RETURNS FROM NEW MEXICO

J. C. Coleman Brings Home Many Boxes of Specimen Soil.

J. C. Coleman who returned Tuesday evening from a trip to Las Vegas, N. M., was a caller at the Journal office this morning bringing with him several boxes of specimen soil taken from some of the land near that city, for which he is agent. From an examination of the soil it would appear that it is a rich loam capable of producing almost any variety of farm or garden product. He had a specimen of the soil taken from a point thirty inches below the surface which showed the loam extended down to "hat" depth at least. This soil was penetrated by the roots of buffalo grass which grows in great abundance upon the soil. Another specimen is that of soil taken from the surface, it being thickly covered with buffalo grass the roots of which are matted and woven into the soil for several inches in depth. Mr. Coleman states that this grass when stamped out is immediately replaced by blue stem which grows to a great height and makes a fine and nutritious hay. He brought back with him also several specimens of fruit including apples and pears which are raised in abundance upon this land. They are of good size and appearance. He had a potato which was fine looking and of good size also raised on this land. Mr. Coleman reports much of the land as being sold at prices ranging from twelve to fifteen dollars per acre. He was accompanied upon his trip by Silas Long and wife who remained for journey farther south. Mr. Long was so favorably impressed with the land that he purchased some of it. The rainfall in this section is said to be ample and abundant, and water for drinking and even irrigating purposes if desired, is readily obtained at a depth of from eighteen to seventy-five feet. The wheat which is raised on the land, judged by the specimen shown by Mr. Coleman, is of high grade and quality with a yield of about eighteen bushels to the acre. All in all, Mr. Coleman thinks the land about as good as can be found out of doors. He and Geo. Ballance have the sale of it.

SETTLEMENT OF INSURANCE

The Gaps Losses of Monday Promptly Adjusted.

The Farmers Mutual Insurance Company of Lincoln, Neb., seems to be making a record for quick settlement of losses. Tuesday their adjuster, Mr. F. E. Lynch, came down and looked over the remains of the fire at Oscar Gaps's and immediately adjusted the loss without trouble or debate. The company settled with Maria Gaps who carried the insurance upon the buildings at $1900.00 and paid Oscar Gaps $100.00 on the contents. Mrs. Gaps had a life estate in the property hence the insurance was in her name. Mr. Lynch also estimated Mr. Gaps's loss upon machinery, hay, grain, etc., in company with him at $1600.00, making the total loss of property $3600.00. Such prompt settlements are to be desired and serve to greatly strengthen the company in this locality.

This company also settled out of court or rather compromised, the case brought against it by J. A. Tanner for the loss of a barn blown down last fall. The amount of the settlement is not made public but the amount of the policy was $400.00. The point in controversy was whether the building destroyed was an open or closed one, the one being covered by the terms of the policy while the other was not. The matter was satisfactorily arranged and a payment made Mr. Tanner in settlement.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING CEREMONY

Miss Sallie Brady United in Marriage With Albertus A. Shore.

A simple and informal wedding took place Wednesday a.m., when Rev. A. A. Randall united for life Albertus A. Shore of Norborne, Mo., and Miss Sallie Brady, of this city. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, in the presence of some twenty-five lady friends of the bride.

The ceremony of Rev. Randall was that of the Methodist church, the parties entering the room where the ceremony was performed to the strains of the wedding march as played by H. E. Wescott. The bride was attired in a traveling costume, being ready to take the train immediately upon the conclusion of the wedding breakfast. The wedding party was completed by the addition of Miss Leona Brady as bridesmaid and Blaine Moyle, of Norborne, Mo., as best man. Immediately upon the conclusion of the ceremony, a flashlight picture of the wedding party was taken by W. S. Soper.

After the ceremony had been completed, the assembled guests sat down to an elegant wedding breakfast which was served at small tables seating several guests each. At the conclusion of the breakfast the entire party repaired to the Burlington station where the bride and groom departed on the fast mail for a bridal tour of several days duration. They will be at home at Norborne, Mo., after Oct. 1.

At the depot the couple found themselves the center of much attraction, a large number of the girl friends of the bride assembling and treating them to liberal doses of rice and all the other attributes of a newly wed couple. When they came to get on the train they were literally deluged with rice, even the trainmen getting a share, so generous were the donors. Another pleasing feature of the leavetaking was a song invented for the occasion by some unknown party, it being a parody upon a religious melody the words of which fitted the occasion splendidly. Miss Leona Brady, Miss Zelma Tuley and Mr. Blaine Moyle accompanied the happy couple as far as Omaha.

