

CALHOUN TO HAVE VISITORS

B. G. Wurl, A. J. Trility and Wm. Hinrichsen Make Trip Here Today.

The village of Calhoun, Neb., this day is in turmoil and excitement as it has been invaded by some enterprising citizens who intend to start a boom in the old town. There will be some excitement when this party gets there. It is composed of men who will "See Plattsmouth Succeed" to quote a much honored expression. First and foremost comes Bernard G. Wurl, cigar manufacturer extraordinary, who expects to use his persuasive powers of eloquence to induce all dealers in tobaccos and cigars to handle his exceptionally fine line of smokettes. He is confident the wide fame of his cigars has penetrated even to the wilds of Calhoun and if they have not, he will see that they do and the result of his trip is expected to be prosperity unbounded to the cigarmakers of his mammoth establishment. Next comes Anthony J. Trility, gas man par excellence, whom his colleagues on the journey state contemplates putting in a municipal lighting plant in the town of Calhoun, said lighting plant to consist of one standard gasoline lamp of steel candle power. Said lighting system promotes the upbuilding of the body by exercising all the muscles as it must be pumped up by strong arm action. It also promotes the powers of speech by causing strong language to well up from the heart when the light grows dim and weary. Mr. Trility thinks it well suited to municipalities just emerging from the gloom of the middle ages. Last but not least comes Sire Mr. Hinrichsen who proposes to start something on general principles in Calhoun. As Sire William is large enough to almost have his own way, we have no doubt of his ultimate success. It is said the other gentlemen took him along as a body guard but of this we know not. We do know that Sheriff Quinton acted as an escort of honor for the trio to the depot and stayed with them until they got out of town. The party hopes to get back to the bosom of their several families to-night.

Now, therefore, I John P. Sattler, mayor of Plattsmouth, Neb., hereby ask that business be suspended in the city between the hours of two and four o'clock p. m. on Friday, February 4th, as a mark of our esteem and respect for this most excellent citizen.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Last Tuesday morning while a little daughter of Chas. Lewis, residing near the county farm west of the city, was playing blackman at the Mercerville school, she fell and sustained a dislocation of the left shoulder. The injury was quite painful and the dislocation a very bad one. The little one was brought to this city by Wash Young who happened to be coming in and who was stopped by the child's parents, who were with her as soon after the accident as possible. The entire party came to the city where a surgeon set the dislocated member, finding it an extremely hard job. The dislocation was so severe that the surgeon had to brace his foot against the child's body while he pulled the injured member into the socket. The little one bore the pain splendidly and never flinched when the bones snapped into the socket, she saying to the surgeon "Doctor, I heard it snap into place." She is getting along quite nicely.

FIRE DESTROYS A SMALL DWELLING

Mrs. O'Leary, Aged Occupant Has Narrow Escape.

Fire just after midnight last night totally destroyed a story and a half frame dwelling between Third and Fourth streets on Pearl. The building was occupied by a Mrs. O'Leary, an aged widow who was alone in the house when the fire started. The lady escaped in her night clothes, but her furniture was totally destroyed along with the building. The fire is supposed to have started from a defective flue as it had practically the entire house in its grasp before it was seen by passers and an alarm sounded. The blowing of the shop whistle and the ringing of the fire bell apparently did not do much good toward arousing the firemen as the white cart was taken down to the fire after the building was practically all in, with only three men on the cart. The few firemen present speedily brought the flames under control as there was an abundant water pressure. The structure was an old one and very dry, hence it burned with great rapidity.

For some little time after the flames started it looked as if the fire might spread among the buildings on the bluff overlooking the burning building as the air was full of burning shingles which lodged on the roofs of the houses, being carried to the south by the wind which was blowing hard from the north. Owing to the fact that the building stood up next to the bluff, there was no danger to adjacent property save from flying boards and shingles which fortunately did not ignite any of the roofs they lighted upon. Many of the families living in the houses on the bluff were badly alarmed however, and proceeded to move their household goods out into the streets.

