

DON'T FORGET "SEP-TEMBER MORN" ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Greatest Musical Comedy That Has Visited Plattsburgh in Years, and With More Pretty Girls.

From Friday's Daily.
And now comes the new musical play with an airy, topical title of "September Morn," a cute, lively story that fairly convulses the audience as every bit of crisp, witty dialogue and laughable situations are presented, and one finds his or herself humming or whistling the jingly tunes after the catch music is reeled off by the harmonious voices of the augmented chorus and feature songs of the principals. The story goes with a hurrah, as Rudolph Plastics, a would-be artist, who claims to have painted the celebrated Chaha's picture called "September Morn" (but in reality cannot paint the side of a barn and do it well), continues to get himself in tight places. Leo Greenwood, the comedian of real, entertaining methods, has the role of Rudolph, and his antics go with a scream. An actress claims to be the original model of the popular picture and she instructs her publicity promoter to loost her as the real "September Morn," who was not afraid to bathe in the open or the lake or whatever it was. The dodging of Rudolph and the actress, both knowing they are imposters, creates no end of jovial line and situation. A bluff army officer also gets mixed up in the affairs of the lady thespian, in fact, falls in love with her, only to find that she is his wife's dearest friend. This and the innumerable other complications keep those in front of the footlights just howling with genuine delight. The story is funny throughout. At intervals the big musical numbers are introduced by a bevy of dancing experts who are seen in the latest tango, shark-swish dips and famous hesitation waltzes, which are dreamy and decidedly popular at this period.

The company numbers forty and there are no sticks among the lot. Leo Greenwood, dainty Ollie Carew, Georgia Ellen and Barbara Douglas are with the company, which comes from the LaSalle opera house, Chicago, after a fine run.

At the Parmele theater Wednesday night, January 13.

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS SEVERED BETWEEN FAMILIES AFTER A BROIL

From Friday's Daily.
For some time past visaged war has hovered over one of the buildings on lower Main street that sheltered a number of families, and several times there has nearly come being a suspension of diplomatic relations, and finally the blow has fallen and in its way it has proven as serious as the opening of the warfare between Austria and Serbia, although in this case the odds seem to be more evenly divided.

A few days ago, as has been reported, one of the ladies living in the building was in the hall attempting to remove a padlock that had been placed on a door there, when the other party came out, and their conversation took on a decidedly warlike tone, and the lady with the hammer, it is stated, made a pass at the other lady, but never finished it, as she was put down with a swift left swing to the wind, which almost caused her to take the count, but as soon as she recovered the smoke of verbal battle raged for some time.

Yesterday afternoon a complaint was filed in the office of Judge Archer by the lady who claims that she was assaulted and threatened, and together with it an affidavit asking that the case be continued for trial, and Judge Archer decided to stage the second act of the little drama for February 5th, when the whole story of both sides will be laid before his honor and it will require truly the deepest and most careful judgment to tell the real straight of the affair.

From Saturday's Daily.
The wedding of Herman Stohliman and Miss Hulda Grete took place at the German Lutheran church Sunday morning, January 3, following immediately after the usual Sunday services, and being witnessed by the entire congregation.

The bride was formerly a resident of Paulina, Iowa, but has resided in this vicinity the past two years. She is the niece of Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Hartman, and Rev. Hartman officiated at the wedding, using the impressive German Lutheran marriage ceremony. Mrs. Stohliman is much loved by a large circle of friends, among whom she is very popular. For the past year she was assistant in the dry goods department of W. F. Diers' general store, where she was a general favorite because of her amiable disposition and obliging manner.

The groom is the oldest son of Mrs. George Stohliman and represents one of the oldest and most highly respected families of the community and is a young man of exemplary habits and excellent character. He has remodelled the house on what is known as the Panska farm, but now belonging to the Stohliman estate, and there the happy couple will reside.

The bride's gown of white crepe de chine over messaline was a beautiful affair. Her traveling suit was a dark blue serge. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's mother, only the immediate relatives being present. After an elaborate wedding dinner the bride and groom were driven to Murock, where they took the train for a short wedding trip, followed by the good wishes and congratulations of a host of friends.—Louisville Courier.

FRATERNAL ORDER OF EAGLES HAVE A DELIGHTFUL TIME

The Members of the Order and Their Families Enjoy One of the Finest Times in History of the Lodge.

Saturday evening the members of Plattsburgh Aeria No. 365, Fraternal Order of Eagles, together with their families, gathered at their lodge rooms to enjoy one of the most delightful times of the year together. The invitations to the pleasant gathering bore the significant legend that it was to be a rabbit supper, and this, of course, was the chief feature of the evening, and the bunnies which had fell by the score before the marksmanship of the members, were served in a manner fit for a king's taste and prepared in a most delicious manner by Mrs. W. J. Bookmeyer for the occasion. The feast of rabbit was accompanied by all the other good things to eat that goes to make up a feast of this kind and nothing was omitted to make the event one of the rarest pleasure to everyone fortunate enough to be present. The supper was served by the members of the order and everyone was given all they could possibly stand of the delicious repast.

The pleasures of the evening were also added to by the playing of progressive high five, and much pleasure was derived by the party in the fascinating game for several hours, when the honors were given out to the most skillful of the players and those who were the least successful in the games. The Eagles have the reputation of being splendid entertainers, and their rare treat of the rabbit supper was certainly one that was most thoroughly enjoyed to the utmost, and those who were present will await with much pleasant anticipation the next event of this kind to be given by this splendid order.

After the pleasures of the supper had been disposed of the evening was spent in dancing, the banquet hall being cleared for this purpose, and the Plattsburgh orchestra furnishing the music for the delightful event, which continued until a late hour. The orchestra also gave a splendid program of selections during the progress of the feast, which was most thoroughly enjoyed.

Most Excellent Meeting.

From Friday's Daily.
The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Luke's church was held yesterday afternoon at the beautiful new home of Mrs. Carl Fricke. There was a large number of the members and friends of the organization in attendance and a most excellent meeting was held. The usual business session was held during the early hours of the afternoon, after which Miss Barbara Gering, who went to Omaha the second of January to hear Miss Ely, who has been engaged in the work in the mission fields near Shanghai, China, gave a most interesting talk on what she had heard Miss Ely tell and of the work being done in India and China. The Rev. W. S. Leete also gave an excellent talk on the large virginia seminary, he giving a description of this school and giving the number of bishops who have completed their studies at this school.
