"UNCLE BENNIE" WURL A MODEL MAN AND CITIZEN

A Sincere Tribute Offered to the Memory of an Old Friend and Workman.

To the Editor of the Journal:

I sometimes think we as a people are too prone to show honor to the good and great that come into prominence by the force of circumstances, and forget to some extent the great and beautiful lives that are lived in our very midst. God, in His all-wise economy, does not allow one kind word fitly spoken, one good act kindly done, a good, well-spent life go for naught; we cannot penetrate with our short sight the veil of futurity and see the results; but we may rest assured that it will all bear fruit, and richly in the end. A good life influences those around them to better lives; they in turn pass it on and thus it goes down the corridors of time and forms a mountain of beautiful deeds.

Mr. Bernhard Wurl passed away a few days since and now sleeps in the silent city at Oak Hill. Mr. Wurl, "Uncle Bennie," as we loved to call him, was a most remarkably good man; his close adherence to duty as a shopman and love of home was almost a mania with him. He worked here in the railroad shops for more than a quarter of a century and I am told by men that worked beside him and knew him well, that they never knew his equal to try and do his duty worthily and well; his immediate foreman relied upon him more than anyone to find anything misplaced or lost. In addition to his close adherence to duty he had a charitable disposition, cheerful and almost boyish in its nature, that made everyone love him. The other place of interest to Uncle Bennie was that "material domicile," home. In the evening when his task was done at the shops, he would take his bucket and hasten to the home he loved so well, there to be greeted by his sweetheart wife, to whom he pledged his love beyond the seas in the Fatherland, and whose married lives had been one continuous honeymoon, so I am told by people that knew them long and well.

Uncle Bennie's duties at the shops brought him one hour earlier than the other shopmen, and he was the first to greet me after my vigil as night watch, and in all the four years I never heard him speak the least harsh word, and who could wish for a better epitaph than this, "He spoke evil of no one." There was a tinge of sunshine about the funeral of Uncle Bennie, he had lived a beautiful life and had reached beyond the years of the Divine allotment, and so, like a well ripened sheaf of grain, ready to be garnered, and the regard shown him by his comrades of the shops turning out almost en masse, besides his many friends, made it one of the grandest funerals in the history of Platts-mouth. The shopmen marched through the parlors at the home and viewed the still form of their old friend, feeling "he lay like a warrior taking his rest with his ermine robe of righteousness around him," wearing yet on his manly face the beautiful expression born of a well spent life. Borne by his five stalwart sons his body was taken to the church house, where a splendid sermon was preached by Rev. Steger.

May we hope that many may be influenced by the life of this good man, and that all may "so live that when our summons comes to join that innumerable caravan who have taken up their chambers in the silent halls of death, we go, not like the quarry slave at night, scourged to his dungeon, but with an unflinching faith; go as one who warps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams." John Brady.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE LATE MRS. JANE A. DOVEY

From Saturday's Daily. The county court was occupied this morning and also in the afternoon in the hearing of the matter of the probate of the last will and testament of the late Mrs. Jane A. Dovey. The probate of the will is contested by the two sons of the deceased, George E. and Oliver C. Dovey, on the ground that the instrument was secured through undue influence upon the deceased by the family of her son, Horatio N. Dovey. The instrument, which was filed shortly after the death of the lady, left her property to her grandsons, E. G. Dovey and G. O. Dovey, sons of H. N. Dovey. The document offered for probate was witnessed by Thomas Walling, Miss Olive Jones and Mrs. Nettie Beeson. The amount of the estate is estimated at different sums, depending largely on the question if the state supreme court holds that the deceased lady was in possession in her own right at the time of her death of an undivided one-third interest in the partnership of E. G. Dovey & Son, which is involved in the case in the supreme court over the settlement made with Oliver C. Dovey by the two other brothers, and which it is sought to have set aside.

LYMAN H. HOWE HERE THURSDAY AT THE PARMELE

If You Want to See the Panama Canal Attend the Lyman Howe Pictures of It at the Parmele.

