Some Fine Corn.

Lee Fickler sent a small basket of corn for the inspection of the Journal corn raisers, that was grown in the hail district, which is hard to beat, for the ears are large, plump and well filled, as well as being entirely ripened. It looks to us like it is a good deal in the cultivation of the cereal that tells in the end of the harvest. Mrs. Fickler, Lee's mother, who brought the corn in says that it looked very bad where the hail struck it. But it certainly looks fine at this time. Good farming pays and from the appearance of the sample, Lee is a good farmer.

HE FIRED OFF

THE REVOLVER

Because His Sweetheart Would Not Stop and Talk to Him.

Too much of the "over-be-joyful" and a revolver last evening made bad business for a little while for two of our young people. Joe Hunter, in not his natural condition, came up out of the Riley House saloon just as his best girl was passing, and not caring to stop to talk with him on the streets in such condition paid but little attention to him when he hailed her. In the conversation that followed, he started to quarrel with the young lady, and pulling out a revolver attempted to shoot her, and did discharge the gun. She eluded him and Will Smith, who works in the same department with him at Burlington shops, succeeded in getting the revolver from him. Later, Hunter found the lady again and continued the quarrel, when she told him she did not want anything to do with him. He replied that if he had his gun with him he would shoot her this time for sure. He was taken away and the young lady wended her way homeward.

This morning Hunter was arraigned before Judge Archer, who fined him $10,00 and costs, the testimony showing that he was drunk and had fired off his revolver in the streets, nothing being said about the attempt to shoot the young woman. Hunter was released upon the promise to pay the fine and costs at the next pay-day, the sentence of the court only to be suspended during good behavior, and until said fine and costs are paid.

Miss Nannie Vass at Rest.

Miss Nannie Vass, who has been sick for so long a time and who was taken to the Swedish hospital at Omaha a few days ago, yesterday passed away, and was brought to this city for burial this afternoon. When word was received of the death of Miss Vass, her sister, Mrs. Mattie Williams, was unable to get to the train in time to go last evening, so Rev. J. H. Salsbury went and superintended the removing of the remains to this city. The funeral occurred from the Missouri Pacific train this afternoon, services being held at the cemetery only, Rev. Salsbury conducting the last sad rites. The pallbearers were D. C. Morgan, C. A. Rawles, Geo. L. Farley and H. A. Schneider.

Gallantry With Brains

Mayor Henry R. Gering and Will C. Ramsey, two handsome bachelors of Plattsmouth, conducted the campaign as chairman and secretary, respectively, of the democratic county central committee in Cass county, and as a result a major part of the ticket was elected, including Miss Mary E. Foster, to the position of county superintendent. There's nothing like a mixture of gallantry with brains.—Fremont Herald.

Spent His Checks Too Freely.

Last evening, a certain man living in the west end of town, looked upon the green checks and then into the glass a number of times, and when he started home his feet would not track. Arriving at his place of abode he found nothing that was to his taste, so he threw the dishes around the room and at his wife and daughter. After a few moments the dining-room looked like the trail where Napoleon crossed the Alps. The mother and child succeeded in getting away, and telephoned for the police. Our informant could not tell whether anything was done, other than a reprimand or not.

NEPOTISM WITH STATE OFFICIALS

Such Charges Stir Up State House Officials.

The following is from the Lincoln Evening News: "Some remarks attributed to Governor Sheldon on the subject of nepotism in state officials have called forth a rejoinder from Secretary of State Junkin and other incumbents at the capital, who say that if the governor objects to their employing relatives he should do something to stop the practice among his own appointees. It is pointed out that in several departments where the governor has the appointing power his subordinate officers are being assisted by their wives or other kinsfolk. The same condition is said to exist at various state institutions. One instance alluded to is the penitentiary, where the wife of Warden A. D. Beemer occupies the position of matron and draws the salary.

"If the practice of employing relatives is to be stopped anywhere it had better be cut out in all departments, and if the governor doesn't approve of it he has plenty of chances to begin the pruning in his own official family," was the comment of Secretary Junkin, who has two of his own relatives working in his office.

"A deputy state official within the last few days went to Land Commissioner H. M. Eaton and remonstrated against the latter employing Mrs. Eaton as a clerk in the office. The argument was made that such things as this would not help the republican party in the state campaign next year. Mr. Eaton, however, decided that he would adhere to his original purpose, and his wife is now learning the work which she will presumably be called upon to do. The situation is rather peculiar as to the position which she will occupy. It has been held nominally heretofore by Miss Esther Brown, who drew a clerk's salary of $1,000 but Miss Brown's real position was stenographer to the land commissioner. While she was acting in that capacity, another girl has been on the pay roll as a stenographer at $840 per year while performing clerical duties.

