ANOTHER NEW PROJECT IS IN SIGHT

One of the prominent alfalfa men of Mynard and vicinity was in the city yesterday, and on being interviewed as to the prospects of the village, stated that it looked now as though the town would take a boom. That the members of the commercial club had begun to agitate building an alfalfa meal mill in the spring. It is figured that the project can be put through for $15,000, which the promoters surmise will be easily raised in the village and vicinity. The objection to building at a point adjacent to but one railroad will be overcome by building a spur from the Burlington in Plattsmouth. If the company will not do this, private capital will be enlisted for the enterprise.

Last season, more than ever before, has demonstrated the fact that the soil in this locality is well adapted to the growth of alfalfa, as many of the farmers cut four and some five crops of the grass from their meadows near Plattsmouth this season. The value of the hay when converted into meal is more than doubled in the process, which means that much more money left in the country.

Some of the farmers are enthusiastic over the project and will boost for the mill.

That's the Way It's Done.

"Give the mail order houses credit for being smart," said a merchant recently. "One of the clever schemes of the mail order houses is to keep their mailing list free from the names of deadbeats. To carry out this scheme they lay a trap for the unsuspecting merchants in the country towns. By means of this trap the country merchants furnish the names of the deadbeats in their vicinities without knowing to whom the information goes. It seems that the mail order houses maintain credit reporting agencies here and there, and that without using the names of the mail order houses these agencies get all the information they need from the country merchants.

William Becker Bound Over.

County Attorney Taylor filed a complaint in Judge Archer's court yesterday afternoon, charging Wm. Becker with secreting stolen property. Mr. Becker was arraigned before Judge Archer, pleaded not guilty, waived preliminary examination, and his bond was fixed at $500, which was signed by Judge Newell as surety, and defendant was bound over to the next jury term, which will occur probably in April, although the date has not yet been announced by Judge Travis. Defendant was then released.

RECEPTION TENDERED MR. AND MRS. W. P. BYERS

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Burnett yesterday gave a reception in honor of the marriage of Mr. Burnett's stepson, Walter P. Byers to Miss Lou J. Baldwin. The affair was a very pleasant one and largely attended by the relatives and friends of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Byers were married Tuesday by Judge Beeson in this city and repaired to the home of the groom's mother and stepfather, where the reception was held yesterday.

A magnificent dinner was prepared by Mrs. Burnett, the bill of fare including all of the palatable dishes which only a farmer's wife knows how to prepare. The time passed quickly, being spent in social conversation.

Those present were: Messrs and Mesdames Mark White, Robert Good, Hon. Graves, Joe Campbell, Fred Patterson, T. Barrows, Baldwin, Perry Marsh, L. Renard, William and Clara Baldwin, Mrs. E. Moreland, Miss Anna Offerman, S. Offerman, Mrs. Katie Alden, Effie Patterson, Esther Pratt, Charles Barrows, Mr. S. L. Furlong, Clyde Graves, Carl Graves, Ona Graves, Edgar Baldwin, Morris Moreland, Eldin Moreland and Ralph Renard.

The happy young couple were the recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts.

Senate May Take a Hand.

A special from Lincoln, under date of December 21st, says: "Critics who are disposed to start an anvil chorus over the appointment of Jas. Delahunty, recently named as warden of the penitentiary, may yet cause some trouble. They may prefer charges before C. H. Aldrich or take their case to the state senate. For the appointment of a warden must be confirmed by the upper branch of the Nebraska legislature.

"The provision in the statutes requiring confirmation by the senate in the warden's case was overlooked until Wednesday morning. How it ever came to be inserted in the laws of the state is not generally known. The governor makes all his appointments by himself, but the wardenship is governed by a special section which says the senate must concur in the choice."

Universal Delivery System.

It would be well for the merchants of Plattsmouth to look into the universal delivery system, whereby one man contracts to deliver goods to all parts of the city for every merchant in town.

Hastings is now enjoying a system of delivery similar to one which has been in force in Beatrice for some time. One firm does the delivering for a number of stores, the business houses paying a stated sum monthly for the use of the system. It has worked successfully in Beatrice, according to the Beatrice Express, and in the course of time will undoubtedly be used by all other towns where the delivery system is the bane of the merchant's life.

WHEAT PURLOINERS WERE ARRESTED LAST EVENING AND PLACED IN JAIL

R. L. Propst, Who Has Been Missing Considerable Wheat From His Bin, Tracks the Thief to Where It Was Deposited.

From Wednesday's Daily.

For some time in the past weeks Mr. R. L. Propst, of Mynard, has missed wheat from his bins on his mother's farm nine miles west of Plattsmouth, and on the night of the 19th a load disappeared again and Mr. Propst looked about for evidences of where the grain went to and found that he could track the wagon and team to its destination. He then phoned to County Attorney Taylor to send an officer out to a designated point and he would meet him there. Accordingly, Constable J. R. Denson was interviewed, and although he had been sitting up with members of his family who have been sick for some days, Mr. Denson consented to go. The county attorney did not reveal anything as to the nature of Constable Denson's mission, nor tell him the name of the party who wanted his services, but on arriving at the point designated by Mr. Propst, the officer met him and was informed of his loss. The two men went to the bin and took up the trail of the wagon and team. The team was easily tracked, as one of the horses was shod on its front feet, one of the shoes being of peculiar shape. The tracks and the scattered grains of wheat were followed for some miles to the barnyard of William Becker. On investigation of the premises, the wheat was found in Mr. Becker's bin, the team was also found and the one with the peculiar shaped foot, which tallied with the track followed by the officers was also found in the barn. On being pried with questions, Mr. Becker stated that Jack Crawford, who has been working for him and for other men in the community, had had the team the night before and probably put the wheat in the bin if any had been placed there. That he had about 20 bushels of wheat of his own left over from year before last. Crawford was quizzed about the matter and said that there was no wheat in the bin before the load from the Propst bin was dumped in the previous night.

