Now You Have Them—Now You Don't.

Last Friday August Johnson, a farmer living five miles north of Plattsmouth, found nine head of horses and six head of cattle in his corn field. He "rounded up" the stock and placed them in a pen for the purpose of keeping them until the owner called and "squared up" for the damages. Another bunch of eight cattle were taken up on the following day in a similar manner. Mr. Johnson got up Tuesday morning to find the lock on the gate broken and all the animals gone. Evidently Mr. Johnson knows who the stock belongs to, but what worries him now is how he is to get his pay for feeding the stock and the damages they done. Further developments are looked for ere the week is over.

"Not Guilty," and Yet in Jail.

About 10 o'clock Monday night the jury decided that William Shepard was not guilty of the charge of burglarly as charged in the indictment. It will be remembered that Shepard was charged with breaking into the M. P. depot at Weeping Water several months since. Shepard's acquittal of this charge did not end the fellow's troubles, as he was immediately taken in charge by the sheriff for a failure to pay a fine assessed against him in a gambling case last spring. He was taken to jail on the order of the court to remain there until said fine is paid, or he lays out the time as the law directs.

Knights and Ladies of Security.

The Journal is requested to make note of the fact that a committee from the Knights and Ladies of Security will be at the basement room in the northwest corner of the court house on Friday afternoon of this week, to receive contributions of clothing or anything else that anyone may feel disposed to give for the benefit of the needy. Garments that your children have outgrown, or that you do not expect to make use of longer, and partly worn garments that can be repaired will be gladly received. Take a little time at once and go through your garrets and closets and lay out what you wish to appropriate in this way, and send the same on Friday afternoon to the court house. If you know of any family in need of clothing direct them to anyone of the following committee, viz: Mrs. J. H. Thrasher, Mrs. C. E. Duke, Mrs. J. M. Leyda, Mrs. Asher Clark, Mrs. Alice Eaton, Mrs. C. H. Smith, F. J. Morgan and R. B. Windham.

Death of Mrs. Pollard.

Mrs. Maude Pollard, wife of Ernest M. Pollard, died at her home in Nehawka, Wednesday morning, November 11, 1903. She leaves surviving her husband, two brothers and one sister. Her mother, Mrs. Baria Rose, of Lincoln, was visiting in Pennsylvania, but was able to reach her bedside before she died. Her sister, Dr. Marie Rose, of Harvey, Ill., and two brothers, Wm. B. Rose and Halleck Rose, of Lincoln, were also with her in her last hours. Mrs. Pollard lived many years in Lincoln and was a student at the university of Nebraska. Mr. Pollard was a student and graduated at the same institution. They were both young people and started in life together with bright prospects. They removed to Nehawka where Mr. Pollard and his father were in business together. The funeral was held at Nehawka Friday, November 13, at 1:30. Dr. Aysworth, of Cotner university, conducted the services. A large number of sympathetic friends attended the funeral. Those who acted as pall-bearers were Capt. Geo. Sheldon, V. P. Sheldon, Dr. A. P. Pollard, H. M. Pollard, F. P. Sheldon and J. M. Palmer. Interment was made in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

The Pantomine Social.

The pantomine social given by the King's Daughters at the A. O. U. W. hall on Friday evening last was a great success. Music and games were the principal features of the evening. Refreshments, consisting of coffee, cocoa and cake were served. Miss Elizabeth and Hazel Dovey presided at the candy stand, and from the crowd of young men hanging around that particular part of the hall most of the time, one who was there says it is no wonder they were so successful in disposing of their supply of "sweets." And they are both popular young ladies.

Died at the Poor Farm.

Mrs. C. A. Caldwell, who for some time has been occupying quarters at the poor house, died on Friday evening, November 13, 1903, of consumption, aged about thirty-five years. The funeral occurred Sunday, and interment made in Oak Hill cemetery. Previous to coming to the poor house, it is said that Mrs. Baldwin owned some property in Elmwood, which she deeded to the county as a payment for taking care of her.

