CHILD HAD SIXTY BOILS,

And Suffered Annually with a Red Scald-Like Humor on Her Head.

Troubles Cured by Cuticura.

"When my little Vivian was about six months old her head broke out in boils. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her entirely. Some time later a humor broke out behind her ears and spread up on to her head until it was nearly half covered. The humor looked like a scald, very red with a sticky, clear fluid coming from it. This occurred every spring. I always used Cuticura Soap and Ointment which never failed to heal it up. The last time it broke out it became so bad that I was discouraged. But I continued the use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent until she was well and has never been troubled in the last two years. Mrs. M. A. Boy at Least Had Combination Somewhere Near Right.

Donald had returned from a visit to the country, and was full of reminiscences of persons and things that had interested him. "I met a boy, mamma," he said, "that had the queerest name I ever heard. He said his folks found it in the Old Testament. It was-it was-let me see-yes, it was Father William, or William Father; I've forgotten just now which. But it was one or the other."

"But, Donald," said his mother, "there is no such name as Father William or William Father in the Old Ttestament."

"Are you sure, mamma?"

"I certainly am, dear. I have read it through several times. William is a comparatively modern name. It isn't anywhere in the Bible."

"Well, but-oh, I remember now!" exclaimed Donald. "It was Bildad!"-Youth's Companion.

Criminality of Waste,

If I wanted to train a child to be thrifty I should teach him to abhor waste. I do not mean waste of money; that cures itself, because very soon there is no money to waste-but waste of material, waste of something that is useful but that you cannot represent in money value to the waster. There is waste of water, waste of gas and things of that kind. If you would wish your children to be thrifty I would beg to impress upon them the criminality of waste.-Lord Rosebery, in an Edinburgh Address,

NO MEDICINE But a Change of Food Gave Relief.

Many persons are learning that drugs are not the thing to rebuild worn out nerves, but proper food is required. There is a certain element in the cereals, wheat, barley, etc., which is grown there by nature for food to brain and nerve tissue. This is the phosphate of potash, of which Grape-Nuts food contains a large proportion. In making this food all the food elements in the two cereals, wheat and barley, are retained. That is why so many heretofore nervous and run down people find in Grape-Nuts a true nerve and brain food.

"I-can say that Grape-Nuts food has done much for me as a nerve renewer," writes a Wis, bride,

"A few years ago, before my marriage, I was a bookkeeper in a large firm. I became so nervous toward the end of each week that it seemed I must give up my position, which I could not afford to do.

"Mother purchased some Grape-Nuts and we found it not only delicious but I noticed from day to day that I was improving until I finally realized I was not nervous any more. "I have recommended it to friends as a brain and nerve food, never having found its equal. I owe much to Grape-Nuts as it saved me from a nervous collapse, and enabled me to retain my position." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Read to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason." Ever rend the above letter? A new

About Mr. Pullman's Cars

Charles Battell Loomis

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman.)

I wonder if anyone knows the name of the man who first invented Pullman cars. I've traveled a great deal and I notice that they call them Pullman cars in every state in the union. And they are all built on the same pattern, too-in order to make a man appreclate the comforts of the home he has

I don't know much about practical things, but I should think that there must have been a good deal of money in that Pullman idea first and last. I doubt if porters get as much as do the people who made the original cars and allowed persons in every state to copy them so accurately.

There's hardly ever any ventilation in them. New inventions come up everywhere, and there are even village improvement societies, but who ever heard of a Society for the Improving of Pullmans?

The only difference between a Chinese opium joint and a Pullman car is the fact that there's no pipe dream about the Pullman. It's the heard that women sometimes snarl at one another in the lavatory and make remarks concerning slowness and selfishness in "hogging" the basin too long.

Men are always hall-fellow-west met while at their toflet operations, and splash water all over everything in the room with the utmost good nature, even walking carefully to avoid lurching into the crank who insists upon shaving with a real razor while the car is going at the rate of 50 miles

I once heard of a drummer who had spent 20 years in the cars of Mr. Pullman, he being an unmarried man. He grew to like their unaired compactness so much that when at last Hymen lit his Pintsch lamp to show the drummer the way to the married state the man felt uncomfortable in the ordinary "large" room of an apartment house, and after fretting and fuming for a week or two he had a little house constructed in exact imitation of a Pullman car.

He was a well-to-do man, and so he was able to pay for the leather-like blankets and the wonderful mechanism that converts a comfortable day seat into a cramped couch. Not only that, but, being of a hospitable nature, he was glad to keep "open house," as he called stuffing his friends into the sleeping boxes. And they do say that he had a carpenter manage so that the floor shook and lurched until one of his guests broke a shoulder-blade from being thrown out of an upper berth.

I know he had an ex-porter for house servant, and that fellow used, from force of habit, to go through that "car" at about five in the morning, just when sleep was most precious, and poke the reclining sleepers with his bony hand, saying: " Are you de

Why, they'd put a stop to that lodging house at once. "Tenement house reform" abolished all those promiscuous and crowded sleeping apartments long ago.

But this Pullman man has never waked up. He seems to have dreamed to himself: "If I can only charge persons a high enough rate and make them believe that my customs are immutable I'll make a success of this

That was his dream. And his dream came true. People of all sexes walk right up to the Pullman office and they hand out two, three, five and ten dollars for the privilege of being laid on a shelf for a night or two.