On inquiry at the Cedar Creek elevator it was found that Crawford had sold a load of wheat, about the time the snow fell, and received for it the sum of about $38.00. The men, Jack Crawford and Will Becker, were taken into custody by Constable Denson, and brought to Plattsmouth last evening, and were taken to the county attorney's office, where they were questioned separately about the entire transaction, and gave very conflicting statements.

They were placed in jail over night for the purpose of further investigation today, with a view of interrogating other witnesses who may have seen the parties.

A complaint was filed by County Attorney Taylor this morning charging John J. Crawford with grand larceny, in the stealing and carrying away, on the 24th day of November, fifty bushels of wheat, the property of Robert Propst, and in a second count charged defendant with stealing fifty bushels of wheat on the 19th of December.

Crawford acknowledged his guilt and stated that he took the first load to Cedar Creek, about November 24th, using Will Becker's team for the purpose, that he received a check which was drawn on the Bank of Louisville in Mr. Becker's favor for the amount of the wheat. That the check was cashed in Plattsmouth, and he, Crawford, received $20 of the money. That the load stolen Monday night, he wanted to bring to Heisel's mill, but that Will objected and had him unload it in the bin.

Crawford was arraigned before Judge Archer this morning and the complaint charging him with the larceny of one hundred bushels of wheat was read to him, to which he pleaded guilty. A transcript of the proceedings was made and sent to the clerk of the district court and the defendant will be arraigned and allowed to plead guilty before Judge Travis and be given his sentence as soon as the judge will hear the plea.

The county attorney filed a complaint this afternoon charging defendant, William Becker, with receiving stolen property. The penalty for this offense is from one to seven years in the penitentiary. It was rumored on the street that an effort would be made to save the wife and innocent children of defendant from the stigma of a prosecution of the defendant, and probably a conviction for felony and imprisonment in the penitentiary, and the matter was laid before the county attorney and a proposition to have complaint filed for inebriacy and have Will confined at Lincoln for six months at the asylum. The county attorney decided to allow the law to take its course. The sympathy of the community is very strong for the wife and children of the derelict, but there could be no good purpose to society served by dealing any more leniently with one individual than another. If a complaint for inebriacy would be advisable for Mr. Becker, then one of the same character would be good against Jack Crawford.

OF INTEREST TO STOCK SHIPPERS

Judge Travis Decides a Very Important Case in the Otoe County District Court.

George Easley has won his case against the Missouri Pacific Railway company which was tried at the November term of court.

The court finds that Mr. Easley is entitled to damages in the amount of $501.53, as follows: $263.20 for loss in excessive shrink of the cattle; $206.83 for damage to the cattle in that appearance was not right for a favorable market price; and $31.50 for unnecessary feed.

This case was brought under the Hepburn amendment to the interstate commerce laws, an amendment which makes the receiving carrier liable for the negligence of the connecting carrier. In this instance the Missouri Pacific received the cattle for transportation to Chicago, at Dunbar, turning the shipment of three cars over to the Northwestern road at Omaha. The Missouri Pacific turned the cattle over in good time, but the shipment was delayed in the yards at Omaha and on the road between that point and Chicago so that the cattle reached the Chicago market too late, and a loss ensued.

Mr. Easley contended that the cattle lost weight, were improperly handled and reached the market when it was not favorable to his interests. Unnecessary feed was also used.

Under this new interstate commerce act the Missouri Pacific company will be required to pay the damage, looking to the Northwestern, the negligent road, for reimbursement. —Nebraska City Press.

PAVING COMPLETED AND MACHINERY BEING REMOVED

The M. Ford people completed the paving of district No. 3 yesterday afternoon, and this morning removed their cement machine and carts to the M. P. station and shipped them to Seward. The streets just completed are a vast improvement over what they were before the work was done, and the properties abutting the paved district have had much intrinsic value added to their worth, much more than the paying tax will amount to. The city would save money in the long run, if it proceeded to have Main street paving extended west to at least Eleventh or Twelfth streets. All of the wash down High School Hill could be done away with in this way and the beauty of the street increased materially as well as its utility. The life is almost dragged out of a team taking a load of coal up that thoroughfare after a rain. The avenues also should be paved out for several blocks at least, as the spring and fall rains render them all but impassable for a time each season.

The writer knows of a little city no larger than Plattsmouth, which has eleven or twelve miles of paving, and extending its paved streets some each year.

Here From Eagle.

George Oberle and W. G. Kent, from Eagle, were looking after some business matters in Plattsmouth a few hours today. They sure had a very much round about way in getting here, and a very disagreeable drive in the bargain. They came to Weeping Water, then to Louisville, where they expected to catch the Seebuyer train this morning, but missing this they were compelled to drive in from Louisville. While here Mr. Oberle called at the Journal office to renew his subscription.
