Talk about your poor bridges, accidents, death and destruction, any old wooden bridge should have the death head with flaring red eyes hung high above each one in Cass county. Harve Manners, the garage man at Plattsmouth, went through the bridge at the foot of the hill at the Glen Perry farm a few days ago. Remember, there is trouble ahead unless we have better bridges.

Wheat Crop Fair.

All the farmers of this locality are sure mightily busy these days looking after their wheat crop. No less than a dozen threshing machines are running within a few miles of Murray, and of course it requires the work of all harvest hands available. The crop is turning out pretty well, although not so good as last year. It seems to be the general belief that the average yield will be about twenty bushels per acre, or a trifle less.

A Pleasant Meeting.

The Missionary society met last Friday afternoon at the pleasant farm home of Mr. and Elmer Boedeker, south of Murray. There were about thirty ladies present and a most pleasing and profitable meeting was held. At the usual hour refreshments were served, which was one of the most enjoyable features of the afternoon. Many of the ladies are very thankful to Uncle Sam Latta for being permitted to attend the meeting by him pressing his big new Berg car into service in conveying them to and from the Boedeker home.

Very Unfortunate Accident.

We certainly regret very much to learn that our excellent young friend, Al Heneger, met with quite a serious accident yesterday while engaged in threshing. In some manner he slipped and fell and the heavy water wagon being driven by passed over his leg. While no bones were broken the limb was quite badly bruised and will compel him to be laid up for some time. The most unfortunate part of the accident was the fact that the injured limb was the one that he has been having such a serious time with for the past few years, suffering from necrosis of the bone. The accident may have a tendency to cause him more trouble with the old disease.

"Guess that's goin' some," is an old worn expression, but it proved all right the other day. Johnny James who lives in Madison township, was cutting wheat, and a casting on his binder broke. Mr. James went to the home and called his implement dealer in Geneva by telephone and told him what was broke, etc. The dealer had no casting in stock, so telephoned his house in Lincoln, who told him they would send it out on the first train. Mr. James went to Fairmont in an auto and met the train, got his casting, took it home, put it on his binder and commenced cutting wheat in less than three hours.

Luck. A king once said to a minister, "Do you believe in luck?"

"I do," said the minister.

"Can you prove it?" asked the king.

"Yes, I can." So one night he tied up to the ceiling of a room a bag containing peas mixed with diamonds and let in two men, one of whom believed in luck and the other in human effort alone. The one who believed in luck quietly laid himself down on the ground on his blanket; the other after a time found the bag and, feeling in the dark these diamonds, ate the peas and threw the diamonds to his companion, saying, "There are the stones for your fiddleness."

The man below received them in his blanket. In the morning the king and the minister came and told each man to keep what he had found. The man who believed in trying got the peas which he had eaten; the other got the diamonds.

The minister then said, "Sire, there may, you see, be luck, but it is as rare as peas mixed with diamonds, so let none hope to live by luck."—Eastern Fable.

Concerning Two Sounds.

When Joseph Henry Lumpkin was chief justice of Georgia a case was brought up from Columbus in which a wealthy citizen asked for an injunction to prevent the construction of a planing mill across the street very near his palatial residence. His grounds for complaint consisted chiefly in the proposition that the noise of the mill would wake him too early in the morning.

"Let the mill be built," said the chief justice in rendering his decision. "Let its wheels be put in motion. The progress of machinery must not be stopped to suit the whims or the fears of any man. The sound of the machinery will not be a nuisance. On the contrary, it will prove a lullaby. Indeed, I know of but two sounds in all nature that a man cannot become reconciled to, and they are the braying of an ass and the tongue of a scolding woman."—Atlanta Constitution.
