The Congressional Salary Grab.

An election to congress will be regarded henceforward as much more desirable than ever before, thanks to the recent increase of the salaries of members by 50 per cent. Seven thousand five hun-Miss Bessie Vandenburg won first dred dollars a year is an income large enough to furnish a strong attraction, ter of fact, there was small justice in Mrs. W. C. Monroe entertained her the plea that $5,000 was not an adequate becomes manifest when it is considered Frank Zoz transacted business at the that the work required extends over only six months in the year, the balance of the twelve-month being so much leisure available for utilization in other activities. Thus, for example, the lawyers in the House of Representatives devote their time between sessions, as a rule, to the practice of their profession.

In urging the passage of the bill to raise congressional salaries, one argument used was that Washington was an expensive place to live in. The truth is, however, that such is very far from being the case. Apparently, the capital city has acquired this reputation through Mrs. August Glaubitz is home again the circumstances that people are constanstantly going thither on holidaymaking trips from all parts of the country. When they get home, they count the cost, and say, "Goodness me! what an expensive place Washington is!' But such trips always do cost a great deal of money, no matter where one goes, and certainly food costs no more in Washington than elsewhere, while rents are extraordinarily low-handsome houses in the fashionable section being easily obtainable for $50 a month-and the wages of servants a third less than in Philadelphia or New York.

The necessary expenses of congressmen are cut to a minimum. Not long ago each representative was provided by the nation with a secretary, at $100 a month; and at the present time two great apartment houses are in process of erection, at a cost of $5,000,000, one for the Senate and the other for the House, in which luxurious private rooms will be set aside for the use every leg-

This sort of recklessness in squandering the peoples' money should cease, and the way to begin the good work is Cards have been received announcing to defeat at the ballot-box every memany of them ever earned at home.