The loss of the property is amply covered by insurance, Mrs. O'Leary who owned the building and contents carrying a policy of $300 on the house and $200 on the contents. This leaves her without any loss to speak of as the building was quite old and not very expensively furnished.

Considerable unjust criticism of the fire department has been indulged in by those not understanding the circumstances. The alarm was not turned into the shops until long after the flames had started and there was no hope of saving either building or contents. Taken in connection with this there was stiff north wind blowing and this prevented many of the firemen, especially those living in the north part of town hearing the alarm. Chief Koubek asserts that he was at the fire within ten or fifteen minutes after the alarm was sounded and that ample precautions had been taken to prevent the flames spreading to the houses on the bluff. He states that it takes twenty minutes to get a force of firemen on the ground during the winter owing to the length of time taken to dress and he points to the good work done after their arrival as a test of their ability to cope with fires. A spectator living in the neighborhood of the fire asserted that the building was on fire at eleven o'clock but this does not seem capable of proof as no alarm was turned in until long after midnight and if the building had been on fire at eleven, the party discovering the blaze should have seen to it that an alarm was spread. As it was the aged occupant of the building came very near losing her life as well as her property in the flames which had crept upon her quite un-

MAN KILLED IN JUNCTION YARDS

Section Man Named Coon Run Down by Freight Train and Horribly Mangled.

A frightful accident resulting in the instant death of a man named Cook took place this morning at Pacific Junction. The unfortunate man was engaged in his work as a section man in the Burlington yards at that point when he was run down by a freight train which was making up in the yards, and horribly mangled. The train which is said to have been No. 76, an east bound freight, backed down upon the man who was in the center of the track with his back turned toward the train, catching him beneath the cars and decapitating him. Two coal cars and a pair of trucks on another car passed over the body, the body being horribly crushed and mutilated while the head of the unfortunate man was completely severed from the body. Fred Demson of this city was in the yards at the time and witnessed the disaster. It is not known whether the unfortunate man was married or single. A coroner's jury will investigate the cause of the accident.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies had failed. Sold by all dealers.

TAKEN TO LINCOLN FOR BURGLARY

Lancaster County Officer Comes Down After Chas. McCauley

Sheriff Quinton yesterday took into custody Charles McCauley of this city, wanted in Lincoln for the burglary of a residence in North Lincoln. McCauley had several times been in the asylum at Lincoln where he was treated as a dipsomaniac. He escaped from the institution and finally was lodged in the Lancaster county jail. On Sept. 23, last he in company with several other prisoners escaped from the jail and it is alleged that it was at that time he burglarized the house spoken of above. The young man has been a source of much trouble to his parents who are estimable people of this city, and not long since was in serious trouble at Glenwood where he was charged with entering a Burlington caboose in the yards at Pacific Junction and walking off with clothes belonging to the trainment. He served a jail sentence for this. A Lancaster deputy sheriff came down to get the young man and return him to Lincoln for trial.

Plenty Food.

When a man satisfied his hunger and cannot eat more, he believes he had received plenty food. This is not always the case. If the food passes through the body undigested or only partly digested, it does him little, if any good and he again feels hungry a short time after his meal. The stomach and intestines being tired out, refuse to work and it becomes necessary to give them as much strength as they need to do their work without any difficulty. A very good tonic which had remarkable results in this respect is Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. It strengthens the digestive organs and preserve its health and strength. Use it when your appetite and your strength are not as good as desirable, in nervousness, loss of energy, colic and in diseases of the stomach and intestines. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 1333-1339 So. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Jos. Tighe of Havelock who has been visiting with her father Conrad Schlater, departed this afternoon for her home. It is pleasant to note that Mr. Schlater is making excellent progress toward recovery and that there is no doubt but that he will speedily be able to be out and greet his old friends once more. He has had a hard seige and his improvement is a good thing.