If "peace hath her pictures no less than those of war," the construction of the Panama canal may truly be considered the greatest victory of peace of all times. The world at large rightly regards it as the most heroic and prodigious victory won by any nation in any era. How this immortal victory was won by Americans will be shown by Lyman H. Howe at the Parmele theater Thursday night, February 12, in a film reproduction of absolutely perfect photography. As such, Mr. Howe's film is now universally recognized as being just as much a crowning achievement in a photographic sense as the canal itself is as the newest and greatest of all "world wonders." Interest in these scenes is intensified not only because of their timeliness, but by the fact that Mr. Howe is the exhibitor. For that, of course, is an absolute guarantee of a notable reproduction. Mr. Howe has chosen wisely in presenting this subject just at the moment of the completion of the canal, when tens of thousands of workmen and hundreds of officers are preparing to scatter to their homes in all parts of the world. From every standpoint the film is invaluable. As a "human document" showing the grit, energy, enterprise, skill, patience, endurance, ingenuity and organization of the army of workmen, it is intensely absorbing. As an enduring historic record, it is priceless, and as a demonstration of American mechanical resources and invention, it is an illuminating revelation. It goes without saying that without the friendly and co-operation of the manager-builder of the canal, Col. George W. Goethals, no such vivid scenes could possibly have been secured, and a great measure of this splendid reproduction is due to the exceptional facilities and courtesies extended by him and the war department at Washington, D. C. The program will include many other big new features.

CORROBORATION

Of Interest to Plattsmouth Readers.

For months Plattsmouth citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by Plattsmouth residents. Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proven reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of endorsement? The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Plattsmouth reader.

J. L. McKinney, Lincoln Ave., Plattsmouth, Neb., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I ever used for disordered kidneys. Whenever I have had occasion to take them they have given the best results. Some years ago I publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills and I now gladly confirm what I said then." For sale by all dealers. # AT THE PARMELE THEATRE LAST NIGHT

Notwithstanding the Cold and Disagreeable Weather, a Good Audience Was Present.

From Saturday's Daily. The interesting story, "The Divorce Question," was the offering last evening at the Parmele theater, and quite a large-sized audience was present to witness this very heavy and tragic story of the error and misjudgment of the two parents of the young man and woman who form the center of the great drama. "The Divorce Question" presents in plain, unvarnished language and action one side of the divorce problem which has stirred the country at times and which is becoming one of the great questions that the churchmen, as well as the laymen, are contemplating with increasing apprehension of the future.

The company last night at the Parmele presenting this drama was one that gave a very good interpretation of the drama, and they carried the tragic story through in a manner that impressed deeply upon the audience the story of the play. The central figure in the drama is the character of Rev. William Jerome, a priest of the church, who gives the church's side of the divorce question in a manner that leaves no doubt of their efforts to suppress this growing menace, and in this role George A. Lehning was certainly all that could be asked. As Mamie and "Dope" Joe, the two victims of the parents' disregard of the marriage vows, Virginia Markham and Calvin Rische were excellent and carried out their parts of the stirring play in a very able manner. The offering last evening was attended by a large number of the members of the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches, the views of which churches on divorce the play represents, and there was not anyone in the audience who did not feel better for seeing the play.

Free Demonstration of the West Electric Hair Curlers

Every woman likes to look her best at all times, and it has often been said that pretty hair helps to make pretty women. For one week, commencing, February 9th, we will have a and goods, and we extend a cordial invitation to the ladies of Plattsmouth and vicinity to call and see what they are like.

They make a soft, beautiful wave in a few minutes—they do away entirely with the destructive heating iron—they have rounded edges and cannot possibly injure the hair—they are made of electrified steel and will last a lifetime—they are indispensable in making the Marcel wave—they are charged with electricity, which benefits the hair—they will not absorb the oil of the hair, and are therefore sanitary—they are simple in construction and easy to use—they have no loose parts, and do not get out of order—they are undoubtedly the cheapest and best wavers on the market.

A Nervous Woman Finds Relief From Suffering.

Women who suffer from extreme nervousness, often endure much suffering before finding any relief. Mrs. Joseph Snyder, of Tiffin, O., had such an experience, regarding which she says:

"Six months I was bedfast with nervous prostration. I had striking spells, a cold, clammy feeling, could not stand the slightest noise. At times I would almost fly to pieces; stomach very weak. My husband insisted on my taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I began to improve before I had finished the first bottle until I was entirely cured."

MRS. JOSEPH SNYDER, 262 Hudson St., Tiffin, Ohio. Many remedies are recommended for diseases of the nervous system that fail to produce results because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. Dr. Miles' Nervine has proven its value in such cases so many times that it is unnecessary to make claims for it. You can prove its merits for yourself by getting a bottle of your druggist, who will return the price if you receive no benefit.