"Deputy Land Commissioner J. M. Shively, who will probably be a candidate to succeed Eaton, is reported to be out of harmony with his chief on the question of employing relatives. The same situation is said to exist in the auditor's office between Auditor E. M. Searle and his deputy, H. L. Cook, who will be a candidate to succeed him. The deputies will without doubt repudiate the practice of nepotism by Messrs. Searle and Eaton and may go so far as to pledge themselves against its continuance. If Deputy State Superintendent E. C. Bishop comes out for the office now held by his chief, J. L. McBrien, he will probably be compelled to do the same."

Havelock Shops Damaged by Fire.

Among the Havelock items in the Lincoln News we note the following: "The Burlington shops were damaged Sunday afternoon to the extent of about $2,000 by a fire in the coal sheds. These sheds are located east of the shops and smoldered for some time before the fire was noticed. The fire continued to burn slowly for two hours. Shop officials said yesterday that if the wind had been in another quarter, there was every likelihood of the whole plant being destroyed, as the blaze had a good headway before anything could be done. As it was the wind carried all the flames from the main buildings."

TALKS ON THE FINANCIAL PROBLEM

George E. Roberts, Former Director of the Mint, Says Primary Cause of the Trouble Has Caused to Exist.

FINANCIAL SUNSHINES BRIGHTER

The Public Lost Confidence in the New York Banks Controlled by a Systemized Group of Would-be Smart Speculators.

A special from Washington says that George Roberts, president of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago, formerly director of the mint, and the man who invented the currency relief scheme which has been brought into play to tide over the present money crisis, made an authorized statement today concerning the money and business situation in the middle west. It was Mr. Roberts who told the treasury department when western banks needed the money, and if the treasury could allow banks depositing government bonds as security for deposits to loan these bonds to other banks that would use them as a currency basis, accepting other securities for government deposits, that it would help greatly in relieving the stringency.

Mr. Roberts has been closely counselled during the flurry and his statement is therefore regarded as representing the feeling of the highest authorities. He said:

"The original cause of the trouble is over. It was a loss of confidence in certain banks and trust companies in New York which a group of speculators were interested. That situation has been cleaned up. The runs in New York have ceased, and it speaks pretty good conditions there, that even the concerns which were put out of business are going to pay depositors in full, and most of them are getting ready to reopen.

"The question now is how to get back to normal conditions over the country. If every locality could start off together using the same proportion of cash and the same proportion of checks and drafts and making loans with the same liberality that they were being made before the suspension of free cash payments all would be well. But it is hard to get an eight-horse or twenty-four horse team started together, and just now every banker feels as though he must make himself unusually strong in cash. The danger now is in a general contraction of credits, which will force business men to restrict their operations and discharge labor. A policy of refusing to make loans, or of granting extensions, and of forcing collections relentlessly will bring on genuine hard times.

Bank Statement Good.

"People talk of last week's New York bank statement being a bad one. I consider it a fine one, in that it showed the New York banks to be doing exactly what they ought to do, increasing their loans. They have loaned with great freedom, and as loans create deposits, there resulted a large deficiency in their reserves. The banks in the centers not shipping currency themselves they cannot at the same time deplete their reserves and increase their loans, and as a dollar in a bank vault will serve as a basis for several dollars in loans it is of the highest importance that reserves be not depleted. If the reserve cities ship out cash freely they must reduce their loans $4 for every dollar they ship, and such a drastic contraction would paralyze industry and bring on a chaos of bankruptcy. It is not true that the central cities are selfishly hoarding cash. They are using every dollar at its highest efficiency. There is no occasion for alarm, if everybody will keep cool and be patient under unavoidable inconvenience. The country was using every dollar of money and credit to the limit when this thing struck us. The shock has disorganized us temporarily, but conditions are essentially sound, and gradually we will get back to normal. Bankers should pursue a liberal policy upon loans and the public should be helping the banks to conserve their cash, for cash in the banks is the basis of loans."

Death of Former Citizen.

Mrs. Wm. Mackey, formerly of this place, having lived in the south portion of the city, died Monday, Nov. 4th, at her home near Oxford, this state. Mr. and Mrs. John Sharp of this city attended the funeral which occurred on Tuesday, the 5th.
