Results Achieved by the Nebraska Railway Commission.

What has the Nebraska railway commission done since it was organized the ninth day of last April? A report comprising seventy-two pages to be filed with Governor Sheldon tells the story. The Lincoln News says it contains a historical sketch of the creation and organization of the commission, statistical matter compiled from annual reports filed by railroads with the commission, applications filed by the railroads, formal and informal complaints against railroads and no account of their disposition suits in court in which the commission is interested, and a statement of the commission's finances.

The members of the commission are H. J. Winnett, J. A. Williams and H. T. Carke, jr., Clarke Perkins, secretary; U. G. Powell, rate clerk, and Mrs. Gertrude C. Wells, stenographer. Eighteen formal complaints have been filed with the commission, some of which are still pending, and five of which were dismissed, some by agreement. One hundred and twenty informal complaints were filed, forty-eight of which are pending and the balance adjusted, withdrawn or dismissed. Five orders and 113 special orders were issued. After giving a history of the creation and organization of the commission, the report continues.

RECOMMENDS NIGHT SCHOOL

The Superintendent of the Nebraska City Schools Favor Same.

In speaking of the recent report of Superintendent Sinclair of the city schools, the Nebraska City News says: "The trustee officer is looking up all children that are under 16 years of age, who are not attending school. This is hard work, as it is necessary to go over the census list and compare it with the list of those attending school. There are something over a hundred working at various employments about the town. These people should be in school. One of the necessities of the school at the present time is a free night school. There are a large number of parents who have large families. This is, as all know an era of high prices, and most of these people must have the help of their children during the day in order that they may assist the parents in providing food and clothing for the family. These people are in the main taxpayers. They are unable to get anything out of the public schools. If there was a night school these children could work during the day and attend school during the evening. This matter should receive the attention of the board before the opening of another school year."

The same conditions exist in all cities and large towns. They exist right here to the extent that the trustee officers are kept pretty busy. Now, where children are compelled to stay out of school to work in the day time, why not assist in arranging for a night school?

W. J. BRYAN ON THE MESSAGE

The Nebraskan Sees Some Good Things in It; Wife and Daughter Bound for Europe.

BOND ALLOTMENTS WITHHELD

Policy of Secretary Cortelyou Said to Cause Inconvenience in Business Circles.

Pittsburg, Dec. 4.—W. J. Bryan, en route to his home in Lincoln, Neb., arrived here today from Washington and met his wife and daughter, who are bound for New York, whence they will sail for Europe Saturday. Mr. Bryan commented on several of the issues treated in President Roosevelt's message and credited the president with introducing an original proposition in suggesting the appropriation of campaign funds by the government.

"I hope," he said, "that it will be enacted into a law."

Mr. Bryan is strictly in accord with the president concerning postal savings banks and guaranteed banks. Said he: "The money hoarded in hiding places, if it can be drawn into the banks and then put into channels of trade, will relieve the stringency more effectively than anything else. The postal bank will do this to a limited extent, but not completely, for in the plan proposed the depositors will be limited as to each person and no checking account will be allowed."

"The system of the guaranteed banks contemplates the absolute guarantee by the government of such banks as may voluntarily enter into the system. In entering the system they agree to reimburse the government in proportion to their deposits for any losses incurred by the government in payment of depositors in failed banks. During the last forty years the average loss among national banks has been less than one-tenth of 1 per cent deposits, and, as we have passed through two panics in that time, it is not likely that the average loss will be greater during the next forty years. To sum up, the depositors need security and this must either be given by the postal savings banks which will grow until it has absorbed the deposit banking of the country, or it must be furnished through the guarantee of existing banks."

Bond Allotments Withheld. Washington, Dec. 4.—Secretary Cortelyou continued his policy of silence today regarding the awards of Panama bonds, to be made on the bids submitted last Saturday. On Saturday, after the bids were opened and tabulated, Mr. Cortelyou issued a statement in which additional information was promised on Monday. Yesterday, it was announced that the important news as to the disposition of the bonds would be forthcoming today. This afternoon word was sent out from the Secretary's office that nothing would be given out today and no time of probable action was set.

The delay is causing serious inconvenience in those business centers which have not been awarded 3 per cent certificates and which are now relying upon securing the bonds to increase the circulating medium.

On the occasion of the last issue of Panama bonds, under Shaw, the results were known a few moments after the bids were opened.

It is pointed out in Mr. Cortelyou's behalf, however, that the Treasury now desires to do more than sell the bonds at a good figure. The purpose is also, the price received being the same, to place the bonds as to best assist the business of the country.

In his advertisement of the bonds Mr. Cortelyou reserved the right in his discretion, to give a bidder such quantity of the bonds above the amount named in his bid as he (the bidder) may desire.

According to the advertisement, the bidder could not change his price, but he could take more of the bonds. Therefore, it is being said here that the Secretary is probably using this clause in his circular to place the bonds as he considers best.
