THE "LARKIN CLUB" ENTERTAINED BY "MES-DAVES SO AND SO"

From Monday's Daily. Recently a daily paper in a Nebraska city gave a considerable review of one of the Larkin club events. In part the article follows: "The Larkin's club was entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Daves, the name of the wife of a merchant at her home. The ladies brought their fancy work and whiled away some very pleasant moments sewing, while sociability reigned supreme. During the afternoon Miss (daughter of the hostess) furnished some excellent piano selections, which were greatly enjoyed by the ladies. At the luncheon hour delicious refreshments were served, which materially added to the pleasures of the afternoon. "Those in attendance were Mesdames"—but here we refrain from giving personal, as the list included the names of the wives of some of the merchants of the town. Is it consistent of the wives and daughters of merchants, who are opposed to the mail order house business, to buy goods from the Larkin concern? What kind of an argument can the dry goods merchant, or the hardware man present against the mail order business when through his wife, he is using the food products of the Larkin company? Business of the Larkin concern is more than $70,000,000 a year, all taken from the pockets of people who should be patrons of home merchants.—Omaha Tradesman.

THOUGHT BURGLARS HAD BEEN THERE BUT THEY WERE MISTAKEN

From Wednesday's Daily. Yesterday morning a discovery was made at one of the leading stores of the city that for a few minutes caused some alarm and the suspicion that an attempted burglary had taken place, but later developments caused the burglar theory to be abandoned. It seems that some parties not connected with the store came along and saw the door of a store room in connection with the store open, and they decided to investigate further, and saw on the floor a number of burnt matches, which looked suspicious, and on looking further it could be seen from the marks left on the floor where the party had been enjoying themselves, but apparently there had been nothing bothered in any way, although it is safe to surmise that on another occasion the parties will see to it that they don't forget to lock the door very carefully on going out and in cleaning up.

Refugees in Caucasus Are Dying From Cold and Hunger. Boston, Jan. 21.—The condition of 100,000 Armenians who have migrated from Turkish territory to Russian Transcaucasia is described as deplorable in a cablegram from the central committee for Armenian relief at Tiflis received by Miran Sevastyanov, chairman of the Armenian national defense committee. The message was authorized by Catholicos Souraniant, primate of the Armenian church, and bore the signature of Bishop Mesrop. It read: "As a result of the war with Turkey, about 100,000 Armenians have migrated to the Caucasus to save themselves. The situation is extremely deplorable. Many are dying from cold and hunger. In order to save our people from ruin great assistance is necessary. In the name of these martyrs, we beg you to organize for collections of money. Address contributions to Thourneff, director of the Bank of Commerce, Tiflis."

German Airships Return Home Safely After Raid.

London, Jan. 21.—The German airships—four they are thus described by the German official report—which paid a four-hour visit to the coast town of Northfolk, dropped twenty or more bombs. The raiders' missiles killed two persons, injured ten or more others and did considerable damage to property. Yarmouth and King's Lynn, the largest towns visited, suffered the heaviest damage. Eight bombs were dropped in the former town, one of them killing an old man and an old woman, in injuring three others and smashing windows within a radius of several hundred yards. In King's Lynn a woman and a boy were killed by bombs, which demolished a row of cottages. The aircraft also visited Cromer, which, however, was not attacked; Sheringham, where four bombs were dropped; Dersingham, Gimston, Snettisham and Heacham, each of which received one missile. Snettisham and Heacham are within three miles of the King's Sandringham residence.

FOUR KILLED BY THE BOMBS.

People in the towns resided are sleeping in their cellars. Russians Repulse Germans. Russians report repulse of German attacks north of Rawa and on the Bzura river and assert they defeated the Germans with heavy losses near Radloff, western Galicia. They have made advances also in Bukovina. The French official statement announces the capture by the French of one of the trenches taken the day previously by the Germans, north of Notre Dame de Lorette. So many men perished during the eight days' struggle for heights across the river from Solissons that four days after the close of the battle the dead lay in heaps, although thousands of men had been engaged without cessation in clearing up the field.
