To Whom This May Concern.

With all due respects to Mr. Shinn and his "Authorized Agents."

The W. C. Shinn Co., of Lincoln, Neb., claim they have redeemed the great state of Nebraska from the clutches of the unscrupulous lightning rod agent. I wish to inform the people of Cass county the manner in which they have done them such a great kindness.

They are now, and have been charging them from 25 to 35 per cent more than myself and Mr. Baily are asking for rods just as good as can be bought from any manufacturer. On one job Mr. Shinn's Authorized Agent charged 25 cents per foot and $17.50 for points, which price seems to prevail with all agents. Now our price on the same grade of work is 20 cents per foot, flat, including the points, and we guarantee every foot of rod we put up. We rod your house and you must be satisfied in every particular before one cent is paid.

We are here to save the people of Cass county money and we mean to do so. All we ask is that you call on anyone of the many men we have done work for, examine same, compare prices and then judge for yourself who the unscrupulous lightning rod men are.

Mr. Baily is the only experienced and scientific lightning rod man in Cass county, having many years experience in such work.

The undersigned simply sells the rod and Mr. Baily puts it on. Now kind friends, please bear in mind that we guarantee every foot of rod put up by us, and if you can save from 25 to 35 per cent, and have the same protection, who would not do so? Ask your neighbor, he will tell you whether we have "bleeced" him or given him good work at fair living prices.

Yours for business,

WALT VALLEY, FOR VALLEY & BAILY.

Fifty More Engines.

The Burlington has placed an order for fifty R4 class freight engines to be delivered in January and February, says the Lincoln Journal. The company now has twenty-five of these machines on the lines west of the river, and they are giving the best of service. They are next in size to the D4 class of machines, the largest engines used in the freight service.

A number of balanced compound machines for the passenger service will be received by the lines west of the river in about three weeks. These are the same as the P3 class machines now in use on the McCook division, which have given great satisfaction and have proved themselves capable of handling enormous tonnage at high speed.

It is not known how many of the fifty R4s will be sent west of the river, but it is believed quite a number of them will be placed here. This order represents not far from a million dollars worth of machinery. These engines have long boilers, extra large fireboxes, and are equipped for rapid handling of freight trains. The D4, or largest class in service, now used almost exclusively on the Sheridan division of the road, are all right for long runs and few stops, but for the class of service demanded in Nebraska the somewhat smaller R4s are regarded as better. It is said that R4 engines have hauled sixty-five box cars at a maintained rate of thirty-five miles an hour.

These engines have cylinders 22x28, fireboxes 108 inches long, boilers 70 inches in diameter carrying 210 pounds steam pressure. The weight on the drivers is 151,000 pounds, and the traction effort is 35,000 pounds.
