The president is still contemplating calling an extra session of congress in the fall.

CITY ELECTION NEXT Tuesday. Every voter should avail himself of the opportunity to vote for the best man.

The parrot in the New York yard recently expired muttering "Kiss me, Hobson," and Hobson sixty miles away.

IMMIGRANTS are dumped into our capacious maw at the rate of 60,000 a month and there is just fear that our assimilating apparatus may be overworked.

The railroad lobbyists, through their bosses, have finally fixed upon next Tuesday as the day for the adjournment of the Nebraska legislature. So the "tools" will vomitose the ranch on that date. It is well for the people.

SENATOR MORGAN presented a brief platform during the closing hours of the senate. He advocated abolition of existing abuses of the taxing power; free trade with the insular possessions; the abolition of the national debt, and federal control of the trusts.

REPUBLICAN love for reciprocity is demonstrated by the fact that, of all the reciprocity treaties thus far negotiated, only one has been ratified, and that, but partially so, while only one will not have expired by limitation when congress convenes. The one which will remain will be the New Foundland treaty which everyone admits has no chance of being approved.

THE edict has gone forth from the powers that be in the republican party of Nebraska that Deitrich must step down from his lofty position in the U. S. senate at the expiration of his term two years hence to make room for E. J. Burkett. Ye gods and little fishes! Wouldn't that cork you? Those who are next to the scheme say this is a move to get rid of Deitrich and Burkett both. The latter proposition would seem more probable.

Right to the Point.

William J. Stone, the newly elected senator from Missouri, in an interview in Washington the other day defined his position on the political situation. When asked as to the future of the democratic party, he remarked that he preferred not to make prophecies as to the "paramount issues" for 1904. Asked as to the probable make-up of the next democratic presidential ticket Senator Stone replied: "I do not think Mr. Bryan will be nominated, nor do I think he either expects or desires the nomination. If any effort is being made to eliminate him it will fail, for he is still undoubtedly the most commanding individual force in the party. He cannot be eliminated, and any effort in that direction will recoil on those attempting it. The business of 'eliminating' people from the party is not the business I want democrats to engage in. It would be more profitable to get into instead of getting them out of the party. We have plenty of able men who would make safe, conservative presidents, although they might not indulge in such erratic stunts as to tip-toe on some dread expectancy. "The democratic candidate for president must be a democrat who has always supported his party ticket—a party man, who, if elected, would give us a stalwart democratic administration. "It is not necessary that a man should have subscribed unconditionally to every declaration of the Chicago and Kansas City platforms. It is sufficient if he has always stood loyally by his party flag. "Talk of reorganizing the democratic party is puerile and silly. Some men may need reorganizing, but the party does not. "When asked what he thought of the recent talk to the effect that the regular democrats were insisting on too many concessions from gold democrats who wanted to come back into the party, Senator Stone said: "So far as people getting into the party is concerned, I want every one there. It is no question of repentance, sackcloth and ashes. The doors are open and if a man wants to co-operate with the democratic party all he has to do is to get into line with the party. There is no form of doing it that I know of except to do it."

ANOTHER BRIDGE DISASTER.

One Man Killed and Six Others More or Less Injured.

By far the most disastrous accident since the reconstruction on the 1. & M. bridge, was that which occurred between four and five o'clock on Saturday afternoon last, in which one man lost his life and six others injured. When the fact was first heralded upon the streets, it was reported that five or six had been killed and excitement grew intense.

At the time of the accident about fifteen, or perhaps more men were employed in removing the braces from the traveller which towered at least twenty feet above the frame work, preparatory to taking it apart for removal, when, without a moment's warning it broke apart and fell into the river on the west side of the bridge. It seems that Wm. McLellan was on top of the traveller when this happened and he fell into the river a distance, most of the workmen say, of one hundred and sixty feet below. After the unfortunate man fell, some say that he was seen no more after striking the water, while others claim that he arose to the surface and then disappeared as the broken traveller struck him and wedged him in the sand at the bottom of the river. As yet the body has not been recovered although every effort is being made to do so by the use of dynamite and various other ways.

THE OTHERS INJURED.

It appears that Fred Reasner and John Haveland were at work close to young McLellan, but prevented instant death by jumping onto the top cord of the new span of the bridge. They were however struck by a large piece of the broken traveler, and the former had one leg broken and received other severe bruises, while the latter had one foot badly mashed and his left hand and side injured. James Hummel, Charles Erickson, Fred Brust and Irwin Bowers, were less unfortunate, and got off with several bruises, but nothing serious. One other workman, whose name is unknown to the writer, experienced something a little more exciting than the others, and escaped without injury. When he saw that he had to jump he endeavored to do the same as Reasner and Haveland had done, but falling in this, he managed to grab hold of a chain six or eight feet below and thus saved himself.

