

WHAT THEY ARE DOING IN KANSAS

Western Kansas Farmers' Conference at Hays June 7 and 8

From Wednesday's Daily.

The farmers of Kansas have been keenly interested in all recent discussions relative to conservation of resources, adding to the soil fertility and the development of the farm.

In the institutes now organized in every county the intelligent farmers of Kansas, the equal in intelligence of any other body of farmers in the world, have been in recent years considering ways and means of doubling the acre yields of wheat, corn and other crops. Kansas has two or possibly three distinct farming regions—the east, the central and the extreme west. There are distinct conditions in each, and these must be studied.

At Manhattan there is one of the most completely organized experiment stations in the country, but the conditions there are very different from the conditions of the western half, and radically different from the conditions of the western third of the state.

At Hays, one hundred seventy miles west of Manhattan, the state owns, as a gift from the United States government, the largest experiment station in the world, nearly four thousand acres. There at Hays on June 7, and again on June 8, the president of the agricultural college, the director of all state experimental work, and the superintendent of that big station wish to welcome thousands of the thoughtful farmers of the great western empire. Work is being conducted at Hays at the expense of the state and nation, and the best way in which the authorities can show evidence of the value of the work, the wisdom of their expenditures, is to have their employers, the tax payers of Kansas, visit the big farm and see for themselves and hear the report of the work done and explanation of methods employed.

They therefore issue to the public especially the public of western Kansas, an invitation to attend the first annual conference on western Kansas farming problems at Hays, on Tuesday, June 7, and Wednesday, June 8th.

The morning hours from 9:30 to 12:30 will be spent visiting fields of the station and the herds, and the general conference will be held from 2:00 to 4:30 in the afternoon. Addresses will be made by President Waters, Director Webster and Superintendent Ten Eyck. A representative from the United States department of agriculture is also expected to be present for an address. While farmers' institutes, commercial clubs, mayors of cities, have been invited to appoint delegates, the invitation is open to everybody; "Whosoever will may come."—Ness County News.

Officers Resign.

From Wednesday's Daily. A short and harmonious meeting of the base ball team was held last evening at the council chamber, to accept the resignations of Charles Grimes as president, William Egenberger as treasurer and J. P. Falter and A. H. Koubek as directors of the organization. These gentlemen found that the business of the organization took more time than they could spare hence they asked to be relieved. It was decided not to fill the places for the present at least, except that of treasurer which was necessary. Manager E. Brantner was chosen as treasurer. A committee consisting of Henry A. Schneider, William Fitzgerald and Frank Warren was appointed to check up and audit the books of the treasurer and make the transfer from Mr. Egenberger to Mr. Brantner. The retiring officers thanked the ball team for their excellent work and congratulated them upon the able management which Mr. Brantner had given them. The meeting adopted a resolution of thanks to the retiring officers for their work for the organization.

The general sense of the meeting was that the local team is now in better shape than it has been for many years. The splendid work that the boys have done in the past three games leads everyone to believe that they will win practically all their games this season. The greatest enthusiasm existed and there was a feeling of confidence in the ability of the team to cope with any team in this section.

The boys have a number of games arranged for the season with strong clubs from all over this section and the public can be assured that they will see some mighty good ball playing during this season. The boys are practicing hard and playing together in good shape. Their team work is being developed and a mighty fine game will be played before the public is aware of it. The team deserves patronage and they should get it.

Hard on Corn.

Farmers generally who are in the city report that the long continued wet and cold weather is causing a great loss to corn. Cut worms have been working in the fields and the amount of corn which is being replanted exceeds that of many years back. The corn which is coming up is not looking at all good, the plant being pale and spindling and showing the effects of the adverse spring. A great many of the farmers are taking their chances with a short stand and in cases where two-thirds or three-quarters of the field is coming up they are not planting. Others are going to the extreme and if the stand does not show up well, they are replanting the entire product. A change from the cool, chilly weather to some more reasonable weather is greatly desired.

The damp, cool weather, however, has acted as a tonic to small grain and wheat and oats have made great strides during the past several weeks. Where there had been fields with a light, scattering growth some few weeks ago, most of them now have a fairly good showing and the indications are for an improved yield of small grain over what was looked for several weeks since. This is due to the rains which have been generous in the past month and the continued cool weather which is better for small grain than hot weather. This will serve to offset some of the loss which apparently is taking place in the corn fields.

The grain markets are feeling the effect of the probably increased yield of small grain and have broken very sharply. In sympathy corn has likewise eased off but there is little reason to believe it will fall very far. The harvest of wheat in the southwest is well along now and the indications are for an abundance. With a better yield throughout this section than anticipated, prices for this cereal must continue on the down grade. Yesterday's reports from Oklahoma indicated that two weeks more would see harvesting under way down there with a flattering indication. These reports weakened the principal grain markets and conditions here had a large share in this. These conditions did not affect the corn market, however, the market reports this morning stating that the price was off on good growing weather. This weather must be in some other part of the corn belt than eastern Nebraska.

Grandma Adams Died May 17, 1910, at Her Home in Eagle.

