When is Poplar Not Cottonwood.

Word reaches this office that two of Plattsmouth citizens yesterday engaged in a wordy argument on Washington avenue as to whether the trees planted by the park board along the avenue were cottonwood or poplar. The argument waxed fierce and the short and ugly word passed several times. The god of war threatened to burst forth and rage with violence for some time, and both gentlemen became hot up over the matter. For their benefit it may be said the Standard dictionary gives the following definition of cottonwood: Any one of several American species of poplar. . . . The river cottonwood is the downy-leaved poplar. . . . Thus both were right and they ought to forget it.

A Good Record.

The sentence of John Clarence last Saturday by Judge Travis to fourteen years in the penitentiary for the murder of John P. Thacker on January 15 last, with one exception cleans up the criminal docket for Cass county. The one exception is the Thrall case from Union, which was continued on application of Hon. John C. Watson, attorney for Thrall, until the next term of court. At the January term of court the criminal docket had become very heavy, and included the famous Ossenkop murder case. Before this case was reached for trial the murder of John P. Thacker took place, thus piling up the criminal work. The task before our young attorney was a hard and difficult one and fraught with great and grave responsibility. But with his well known energy and exceptional ability, County Attorney W. C. Kamsey plunged into his official work. Day after day he was at work investigating ever link of evidence tending to support the prosecution of two of the most important murder cases ever tried in Cass county. Two able and adroit lawyers were on the defense—Hon. Matthew Gering in the Ossenkop case and Hon. Byron Clark in the Clarence case. In the Ossenkop case the prosecution was most ably assisted by Hon. T. J. Doyle of Lincoln, and in the Clarence case County Attorney Ramsey was most ably and eloquently assisted by his former antagonist, Hon. Matthew Gering. But it is conceded on all hands that the preparation and arrangement of the evidence in both cases was principally the work of our young county attorney. The sentence of John Clarence last Saturday makes the fourteenth conviction secured by County Attorney Ramsey since he went into office the 8th day of last January—a period of a little more than six months. A congested criminal docket cleared with one exception. Fourteen convictions within about six months is a record of which ever citizen of Cass county feels proud.

Tri-Class Outing.

The Loyal Daughters No. 28, Loyal Sons No. 86, and Pansy Class, three classes of the Christian Bible School, turned out 52 strong Thursday afternoon on a picnic and fortified Swallow Hill. The commissary department was the chief attraction and the boys and girls stood by it until it was no more. Those who had provided themselves with fishing outfits forgot to dig any bait and they soon learned that the finny tribes of the Platte don't like bare hooks. After all sorts of amusements had been thoroughly tried by the tri-class delegation, it was found that coffee making in a three gallon bucket swung by a piece of barbed wire to a pole over a monster fire was the most popular event of the season. Of course this does not include the spreading of three or four tables and filling them with fried chicken, potato salad, home-made rolls, jelly cake, pickles, cake, fruit, and a la carte ad infinitum, and then some. But those 52 boys and girls, except the ones that got lost among the Swallow Hill Indian graves, scarcely left a bone for the poor mascot, a friendly dog that walked all the way. Oscar Wilson and Philip Rihn were largely responsible for the disappearance of so much grub in such a short time.

Will Exhibit Fine Stock.

C. Bengon, the popular stock raiser from Mynard, was in the city today on business and called at the Journal office to say that he was pleased to know there would be a live stock day at the carnival this fall, and to announce that he would be here with some mighty fine animals. It can be truthfully said that Mr. Bengon has some of the finest animals in the county and the state and these he will cheerfully exhibit. He has a bull which will weigh in the neighborhood of 2,600 pounds by the time for the carnival and which will be one of the prize winners of the show without a doubt. This is the right spirit and means that the carnival will be a pronounced success and that the stockmen will welcome an opportunity to show their stock.

John Mich and wife of Havelock came down this morning to spend Sunday in the city with their folks, returning Sunday evening.

While here John paid the Journal a pleasant and much appreciated call and arranged to renew his subscription to this paper as he wants to know what is going on in the city during his absence.
