"You don't understand," said Boyd. "You are primitive; you have lived in the open. She is exactly your opposite. Conservatism is bred in her, and she can't help her nature. It was hard even for me to understand at first, but when I saw her life, when I saw how she had been reared from childhood, I understood perfectly. It would not have been other than she is. I am enough for me to know that in her own way she cares for me."

Cherry tossed her head in derision. "For my part I prefer red blood to sap, and when I love I want to know it. I don't want to have it proved to me like a problem in geometry. I want to love and hate and do wild, impulsive things against my own judgment."

"Have you ever loved in that way?" he inquired abruptly. "Yes," she answered without hesitation, looking him squarely in the eye with an expression he could not fathom. "Thank heaven, I'm not the artificial kind! As you say, I'm primitive. I have lived!" Her crimson lips curled scornfully.

"I didn't expect you to understand her," he said. "But she loves me. And I—well, she is my religion. A man must have some God. He can't worship his own image."

Cherry Malotte turned slowly to the landing place and made her way into the launch. All the way back she kept silence, and Boyd, confused by her attack upon the citadel of his faith and strangely sore at heart, made no effort at speech.

"Fingerless" Fraser met him at the water's edge.

"Where in the devil have you been?" he cried breathlessly.

"At the Indian village after help, why?"

"Big George is in more trouble. He sent for help two hours ago. I was just going to 'beat it' down there."

"What's up?"

"There's six of your men in the bunk house all beat up. They don't look like they'd fish any more for awhile. Marsh's men threw their salmon overboard, and they had another fight. Things are getting warm."

"We can't allow ourselves to be brought from the banks," said Boyd quickly. "I'll get the shoremen together right away. Find Alton and bring him along. We'll need every man we can get."

"Nothing doing with that party. He's quit like a house cat and gone to bed."

"Very well; he's no good anyhow. He's better out of the way."

He hurried through the building, now silent and half deserted, gathering a crew; then, leaving only the orientals and the watchman to guard the plant, he loaded his men into the boats and set out.

All that afternoon and on through the long, murky hours of the night the battle raged on the lower reaches of the Katvik. Boat crews clashed; half clad men cursed each other and fought with naked fists, with oars and clubs, and when these failed they dove at one another with wicked one tined fish "pues." All night the borders of salmon swarmed upward toward the fatal waters of their birth, through sizzling nets that were torn and slit, beneath keels that rocked to the impact of struggling, headless bodies.

VANDERBILT PRIZE RACE CALLED OFF

Criticism of Preliminary, Which Cost Four Lives, is Reason.

New York, Oct. 7.—As a direct result of criticism of the Vanderbilt cup race last Saturday, which cost the lives of four persons and the injury of more than a score of persons, the prize race scheduled to be run over the same course Oct. 13 was officially called off by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the referee.

There is a possibility that the race will be held at a later date some where else, and Savannah, Ga., is regarded here as likely to be selected. What was described as the "unjust and unwarranted criticism" of the Vanderbilt cup race was cited by the management in a statement as the reason for abandoning the contest.

Hurt in Shooting Affray.

Winterset, Ia., Oct. 7.—Nick Schultz, an Austrian, was shot by Joe Radeche, a fellow countryman, at a quarry near Earlham. Schultz, who was shot through the right shoulder, was taken to a hospital in Des Moines. He is unmarried. Radeche, who has a wife and children, was arrested and is now in jail here. Schultz is said to have attacked Radeche with a knife. The latter claims he fired in self defense. Schultz will recover, it is said.

HUTTIG FOR CHAIRMAN

St. Louis Man to Head Executive Committee of Bankers.

Los Angeles, Oct. 7.—The selection of Charles H. Huttig, president of the Third National bank of St. Louis, as the next chairman of the executive committee of the American Bankers' association was made almost a certainty by the withdrawal of William George of Aurora, Ill., whose friends had urged him to be a candidate for the office. It is generally conceded that Mr. Huttig will be the unanimous choice of the convention.

F. O. Watts, president of the First National bank of Nashville, and vice president of the association, is scheduled to succeed to the presidency, according to the custom of the association, and it is considerable probable that Colonel Fred E. Farnsworth, the present secretary, will be re-elected.

San Antonio, New Orleans, Atlantic City and Richmond, Va., are aspirants for the honor of entertaining the convention next year, and a hard fight is on among these cities. The matter will be taken up by the convention today, but it is possible that no decision will be rendered by the executive council until next May.

DIETZ YET GIVE UP

Defender of Cameron Dam Afraid Truce Would Not Be Adhered To.

Winter, Wis., Oct. 7.—"If you take his word for it, he won't surrender. If you take my judgment for it, he will."

This is the way G. W. Froelich of St. Paul stated the result of his pleadings with John Dietz, the Cameron dam defender, when he returned to Winter.

"Dietz said he would be shot the minute he showed himself if he went out with me. I told him I would pledge him my word that no harm would come to him," said Mr. Froelich. "He also said he would never go behind the bars, but I am sure that this does not represent his present attitude."

LINCOLN TURNS OUT TO SEE GERMAN PARADE

Meeting Starts in State Capitol With Many Attending.

Lincoln, Oct. 7.—Lincoln turned out to see the German day parade and to attend the exercises following at the state capitol. The thousands of spectators on the streets formed a background of humanity along the walks and streets that pleased the committee in charge of the arrangements. The parade was in four divisions and contained many displays representing business firms and allegorical floats arranged by German societies.

Governor Shallenberger spoke from the north steps and Mayor Love gave his address of welcome in Representative hall. The mayor took occasion to explain the attitude of the city of Lincoln towards liquor drinking, which attitude, he said, was generally misunderstood. He said that the people of the city had no objection to any one using liquor and placed no restriction upon its being shipped into homes. What the fight here had been and is, is against an institution, the saloon itself.

Schuyler, Neb., Oct. 7.—Jacob Pecos, Jr., residing on a farm near Clarkson committed suicide by shooting himself with a shotgun and blowing the right side of his head off. Last spring his wife obtained a decree of divorce from him, but the question of alimony was not settled.

No Royal Spouse for Miss Elkins.

New York, Oct. 7.—"No duke—no foreigner of any sort—for a husband for me; I am home expecting to continue an American." This was the statement of Miss Katherine Elkins, who is preparing to leave for West Virginia. She arrived from Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

Fight on a Burning Joist.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Jack Ashton and Fred Kaufman, on a burning joist fifty feet from the ground, fought over a disputed 50 cents while the building beneath them burned. The men desisted only when Policeman Leddy had beaten them unconsciously.

Washington, Oct. 7.—By an order issued by the postoffice department land grant railroads hereafter will receive only $15.39 for each 2,000 pounds of mail carried in excess of 48,000 pounds. The old rate was $17.10.

London, Oct. 7.—The reward of $1,250 offered by Scotland Yard for the apprehension of Dr. Harvey H. Crippen has been paid to Captain Kendall of the steamer Montrose.