Samantha Jane Franklin was born at Spencer, Owen county Indiana, on March 24, 1827, where she was married to John Quincy Adams, September 24, 1848, died May 17, 1910, at Eagle, Nebraska.

Eleven children were born to this union, who are: Thaddens, Clintine, John, Mary, Carrie, Walter, Elizabeth, Elmira, Alpheus, Emily and Edna; nine of whom are living to mourn her loss. She also leaves three brothers and one sister, twenty grandchildren, and thirteen great grandchildren.

The funeral services were held at her home Wednesday afternoon, after which interment was made in the Eagle cemetery.

Soon after her marriage "Grandma" Adams moved with her husband to Illinois, where log cabins with puncheon floors and rude improvements were all the evidences of civilization, to be seen in that far western territory. There they lived for many years and acquired a farm and many comforts, when by becoming security for another they lost all. From Illinois they moved to Plattsmouth, Nebraska in 1863, and amid the hardships, full of hope and purpose to earn a living and care for a large family of small children.

"Grandma" Adams was a loving mother, always working hard to make the home more comfortable for her family, but no matter how heavy and many the duties of home might be, she was never too tired to go and care for a sick friend or help a neighbor.

After securing several farms near Plattsmouth, "Grandma and Grandpa" Adams moved onto a ranch in the western part of the state in 1884, and after three years time they moved onto a farm near Eagle, from which place they moved into Eagle where they lived until death called them home.

During the last few years of "grandma's" life she was kept close at home by poor health, but she was always cheerful and always glad to see her friends and welcome them into her home.

We shall miss her but she was willing and ready to go to her reward. "Ripened grain ready to be gathered," and as we look back over her life we can but say: "It was a life well spent." She was a loving mother, a kind neighbor and an honorable citizen gone from our midst.

Delightfully Entertained.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The Ladies Auxillary and St. Mary's Guild of St. Luke's church were entertained at a Kensington in a most enjoyable manner yesterday afternoon by Mrs. George Thomas, who was assisted by Mesdames Henry Boeck and G. Knapp. For the occasion the charming rooms of Mesdames Boeck, Knapp and Thomas had been thrown together and a special effort made to insure the guests of a good time. The time was most delightfully spent in the usual diversions, such as social conversation and plying the busy needle, and there being a large number of the ladies of both societies as well as friends present, an afternoon was enjoyed which will long be remembered.

A most entertaining program had been arranged for and at an appropriate hour two readings were given by Miss Ellen Windham, she receiving the closest attention by her finished style and manner of reciting. Miss Mildred Cummins also contributed readings and as usual, she was at her best and elicited many compliments on her fine work. Miss Virginia McDaniel gave several instrumental selections, which were all brilliantly executed. A luncheon which was both dainty and delicious was served which further augmented the pleasures of the afternoon.

At the close of the beautiful spring day and after having extended their warmest thanks for the kind hospitality of the hostesses and for the splendid entertainment afforded, the ladies departed for their homes.

Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I procured a box at Gering & Co.'s drug store. Better Today.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The many friends of Miss Ivy Spies, mention of whose critical illness was made in last evening's Journal, will be pleased to learn that she is much better today. She made an unexpected rally late last evening and came out of the unconscious condition in which she fell yesterday along in the evening, and since that time she has improved to a remarkable degree. She is able to take nourishment this morning and the general condition of her health is such that everyone notes the improvement. It is to be hoped this condition continues.

BOYS GET INTO SOME TROUBLE

Do Considerable Damage at the Baseball Park.

Last night considerable damage was done to the bleachers and players benches at the base ball park by three boys who seem to have thought they were privileged to enter the grounds and tear up the property of the ball team without regard to anything the club had to say. The first notice of the trouble there was received by Manager Brantner from John Mauer who discovered the three as they were having a merry time at their work. He stopped them before they had proceeded too far and at once called Mr. Brantner up, telling him of what had taken place.

The three fellows were Verner and Walter Rakow and Edgar Wittstruck. Mr. Brantner this morning at once started on the trail of the young men and had a great deal of trouble in locating them. He finally found the Verner Rakow was employed at the Burlington shops in the freight car department and he had Chief Rainey call upon the young man this afternoon and escort him down town where he could interview Judge Archer. That official after listening to what damage had been done, concluded the city ordinances did not provide a penalty for the offense and had Rakow taken over to see the county attorney. The latter was absent in Omaha on business, so no complaint was filed pending his return when he will investigate the matter. Rakow was permitted to return to his work. The other two boys will also be taken into custody later should the county attorney conclude to prosecute, which is more than likely.

When taken by Chief Rainey Rakow gave as his reason for his actions that he wanted to have some fun. Manager Brantner is determined to put an end to this kind of fun and intends to make an example out of the boys with a view to preventing any more such humorous outbreaks. While the damage done last evening was not very great, it is just as well to nip such demonstrations in the bud and see that small boys and any other maliciously disposed persons are given to understand that such proceedings will not be tolerated. The matter will undoubtedly receive a further airing tomorrow after the return of County Attorney Ramsey and steps will be taken to protect and preserve the property at the park