Oyster Supper.

The Mynard Camp M. W. A. will give an oyster supper at their hall in Myard, on Saturday evening, November 21. Everybody is invited.

Advice to the National Bird.

Written for the Journal.
From Browning or Bryant, or any of them,
I call not from their writing a line,
Nor from their rich work, do I pluck a gem,
Or write out a line of Hood's richest wit.

But now I will say
In only my way,
Mr. Turkey, you'll soon have to quit.
Your day is near by.
You'd better be shy.
On the old roost you'd better not sit.

Better take my advice,
And smelt a small piece,
Don't stay at home and fall to show wit,
Old national bird,
Don't be so absurd,
To stay through bravery and grit.

Take an outing vacation,
Leave friends and relations,
No longer in the barnyard loiter,
In self defence,
Hop over the fence—
Get far up the canyon right now.

Stay away from the barnyard
And please think and read,
After the 20th day come roost with your feat,
Now mind what I've said,
Or your neck'll be laid.
And bones'll be know'd at the big pow-wow.
CABE ROBBINS,
Sawtelle, Cal., Nov., 1903.

Anna McNabb and Her Dog.

Miss Anna McNabb who pays the part of the dainty servant girl in the Nixon & Zimmerman's production of "Miss Bob White" this year, is a western girl, hailing from a little town in Kansas, where the mail trains do not stop. Miss McNabb's fondest remembrances of her home is her pet dog "Post" who was employed as mail carrier by the town, taking the sack of mail to the post office from the platform on which it was thrown from the train. At first the dog was taught to help Miss McNabb by taking hold of one end of the bag, but afterwards the dog was taught to bring in the big bag alone. Miss McNabb stated that, as soon as the dog heard the mail train whistle, he never mistook an express or freight for that, he would hurry down to the station to wait for the arrival of the mail, wagging his tail in the most reassuring manner until the mail clerk took the bag off, when he would pick it up very carefully by the middle, so that neither end dropped on the ground, and carried it safely to the post office.

When Miss McNabb left her home town some years ago, "Post," as they called the animal, was five years old and about two and one-half feet high. Every one in the town knew him and spoke to him as he trotted through the streets and "Post" would return the salutation with a cordial wag of his tail. Strangers, however, "Post" greeted with a lift of his shaggy eyebrows and a sniff of suspicion, and kept his weather eye on their movements, seeming to fear that the welfare of the town was in some manner his personal responsibility.

"Sour Grapes."

Some of the German voters are trying to figure out the cause of the defeat of all of their representatives on the ticket when the other fellows went in under lying colors. To figure out all the "whys" and "wherefores" in politics is one of the impossibilities in Plattsmouth News.

Yes—and the Irish would like to know why their candidate was prohibited from a chance to take a seat at the pie county. Not so at all. The two editors above quoted have been feasting on "sour grapes." Nationality cuts no ice in county elections in Cass county. How much different would it have been had the entire republican ticket, which the News and Republican supported, have been elected. If the Courier editor was to go on the war path for a Dutchman he would never pass up Henry Boeck, and if Sheriff McBride isn't Irish he was branded wrong in infancy.—Louisville Courier.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Catharine McEntee, a highly and respected lady of Plattsmouth, crossed over death's dark river Saturday morning, the 7th of November, 1903. For many months she stood by the sullen stream and longed to cross, yet the dread messenger would not come. But at last a whisper steals from heaven and death's barque seemed to her like a beautiful bird with wings far and wide outspread upon the evening air. Warned and tired she has gone from this sharp, cold world. Her poor nervous hands folded and at rest. Her lips wan and cold and on her forehead are deep furrows which pain had cut.

Now the weary toll is o'er,
Fold thy arms across thy breast,
Sing the dreariest song,
Life shall claim thee never more.

Your friend,
CONRAD SCHLATER.

