

little settlement, and after a twelve-month pass the little hand is reduced to a mere fragment. The cloud that had appeared on the horizon did not cause these people to turn back; they only pressed forward in their determined efforts to establish the name of "freedom" in this, a new world.

More and more of their countrymen followed, and in the autumn, one year after their advent into this new world, they held the first Thanksgiving service in the little log cabin which they had dedicated as a house of worship, and with, as it were, one voice, one heart and one mind, sang hymns, offered prayers to the Father of all good for the blessings received from His hand.

Clearings in the great forests had been made and huddles of log cabins, surrounded by stockades of huge tree trunks could be seen here and there dotting the endless wilderness of woodland. The smoke from the chimneys bespoke what was soon to be the smoke from human sacrifices of an hundred homes. The presence of the "pale face" was a good to the flesh of the savage, for by the side of the camp fire he could see that the coming of the white man means a separation of himself from his coveted hunting ground.

Many are the nights, when all was quiet slumber within the little cabins, have the sleepers been aroused by the fiendish shriek of the red man, as he and his companions surrounded the homes, burst in upon the occupants, dashed out the brains of the innocents, or carried them off into captivity. Are we putting it too strongly when we say that our freedom was paid for with the blood of human sacrifice?

Coming down to the present time, let us state that the good people of Lewiston and vicinity have arranged to hold the commemorative Thanksgiving service at Lewiston church, and trust that we may maintain the same spirit as did our forefathers when they set forth the example. Our pastor, Rev. W. A. Taylor, will deliver the morning sermon at 11 o'clock. Special music, consisting of solos and choruses, will be rendered.

Immediately after the devotional services the ladies of the K. N. K. will serve a general Thanksgiving dinner. The menu will consist of all of the good things that go to make up a festive banquet, and none other knows how to prepare these tempting viands better than John Farmers' wives and daughters. One special feature of the dinner will be roast goose, browned and garnished by the dainty hands of Mr. Farmers' daughters. The remaining portion of the menu we leave to you to imagine.

The ladies' bazaar goods, consisting of such articles as will be suitable for holiday gifts, will be on sale. Nor is the dinner all that will be served. Supper, consisting of all good things in general, with fresh oysters as a special attraction. Come early and spend the day in true thanksgiving spirit. We assure you a cordial welcome by all Lewiston people.

PERU NOTES.

Saturday, November 22, the University of Omaha football team play Peru on Peru's field.

The second number of the lecture course was given Monday night by William Sterling Battis, the Dickens' man. His impersonations of Dickens' characters were very vivid.

That the Peru State Normal was well represented at the Nebraska State Teachers' association was shown by the fact that every member of the faculty attended. A number of the students also showed their interest by being present at some of the sessions.

At the alumni business meeting, held during the association, definite plans were made for incorporating under the laws of Nebraska to transact and carry on business for promoting the best interests of the school. The following officers were elected: Supt. E. W. Marcellus, president; Supt. H. H. Reimund, vice president; Prof. M. C. Leller and Prof. W. N. Delzell, secretaries. The board of trustees was instructed to proceed with the publication of Dr. McKenzie's "History of Peru."

Dr. McKenzie was the first president of Peru Normal in 1868, was state superintendent when Nebraska's school laws were adopted, and for a number of years was president of the State Teachers' association. He is past 80 years of age. At present he is living in California and still has a deep interest in Peru.

The most exciting game of the season was that between Kearney and Peru football teams, played on the Peru athletic field November 14. It was a hard-fought struggle from beginning to end and was a clean game in every particular. Good order prevailed on the side lines. The result at the end of the first quarter was 0 to 0; in the second quarter Kearney succeeded in making two touchdowns, which made the score 14 to 0 at the close of the first half; during the third quarter no points were made, and in the fourth quarter Kearney raised their score by making another touchdown. The Kearney boys had a decided advantage in that they exceeded in weight and had more experience. While the Peru team is composed of practically all new men, their playing showed considerable skill and effort. In honor of the struggle against great odds, Prof. Delzell entertained the first team at a waffle feed at his home Saturday, November 15. The girls of the graduate class prepared the lunch.

Mrs. Jay Vaughn, who is here for a short time visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Valery, was a passenger this afternoon for Omaha, where she will spend a few hours. She was accompanied by Miss Laura Sochor to the metropolis.

JEWETT MURDER TRIAL UNDER WAY

Omaha Traveling Salesman Accused of Killing His Child.

Blair, Neb., Nov. 20.—The trial of George S. Jewett, traveling salesman for an Omaha fruit company, charged with the murder of an infant child, was resumed here with the introduction of testimony.

The court room was crowded and fully half of the spectators were women. Attorney Frank Dolezel made the opening address for the state. He charged Jewett with the murder of his infant child by throwing it from a rear platform of a Northwestern train, July 10, 1913.

The attorney for the prosecution contended that at the time the child left Omaha in a suit case, carried by the prisoner, it was alive and that witnesses would be brought to prove a deliberate and willful murder on the part of the accused.

The defense will try to prove that Jewett took all proper precautions in the care of his child and that there was no murder committed.

The finding of the body of the child near a trestle at Arlington was detailed by witnesses.

Allotment at Hyannis Brings Many to the Town.

Hyannis, Neb., Nov. 20.—The third day of the allotment of lands in the North Platte forest reserve marked the largest crowd in Hyannis so far. It also marked an increase in the excitement, this being partly due to the fact that 100 numbers were called, instead of fifty, as on the previous days.

The number selected from the second 100 exceeded the number selected from the first 100, this being explained by the fact that some of the highest numbers in the drawing concluded that there were a few choice tracts in the Niobrara reserve that they could secure in preference to land here.
