Missouri Pacific's Change

A. De Bernardi, superintendent of the consolidated Nebraska and central branch divisions of the Missouri Pacific, is looked upon as one of the "coming men" in the railway west. Twenty-five years ago he was a section foreman out on the central branch, and from that position he climbed upward with a "pull." On December 1, 1906, he was appointed general superintendent of the southern district, and has had headquarters in Little Rock since then. In his new office he has not been greatly advanced, owing to retrenchment, yet his responsibilities will be increased.

Is it a Matter of Conquest

During the past few years a number of our elderly men, have made the lumber office of F. M. Richey a place where they came together to tell a good story and one always was on tap. Politics did not always cut a figure, but those of the republican party always predominated. W. D. Jones and B. Chrisweiser, of democratic proclivities were in evidence, while Perry P. Gass represented the prohibitionists. They would go hunting together, but what is surprising, W. H. Newell has induced W. D. Jones to attend the republican convention with him today at Omaha. We are at a loss to understand what the intentions of Mr. Newell are. Is he trying to steal one of the stewart supporters of our peerless W. J. Bryan, or is Brother Jones experiencing a change of heart?

Mr. Stephens is now at work on the same subjects in oil, which is to be even better than the ones drawn in pencil, though the ones drawn seem almost alive.

Fine Red Polled Cattle.

It is an old saying that it always pays to get the best, and if you can't get the best get the best you can. Now, this certainly catches our excellent young friend, Luke L. Wiles, when it comes to speaking of his excellent herd of Red Polled Cattle. If he has not already got the best he will have for he is always on the alert to improve his herd, which now ranks with the top notchers. From the fact he places specimens from his herd in some of the best herds of the country, and when they buy they come again. This fact was only demonstrated this week when on Tuesday, two fine young heifers were shipped to Henry Huff, at Spaulding, Neb. Only last season Mr. Huff came to the Wiles herd for the head of his herd, and he was certainly well pleased with the strains he received, and thusly the sale of the two fine heifers this week.

FUNERAL IN OMAHA TODAY

The Last Sad Rites Were Celebrated Over the Mortal Remains of George H. Palmer Today--Born and Reared in Plattsmouth

Today in Omaha occurred the funeral of George H. Palmer, who died of pneumonia in Omaha Tuesday.

George H. Palmer was born in this city, about thirty-seven years ago—April 7th, 1871. Here he spent his youth attending the public schools and with his father was early engaged in the insurance business, and when only fifteen years of age was a regular agent for an eastern company. He grew up in the business and knew it from one end to the other, there being no one better acquainted with different companies than he. He was a student in the state university and in May, 1889, went to Omaha, where he engaged with his father in the insurance business under the firm name of H. E. Palmer & Son. They continued in the business until in 1891, where they associated with them J. D. Foster making the firm H. E. Palmer, Son & Co. Since that time the firm has continued one of the most aggressive firms in Omaha with George one of the hardest workers in the firm.

Mr. Palmer had been well until within a few days of his death. Wednesday afternoon he was apparently in perfect health. He left his office with his partner, J. D. Foster, to see Captain Palmer, off on the train for New York, as the captain was bound for the Bermudas with his daughter, Mrs. Herman Kountze. That night he went to the opera at the theatre, and while there felt a chill coming over him, and left early and went to the Omaha club, where he was attacked with another chill. Dr. Bridges at the club advised him to go home at once and gave him some medicine. Thursday morning he was seriously ill with pneumonia. Captain Palmer was notified and returned after being three hours in New York, arriving in Omaha Sunday morning. It was thought that Mr. Palmer was improving, and up to within an hour of his death it was not anticipated.

He was considered one of the best insurance men in the middle-west. Besides this he was high-minded, brilliant and of high moral character. His acquaintances speak of him as a competent business man, public spirited, interested in anything for the good of the community, a sterling friend.

He was a member of the Omaha, Country and Commercial clubs, the Ak-Sar-Ben knights, the Young Men's Christian association, Loyal Legion, Royal Arcanum and Masons.

His death comes as a great shock to his family and friends. Besides his father and mother, he is survived by a wife, formerly Florence M. Morse, whom he married November 9, 1895, a boy of 8 and a girl of 5, and a sister, Mrs. Herman D. Kountze of New York.

Captain Palmer was for many years a resident of Plattsmouth, where Geo. grew to manhood, and where he was highly respected both as a boy and man, and in honor of his memory a large number of Plattsmouth citizens, who had known him from early childhood attended the last rites today. The Journal extends sympathy to Captain Palmer and the wife and children of this noble young man, who has been carried over to the Great Beyond in the very prime of life.