Miss Sallie Brady, the charming bride, is one of this city's most accomplished and popular young ladies. Although a resident of this city for but a few years she numbers among her acquaintances a great host of the younger people, all of whom know her to love her. Charming and agreeable, her leaving this city will make her sadly missed in her wide circle of friends. To the fortunate groom, the congratulations are extended upon his securing a lady of such excellent qualities.

The groom, while not well known in this city, is a fine appearing gentleman and is one of the most promising young business men of Norborne, Mo., being superintendent of the light plant at that place. From his high standing in the community, it must be inferred that his wife has been most fortunate in her choice and to this most estimable couple the wishes of their friends go out for a long and happy married life.

THE WATERMELON RIND.

Uncle Rastus, on the fence
Sat munching on a
"million".
His wife, Aunt Sally,
came along
"What yo' got dar, yo' villyun?"
For old Aunt Sally she was mad,
"Now, a in' yo' shamed?" says she.
"Yo' et dat watermelon up
An' left de rind for me."
"Yo' good-for-nothing, ornery coon!"
Said Sally, "Nobber mind,
I'll make preserves ob ebery scrap
Ob dis yer nelson rind."
"I'll boil it all up till it's char,
"Cut off dat green aroun'
An' let it drain de sugar, den,
I adds-half poun' fer poun'."
"Den pour it hot in nice glass jars,
I tell yo', sah, it's fine."
Let Rastus eat de million up,
Aunt Sally gits de rind!"

Cottage Cheese.
In the country and smaller towns where there is plenty of sour milk, this can be easily made, and is very nutritious. Pour boiling water on the thick milk in the pan in which it has turned sour, stirring as you pour. As soon as the milk separates from the whey and begins to appear cooked, let it settle. In a minute or two most of the water and whey can be poured off. If not cooked, more hot water may be used. Squeeze the curd very dry, and add salt and cream to taste. In very hot weather, when the milk has turned quickly, the milk will be good enough to eat without the cream. Some add pepper, others prefer sugar. Eaten in any way it is very wholesome. For a change, add chopped nuts, and roll into balls.

Mint Sauce.
In these spring days when lamb is a favorite dish, it is well to be careful in the preparation of the mint sauce. It is simple of course, but many forget to cut the mint fine, and there is generally too much vinegar. These proportions are best: To two table-spoons green mint, add two of sugar and a scant half cup of vinegar.

Grated Ham.
This is a nice way to dispose of the odds and ends of ham, and is especially good for making sandwiches. Grate fine, and season well. Some like a dash of raw onion—but it must be only a dash.

THE BOSTONIAN'S BROWN BREAD.

Now that we are indulging in Discussion gastronomical,
You'll find within the lines subjoined Suggestions economical.
One teaspoon and the fraction, half,
Of coarse flour, yelect Graham,
One-half cup of molasses, but
Of cornmeal, just the same.
One pint of lactical fluid
From the animal body,
Half teaspoon saleratus—
To steam then consign.
Steam it three hours by correct
Degree of Fahrenheit.
You may, without mendacity
Pronounce the bread "all right!"

HOMELY GOSSIP.

In making gravies, it is usually a nuisance to stop and wait for the flour to brown, as during the process the dinner gets cold. A way to solve this problem is to keep on hand some browned flour. This can be put into the grease and the water added at once. Gravies should be stirred over a hot fire, and not allowed to simmer as they must be quickly made.

Place all meat in boiling water as this retains the juices. In making stews, if the meat has already been cooked, be sure to make the gravy first. Then boil the onion and seasoning, adding the meat only when the other ingredients are thoroughly cooked.

Use kerosene for polishing lamp chimneys. It serves the double purpose of cleaning and shining. But do not use it on the windows, as it makes them catch the dirt more easily.

Boil the wash rags in sal soda two or three times a week, and hang out of doors all day. A nice way to insure keeping them for separate use, is to sew a tiny bit of different colored braids on each; then teach the children to "stick to their colors."
For washing dishes a small mopstick is a great convenience, and may be bought for a nickel. It is especially good to save the hands when strong washing powders are used.

Gems for Late Breakfast.
When you have overslept and breakfast is late, these gems can be made while the family is dressing. Beat together one cup sweet milk, one and one-half cups flour, one egg, one spoon salt and one of baking powder. Have the pans hot, and the oven, too, and bake 15 minutes. Nobody will have to wait for these.