Suit for $10,000 Damages.

William R. Stull, as administrator of the estate of William R. Webb, deceased, has instituted suit in the district court of Mills county, Iowa, against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company, in which he asks $10,000 damages. On February 17 last Webb came to his death as a result of a fall from the company's bridge over the Missouri river at this point, then in construction. He stepped upon a loose plank and fell to the ice below, a distance of about seventy-five feet, sustaining injuries from which he died five hours later. The deceased left a wife and three small children.

A FEW STOLEN SMILES.

Purloined, Penciled and Prepared for the Journal Readers.

Good corn huskers can earn $3.00 a day and keep in Nebraska.

Marrying in haste is no worse than any other kind of marrying.

Most people are good nurses when it comes to nursing animosity.

Somehow, the frost and the pumpkin have been getting together.

According to the majority, Ann was eighteen. But she is older now.

The trouble with most people is that their records already are too low.

Men are too much inclined to accept a pretty woman at her face value.

In business, as in politics, the shots that hit are the shots that count.

Many a widow marries a second husband in order to get even with the sex.

Did you ever notice how bad the little boys' cough gets about school time?

Oh! they are wise who advertise in winter, spring and fall. But wisest yet are they, who bet. Who never let up at all.

People who yearn for the return of old fashions should consider the hoop-skirt.

When you come to figure it up, there are really only a few of us who are perfect.

When a woman marries, she not only takes a man's name but everything else he has.

Some men are so small that they must hope to slip into heaven without being seen.

Most every person one meets predicts that we are going to have "some weather now."

"Things are not always what they seem." And to this may be added:
Full many a woman's bust is not as plump as it is padded.

When you hear a man speak of a baby as "it" you can safely bet that he's a bachelor.

It is a cliché that every man who is bitten by a dog gets mad, whether the dog is mad or not.

The only excuse for the advance in the price of coal is that Uncle Baer wants the money.

When a woman has a new diamond ring, she can't help it if her nose does itch all the time.

Take hope. They say that when the girl finds fault with your neckties she is getting interested in you.

"What," asks a magazine writer, "would life be without women?" Well, for one thing, it would be cheaper.

"You hold her hand and she holds yours. And that's a very good thing. She'll be your tootsie woosie. In the good old winter time."

Mary is 24 and Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann? Here is the answer that comes from Murray.

Can anybody beat it? "When Mary was a pretty girl her age was just six. Then out Ann was then a kid of eight, so very young and green. Mary now has older grown, her age is twenty-four. And Ann has reached that pretty age that Mary was before."

Took the Wrong Train.

Mrs. Armstrong came to the depot in a hurry and seeing a train just coming in, boarded it without enquiring about its destination. When the train pulled out of the station the conductor informed her that she took the wrong train and would have to leave it at the next station. The poor lady had to wait for hours all alone, during a dark night, and suffered greatly. This is not the only case where people suffer on account of negligence. In place of Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine, the best blood purifier and stomach tonic, they accepted poor imitations and instead of the road to health they take the road to misery. Triner's Bitter Wine, as it is commonly called consists of pure California grape-wine and selected herbs, and has a prompt effect in all disorders of the stomach and of the blood. For pale, sickly ladies it is of the greatest value, as it strengthens the stomach to accept and digest all food and to convert it in rich blood. At drug stores or direct from the manufacturer, Jos. Triner, 798, South Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

How Is This For Corn?

A. G. Mickie, living two miles south of Plattsmouth, brought to this office Friday a sample ear of corn measuring fifteen inches in length, and as sound as a silver dollar. Mr. Mickie says he has ten acres of this kind of corn that will average 80 bushels to the acre. This doesn't look much like a corn failure in Cass county for another year, at least.

Dizzy?

Then your liver isn't acting well. You suffer from biliousness, constipation. Ayer's Pills act directly on the liver. For 60 years they have been the Standard Family Pill. Small doses cure. All druggists.
