon in every case, and special blank forms have been prepared for this purpose.

It is expected that another colony of 60 tents will be ready by July, 1909, and that acceptable patients will be ready to occupy it in full by that time. A movement is already under way to equip the second colony plant. Each tent, completely equipped, represents an expense of $250, and a number of local camps, or lodges, of the society have decided to donate tents. As there are over 13,000 local camps of Modern Woodmen, and over 1,000,000 members, it is anticipated that several colonies will soon be equipped in this way.

The members of the local camps of the society have voluntarily contributed to the sanitarium fund over $70,000, and at the last national convention a permanent tax of ten cents per member was voted to the support of this work.

The last official Woodmen reports show that during the years 1891-1907, inclusive, 14.5 per cent of the total mortality, or 5, 156 deaths, were charged to tuberculosis, and that 13.9 per cent of the total insurance losses in those years, or $9,065,000, resulted from this cause. As the mortality experience of the Modern Woodmen Society has been remarkably favorable, being but 70 per cent of the expected at all ages under the National Fraternal congress table, a death rate of but 6.29 per 1,000—or but 4.98 per 1,000, if the experience of the first five membership years be included—the much heavier insurance losses inflicted upon other societies experiencing a higher mortality may be conservatively approximated.

Which prompts this question: If the Woodmen Society, with its exceptionally favorable mortality, finds it to be "good business," as well as good fraternalism, to fight consumption in this way, why should not other fraternal societies, life insurance companies, labor organizations, the national and international church bodies, etc., find it profitable, from the viewpoint of business or benevolence, or both, to take such action?

Each life saved to the Woodmen Society, by means of this sanitarium, will, it is stated, represent a saving of $1,700—the average amount of the Woodmen policies in force—at an expense for treatment of approximately one-twentieth of that sum. In the broader sense, each life saved means the preservation to the family of its head and bread-winner, and to the state of a useful, self-sustaining citizen.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy

You can take my word for it—whatever a fellow hopes to be, he will be, unless he gets on the wrong car. Whenever I hear one those worldly wise chaps using that expression, "Where do I get off?" I always feel like edging up and saying, "Put him off at Plattsmouth because he will then know just where he is going to get off and we will all know where he is getting off. We know that he will get off better than he expected for the simple reason that we are primed to the muzzle with new goods and we don't care how soon the people know it. Times are improving, business is improving, people are improving, everything is improving except the weather and you can't improve that because it isn't made to be bossed. Have you tried our Plattsmouth brand of M & J coffee? Then you can't go wrong on.