Will you try to imagine a self-respecting woman in her home going behind a curtain that does not hide her figure and undressing there while three or four strange gentlemen sit in the same room talking or reading magazines?

You know she would refuse to retire in the first place, and if at last, overcome by fatigue, she felt that she had to she would ask the gentlemen if they would retire also-to some other place. And they, being gentlemen, would do so.

But when she enters Mr. Pullman's oblong box with the double row of cubby holes on either side of it and a narrow aisle down between them she is hypnotized, and without thinking of the geatlemen who are sitting reading in the only reservation not yet converted into beds, she "pulls the drapery of her couch around her' and gets ready to go by by as fast as one can who is bumped into every now and then by stout persons woo have just come aboard and who with bags and umbrellas are being conducted to their perches by an oleaginous porter.

In the homes of the mass of American people whose ancestors were living here 150 years ago men do not walk around in their undershirts when ready to perform their morning ablutions. It is considered anything but good form to do such things. But Mr. Pullman changes all this in his enchanted bower on wheels. There, as you, my lady, walk in your dainty kimono to fight for a place among the women who are crowding the lavatory, you meet several stout and frowsy baired men in their nether | Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is something fascinating in the Pullman when you have become used to the abandon and discomfort and stuffiness of it, and after awhile you can dress comfortably without leaving your bed.

I well remember on one occasion seeing the curtains part and from an upper berth came down the ladder an old gentleman in frock coat and wearing a silk hat. Fancy emerging from your bed at home so completely dressed as that! Let us bless Mr.

Is Running the Biggest Printing Office in the World.

Forty-four carloads of paper and five of binder's boards will be required for the next annual edition of the yearbook of the department of agriculture. This is one of the biggest jobs that come every year to the biggest printing office in the world, and the quantities of the various materials required for the great edition of 360,000 copies are staggering. For the covers of these books 62,000 vards of cloth are used and the pages are held together with 9,600,000 yards of thread. When the last volume leaves the bindery, there will have been 21.810 reams of printing and 3,100 reams of plate paper, and 167,-500 pounds of boards for covers. Each book is secured by linen tape sewed on by machines, and 195,000 yards of this material will be used in the edi-

Miss Frances Champion of San Diego, who is here visiting her brother, F. R. Champion of Locust avenue. walks ten miles every day for exercise. She has continued this daily walk for nearly ten months, and says she would not give it up for anything. Rain or shine Miss Champion starts out every morning at eight o'clock and walks until 11 o'clock, in which time she walks about seven miles. This constitutes her morning exercise. In the afternoon she starts at two o'clock and finishes at 3:30.

Miss Champlon is the picture of health. She is five feet tall and weighs about 130 pounds. She says that about a year ago her nerves became shattered. Willing to do anything to regain her health, she decided to try the walking cure. She began gradually, walking at first not more than half a mile. She experimented for two months, increasing the distance as her health would permit, until she finally decided to walk ten miles daily. -Los Angeles Times.

BUT DON'T NEED TO WORK NOW SO HARD.

The experience of the Bisser Bros. reported to every agent of the Canadian Government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere:

"Wheatwyn, Sask., Nov. 6th, 1908. "To the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, Manitoba.-Dear Sir: I, in company with my brother and other relations, arrived in this country in the spring of 1893. At the time we got off the train at Wolseley, Sask., we had only a few dollars, not enough to start farming on our own account, so we were compelled to work out for a considerable time in order to make sufficient money to enable us to establish ourselves. When we thought we had enough money to start with, I and my brother took up one quartersection (160 acres) land each in the Loon Creek district. In 1900 we moved on our homesteads with one team of horses and one walking plow. While I was engaged with the work in the field, my brother built a shack and barn of logs, which we have hauled during the fime we were not able to work in the field. We were certainly working very hard, but I am glad to say that we made our fortune in this country. To-day we do not need to work so hard as we used to, as we have three men hired steady for

"Regarding raising grain, which is the main factor in our district, I am proud to say that we have always had good success. We have raised wheat as high as 35 bushels to the acre; and this year, although we suffered from lack of sufficient rain, our wheat went 27 bushels to the acre, and we had 900 acres in crop. We have broken this year about 100 acres new land, and by next year we will have about 1,110 acres in crop. For one carload of wheat which we have shipped a few weeks ago we got a price of 97 cents per bushel, and it graded as No. 2 Northern, although we have a quantity of wheat which will surely go as No. 1 Northern. During the six years we have been farming for curselves we have never had one frost around here, so that we always had a good crop.

"I, for myself, feel compelled to say that our Great West is the land where four large bas reliefs, emblematic of a person who is willing to work and trun his hands to anything can make a fortune, and a comfortable living. Our country is a thoroughly free country, and we have a good Government; and, as long as we have good crops, and a good Government, we are satisfied, and I think that is all we want. "Yours very truly.

Showing the Right Spirit. A little boy had been naughty at dinner, and had been sent away from the table just as his favorite dessert -cabinet pudding with butter and sugar sauce-was being served. About nine o'clock that evening, when the other children had gone to bed and his parents were alone in the sitting room, a tear-stained little face and a white-robed figure appeared at the door. "Mamma," it said, bravely, between sobs, "you told me never to go to sleep when anything wrong had been done until it was all fixed by right, so I came down to tell you that-that -that-I-forgive you and papa for what you did to me at the dinner table."
