Attempt to Hold Up Frank Fitzgerald.

12 o'clock as Frank Fitzgerald was returning to his boarding house and when near the Burlington car house his bird dog warned him of someone approaching in the darkness. Fitzgerald stopped and asked what was wanted but got no reply. He says W. J. Bryan's Farewell Speech One of that there were two of them and while one advanced in front the other attempted to block his escape by trying to get back of him.

He had no fire arms and concluded that it would be foolishness to stand his ground so he backed off and took to his heels. He returned to town and got Tim Schlater and together "The Noblest Roman of Them All" Has they returned but the fellows had decamped.

Fitzgerald says that he is satisfied that they were home talent and not well versed in the business. He will carry a gun in the future, he says .-Louisville Courier.

Big Sweet Potato.

J. W. Lowther, residing on the Cole farm south of Plattsmouth, brought to this office this morning one of the largest and finest sweet potatoes we ever gazed upon. The specimen fully demonstrates that for sweet potatoes Cass county soil can't be beat. The potato is of excellent quality and weighs three pounds. It is not a yam, but a genuine palatable sweet potato.

The democrats of the nation ought to go as far on the corporation juestion as he goes. I want to encourage the republicans who are trying to make their party better. I don't want the republican party to be a bad party just because that would benefit the democrats. The fight that is now going on in that party will create a class to whom we can appeal with hope if they fail in getting what they demand in their own ranks. Roosevelt's position has revealed the strength of the reform element in the republican party and encouraged democrats to continue their appeal to those who believe the people should