M. C. Baker of Nottawa, Mich., who has been visiting for the past month with A. L. Baker and family at Murray, passed through the city this morning en route to Clay Center, Neb., where he will make a visit with a sister living near that place, before returning to his home.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY TODAY AT OMAHA

S. A. Morrison Formerly of This County Attempts to Murder Wife and Kills Himself

Omaha was the scene this noon of a terrible tragedy in which S. A. (Sandy) Morrison, a former resident of Cass county and well known throughout this section, killed himself and attempted to kill his wife and her father. The tragedy is said to have been the outgrowth of family difficulties between Morrison and his wife, they have separated and the wife making arrangements to go to her home with her father. The shooting took place at the corner of Fifteenth and Douglas streets where Morrison had followed the two who had been upstairs presumably in consultation with an attorney. As they came down the stairs they were met by Morrison who drew a revolver and fired upon them, both being struck by the bullets and falling to the sidewalk. Believing that he had slain them both Morrison then turned the weapon upon himself and put three bullets into his head, the shots taking instantaneous effect and death resulting almost instantly. The bullets entered the forehead just above the eye. The sound of the shots attracted the police who found Mrs. Morrison and her father lying upon the walk badly wounded while Morrison lay not far away weltering in his life blood. He was dead when found. The two wounded parties were taken into an automobile and rushed to a hospital where an examination of their injuries was made. It is said that the wife will survive the effect of her wounds.

It is said that Morrison was insane at the time of the killing and that domestic trouble had unhinged his mind. Brooding over the difficulties which he had gone through with, he had followed up his wife and her father and had mapped out a plan to kill them and himself. It was only his excited condition which caused the miscarriage of his plans and permitted the wife and father to escape his vengeance.

Messrs D. O. Dwyer and William Schmidtman of this city were across the street from the shooting at the time of its occurrence and from the latter the facts of the shooting were learned as nearly as he could ascertain them in the limited time at his command. He was right on the verge of taking a car when the shooting took place and did not have time to learn the details of the tragedy.

Morrison is very well known in this county, having at one time taught school near Eagle and later being the editor of the Beacon at that point. Still later he edited the Courier at Louisville having taken the same over from Lee Mayfield, now the editor. He was a volunteer of Company B, Third Nebraska Volunteers during the Spanish-American war but failed to pass the examination. It is said that mental trouble had run in the Morrison family and that only he and one brother had escaped the fatal taint of the complaint. He came originally from near Springfield, Neb. Personally, he was a genial, fellow, and one of the last on earth to have been suspected of such a terrible deed. During his residence here he had made many good friends who regret his rash deed. At the time of his death he was in the mail service, being a letter carrier in Omaha and he had just gone off duty a few moments before he committed his terrible deed.

Work of the Committee.

The good work of the commercial club committee in securing signatures to the petition for paving continues. This morning Messrs Dwyer and Schmidtman of the committee visited Omaha and sought to secure the signature of the property owners in the effected district who lived there to the petition. They met with very good success, although not entirely so. F. E. White who owns one lot which would be affected by the proposed improvement declined absolutely to sign the petition, he being virtually the only person interviewed so far to do so. He did not consider the improvement sufficient to warrant the expense. The petition was presented to Fred Krug, the authorized representative of the Realty company, owners of the building at the corner of Fifth and Main streets now occupied by Ed. Egenberger and there was no difficulty. Mr. Krug signed for the company and stated to the committee that they stood ready to do anything for the improving of the city and that they wanted the good work to go on. The committee was more than pleased to find Mr. Krug so favorably disposed toward the work and his hearty seconding of their endeavors cheered them up a lot. Mr. Mathews, who was supposed to be the representative of the owner of the Gund building at the corner of Fourth and Main streets replied that he could not sign as he had no authority, the owner of the building being a gentleman at LaCrosse, Wis. However, he promised to take the matter up with him and secure his signature to the petition. This was thoroughly satisfactory to the committee who were more than pleased with the success attending their efforts. This makes it absolutely certain that the majority, in fact, nearly nine-tenths of the majority, in fact, nearly nine-tenths of the frontage owners, have signed the petition and it is another step in advance for Plattsmouth. "See Plattsmouth Succeed."
