THREE DAYS' BATTLE

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED AT FENG WANG CHENG.

Action Continues From Morning of May 27 Until Dawn of May 30—Details and Figures of Losses Lacking—Situation Bad at Port Arthur.

Liao Yang, June 1.—Continuous fighting has taken place northeast of Feng Wang Cheng and on the railway above Kin Chou since May 27. A sharp action has taken place eastward of Simatsi, thirty-five miles north of Feng Wang Cheng, which lasted from the morning of May 27 until daylight May 30. Both sides suffered severely.
Detailed figures are lacking. The engagement resulted in the Russians retiring on Simatsi, followed cautiously by Japanese detachments. Three companies of Japanese are reported to have ambushed a patrol of the Nerinsky regiment near Hunstan, wounding three Cossacks. Severe fighting is reported along the railway between stations Vfangoy and Vmandien. The Japanese suffered heavily and would have been annihilated if not for infantry reserves come up and forced the Russians to retire into Vfangoy.

Battle Near Port Arthur.

Che Foo, June 1.—An unconfirmed rumor is current among the Chinese that a battle occurred six miles from Port Arthur yesterday.

STORY OF A DESPERATE BATTLE.

Japanese Victory at Nanshan Hill Costs Heavily.

Tokio, May 30.—The details of the fighting at Kin Chou emphasize the heroic tenacity of the Japanese in their conduct at Nanshan hill. Nine successive times the Japanese charged the fortified heights in the face of a storm of death-dealing missiles, and in their last effort they carried the forts and trenches only after a bayonetto-bayonet conflict with the Russians, who made a desperate despairing struggle to beat back the on-coming hordes.

The final assault of the Japanese, in which they at last succeeded in taking possession, was marked by the most desperate hand-to-hand encounter that has thus far characterized the war. The Japanese left throughout the entire action, until night, was exposed to an enfilading fire from the Russian infantry, a gunboat on Talienwan bay and four guns posted at Ta-fangchen. At a critical moment, the ammunition of the artillery ran low, and it was decided to cast the remaining ammunition into one final desperate assault. Fortunately, however, at the moment this decision was reached the Japanese squadron in Kin Chou bay, which had ceased bombarding, suddenly resumed the shelling of Nanshan hill. Then it was that the issues of the day were determined —at a moment when the outcome was fluttering between success and defeat for Japan—that moment was almost certainly converted into victory so successful that the forces of the czar were swept into confusion and disorderly retreat. With every Japanese gun centering its fire upon the Nanshan forts and trenches, the Japanese infantry sprang over the bodies of the dead comrades who had sacrificed their lives in the previous fruitless charges. The entire line rushed forward toward the Russian left, where the fire of the Japanese squadron had proved most deadly and which was the first to weaken under the death-dealing bombardment. And it was there that the first breach was made in the human stone wall that all day had been an invincible barrier to the impetuous assaults of the brown men. It was the Fourth division of the Osaka men that stormed the Russian left. It had once been said that Osaka men were not brave. It will never be said again.

The First division of Tokio, which had the center, and the Third division of Nagoya, occupying the left, and which had been exposed all day to the Russian fire against the front flank, now followed the example of the Osaka men and rushed forward and the battle became transformed from an artillery duel into one of personal conflict, with the bayonet as the instrument of warfare. On every parapet the restless, death-defying Japanese surged forward in increasing numbers, and hustling the Russians from their entrenchments, swept over the hill. At 7:30 p. m. the flag of the land of the rising sun floated above the blood-sodden Nanshan hill.

The Japanese paid for their victory in 3,500 killed and wounded. To the Russians the humiliation of defeat was intensified by the loss of sixty-eight cannon and ten machine guns, while lying dead in the forts and trenches were 500 men, the victims of the accuracy of Japanese long distance marksmanship and of close range fighting.

The beaten forces, badly shattered, retreated toward Port Arthur, exploiting the Tatengchen magazines as they retreated. A detachment of Japanese infantry pursued the retreating Russians far into the night. General Oku estimates that the force of the enemy consisted of one line division, two batteries of field artillery, some fortress artillery and marines. Besides the big guns, a miscellaneous assessment of Russian property was captured. The Japanese captured a number of officers and men.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy.

monial letters received from sufferers

Trained Tortoises.

Japanese and Korean showmen in addition to their skill as jugglers and acrobats display a truly marvelous skill in teaching animals tricks. They not only exhibit educated bears, spaniels, monkeys and goats, but also trained birds and, what is the more astonishing of all, trick fish.

One of the most curious examples of patient training is an exhibit by an old Korean boatman of a dozen drilled tortoises. Directed by his sons and a small metal drum, they march in line, execute various evolutions and conclude by climbing upon a low table, the larger ones forming of their own accord a bridge for the smaller, to which the tort would otherwise be impossible. When they have all mounted, they dispose themselves in three or four piles like so many plates.

The Study of Nature.

I confess I have not much sympathy with the laboratory study of nature except for economical purposes. Nature under the dissecting knife and the microscope yields important secrets to the students of biology, but the unprofessional student wants but little of all this. I know a young woman who took a postgraduate course in biology at a noted summer school, and the one thing she learned was that certain bac-cilli were found only in the aqueous humor of the eyes of white mice. The world is full of curious facts like that, that have no human interest or educational value whatever. — John Burroughs in Country Life in America.

None Better.

Mrs. Wise—I wouldn't have bought clears for my husband if I were you.
A man doesn't like his wife to do that.
Mrs. McBride—I know it's risky unless you're very careful to get the best, but I was careful. Mrs. Wise—Were you?
Mrs. McBride—Yes. I picked out a box called "Finest made." There couldn't possibly be anything better than that, you know.

Pride of Ancestry.

"We can't afford to recognize them.
Their ancestors were in trade."
"Weren't ours?"
"Of course, but our trade ancestors are two generations further back than theirs." — Chicago Post.

position in the German American bank in St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Vay Riehy, who has been teaching at the Maple Grove school for some time, closed the school last week and passed through here Saturday on her way to her home in Omaha.

Work on the new bank is progressing very nicely; the hollow cement bricks are being placed on the stone foundation and in another week work will be commenced laying the brown pressed brick. It will be a beauty when finished.

W. H. Schomaker and wife made an overland trip to Nebraska City Saturday, forty-two miles, on business.
Henry sold his beef cattle for the next eight years to Kozzman, the butcher. They returned in the evening, Miss Bertha accompanying them home.

A bold midnight robbery occurred Wednesday night at the home of William Chapman, while the two inmates of the house were peacefully dreaming away the quietude of rest. The midnight prowler entered the kitchen door, went to the cupboard and retrieved a loaf of bread and then entered the bedroom and took from Mr.
Chapman's pants several dollars that were inside of a pocketbook, leaving the book.

"Yes, I put the price on my four-year-old team at $300, not thinking anyone would take me up, but that progressive farmer, Bamming, knowing a good thing when he saw it, wrote out his check, and now I have no team.
If I had thought Charlie was on the lookout for a good team, I surely would not have whispered so loud.
They are gone, so you can see I am still busy mowing the grass from in front of the residence," were the utterances made by our "Dick" Ingverson, Monday morning.

You can't make a whistle out of a pig's tail nor a bulbul out of a donkey, and you will only be wasting your time if you try it. But a pig's tail and a donkey have their places and are useful in it, or ornamental, which is being useful in a way. The moral is, do what you can do well, and don't be spending your time and money trying to do what some one else can do a good deal better than you ever can, and not half try.