The work train brought the injured men to town, and they were immediately conveyed the Drs. Livingston office, where they were properly cared for, and from latest reports are getting along as nicely as could be expected under the circumstances.

WILLIAM M'CLELLAN. The home proper of the unfortunate man was at Rulo, Neb., where his parents at present reside, until he came here to work on the bridge. For some time he and his wife occupied rooms in the Old Burlington House. At first he was employed on the bridge when the new pier was being put in and afterwards on the iron works. His father, E. D. McClellan, and also one of his brothers have been employed on the bridge, but the father returned to his home in Rulo several days previous to the terrible death of his son. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved wife and sorrowing parents.

COMPARATIVELY FEW ACCIDENTS.

In an interview with one of the head men in the construction of the bridge, and one who has been employed in such work for many years, stated to us that while our people thought that the accidents which have occurred since the beginning of the work, nearly a year ago, were quite numerous, they had been comparatively few with those that have occurred in the construction of similar bridges. He claims they have been exceedingly lucky so far.

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the needful remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by F. G. Fricke & Co., druggists. Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength. Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

DEATH RECORD.

MRS. PHILIP MEISINGER.

Mrs. Philip Meisinger died at her home, eight miles west of Plattsmouth, on Saturday, March 28, 1903, aged about 20 years. The deceased was a most highly respected lady, loved by all who knew her. The funeral occurred at one o'clock Monday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Sprague from the German Lutheran church. Many friends were present to pay their last sad rites to a noble lady. The deceased had been ill for two months from a complication of diseases.

JOHN FRIEDRICH.

John Friedrich, son of Hon. Martin L. Friedrich, died at his home, nine miles south of Plattsmouth, Saturday evening, March 29, 1903, aged about 18 years. The deceased was taken ill about ten days ago with grippe, which resulted in a complication of other ailments that finally resulted in death. Thus cut down just as he was entering young manhood. His death was a terrible shock to his parents, who have the sympathy of many neighbors and friends in this hour of deep affliction. The funeral took place from the residence at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and interment was made in the Glendale cemetery.

CHARLES DABB.

The death of Charles Dabb, while somewhat surprising at its suddenness, was expected in time, as the disease with which he was afflicted was of that nature that his demise was simply a question of time. His death occurred about one o'clock Sunday morning at the age of about 36 years. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Asa Sleeth from the family residence in this city on Monday afternoon.

The deceased came to Plattsmouth with his parents in 1878, from Elizabeth Port, New Jersey, where he was born, and has been a resident here most of the time since. By profession he was a printer, and was employed at various times on the Journal and News. His illness dates to some time previous to the present managers of Journal coming to Plattsmouth, but ere he was taken to his bed was a frequent visitor to this office. Tommy, as he was commonly called was a noble young man, and his good-natured and social qualities will remain in the memory of those who knew him best. The Journal deeply sympathizes with the parents, brothers and sisters of the deceased.

"Green be the turf above thee, Friend of former days; Now know thee but to love thee, None named thee but in praise."

The employees of the B. & M. coach shops attended the funeral in a body. The pall-bearers were Robt. Hayes, Fred Morgan, Geo. Mann, Fred Back, Chas. Miller and T. S. Clifford.

WINSLAW DAVIS.

The home of Mrs. S. A. Davis is again in mourning, for the second time in less than one year. This time it is over the death of her only son, Winslow, who died of that dread disease diphtheria, which occurred at the home in this city Saturday morning, March 29th, 1903. On account of the disease being of a contagious nature no funeral services were held, but memorial services in honor of the little fellow were held at the M. E. Church on Sunday at 11 o'clock.

The entire community deeply sympathize with the bereaved mother. Less than one year ago, she was called upon to mourn the tragic death of her husband, who was killed by the cars, only a few years previous the death of her eldest son was smothered in an elevator.

Mrs. Davis' grief is almost unbearable, but like the noble, forbearing lady that she is, lives in the hope of meeting her loved ones in the Great Hereafter.

Interment was made in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery on Sunday.

Death of Mrs. Nellie Sulser.

The remains of Mrs. Nellie Sulser, whose death occurred at Kansas City, Tuesday, March 31, arrived here yesterday morning. They were immediately taken to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan White, in Rock Bluffs, where the funeral services were held yesterday afternoon, after which the body was consigned to its last resting place in the Rock Bluffs cemetery. Mrs. Sulser was afflicted in such a manner that an operation became necessary, doubtful as to whether that would save her life. This was done two weeks previous to her death. The Journal extends sympathy to the relatives of the deceased.
