"THE PRINCE OF TONIGHT" IS THE SHOW OF THE AGE

The Finest Music, Best Dancers and Cutest Lot of Girls That Ever Came to Plattsmouth.

When "The Prince of Tonight" makes his bow before local playgoers at the Parnee theater Saturday night, April 24, the reason for the great success of this popular musical fantasy will impress itself upon the auditor at once. There is action, both in music and in dialogue, from rise to fall of the curtain. Scenic beauty and gorgeous costumes delight the eye, and tuneful melodies are abundant. Tom Arnold, appearing in the title role, is better suited for the part than anything that he has ever attempted. Adams, Hough and Howard, favorably known to the public as authors of "The Goddess of Liberty," "The Stubborn Cinderella," "The Time, the Place and the Girl," and a score of other successes, are also proud to assume the responsibility for "The Prince of Tonight," since it is regarded by many as the best musical comedy of the decade. LeComte and Fleisher have provided this attraction with one of the most elaborate productions ever seen on tour. The costumes, the settings and the light effects are beautiful and striking and the harmony of tints, colors and shades are enchanting.

It requires more than money and hard work or experience to prepare such a production as is to be seen in "The Prince of Tonight." Such a lavishly furnished environment is essential in the proper creation of atmosphere of magic mystery required by the fanciful story. Tom Arnold is seen as a stranded college youth at "The Breakers," Palm Beach, where he is employed as a life saver. Because of his lack of position and wealth, he is jilted by a beautiful heiress. Under the spell of the magic hour of the blooming of a century plant, he becomes Prince of Lunitania for the night, and unless he is kissed by the right girl before the night passes, he is to die at dawn.

Some of Joseph E. Howard's catchiest songs are heard, among them: "Tonight Will Never Come Again," "I Can't Be True So Far Away," "Mean Moon Man," "I Fell in Love on Monday," "You're a Dear Old World, After All," "Her Eyes Are Blue for Yale," "The Best Thing That a Waiter Does Is Wait."

BEN HORNING HOME FROM HOSPITAL OVER SUNDAY

Yesterday afternoon Ben Horning came down from Omaha to spend Sunday with his family at the farm south of this city. Mr. Horning has just been able to leave the hospital, where he underwent an operation for a growth on the right cheek, and which developed quite rapidly and was regarded as very dangerous, but the operation, which was performed at the Wise Memorial hospital, seems to have removed the growth, and Mr. Horning is feeling much better. He returned last evening to the hospital for further treatment. That he is recovering so nicely will be most pleasing news to his host of friends throughout the county.

Mrs. Andrew Kroehler, who is also at the Immanuel hospital, is getting along nicely and every prospect for her recovery is now held by her physicians and family.

Mrs. Arthur Keffler, at the Wise Memorial hospital, is also reported as doing very nicely, and although her operation has been a very severe one, she is getting along as well as could possibly be expected and is progressing in fine shape, which will be very pleasing news to her friends here.

FRIENDS ASSIST MRS. HOMER M'KAY IN CELEBRATING HER BIRTHDAY

Saturday afternoon a most delightful gathering was held at the home of Mrs. Homer McKay in the north part of the city, when some twenty of her friends gathered to assist her in celebrating her birthday anniversary in proper form, and the occasion was one filled with the greatest of pleasure to all those present. Mrs. McKay has just returned home from the Panama canal zone and brought with her a splendid collection of different articles from that locality, and these were of the greatest interest to the party and it was with great pleasure that they viewed the many handsome articles and wished the hostess many more happy birthdays and that they might all be able to join in the happy occasion. As one of the features of the afternoon's amusement the guests were requested to each write a few lines on a letter that will be sent to Mrs. W. E. Maxon, a daughter of Mrs. McKay, residing in the canal zone, and each one penned a greeting from the old home for this lady that she will enjoy in her far-off home. In honor of the occasion Mrs. McKay received a large number of very handsome remembrances that will be treasured by her in the years to come. The McKay home was very prettily decorated with red carnations and ferns, which lent a most artistic touch to the happy gathering. At a suitable hour a very delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Bunch and Mrs. Minnie Pickard and Miss Bunch. As a remembrance of the happy event Mrs. McKay presented each guest present with a handsome hand-painted fan, which had been brought from Panama and which were beautiful souvenirs of the occasion.

JOHN BARLEY CORN GETS WM. FOSTER INTO TROUBLE

William Foster, whose appearance attested the fact that he had suffered from an engagement with old John Barleycorn, was present this morning in the court of Judge M. Archer to answer to that authority for his having been in a state of intoxication, and entered a plea of guilty to the charge preferred against him. The court, after hearing the statement of William, decided to place a fine of $2 and costs for the violation of the peace and dignity of the community, and was able to disgorge from the prisoner the sum of $2, which was accepted, as the man stated he desired to take up work on a farm which he had in sight, and the judge accordingly allowed him to go his way to take up his work, with a warning to William to avoid the pitfalls that might beset his way.

Buy a BUICK

Nearly everyone who really understands gasoline motors boosts the overhead valve type. The reason is plain. This type uses less gasoline, less oil, develops more power, keeps cooler, has less carbon, is more accessible, has no "pockets," the explosion is direct, exhausts the gases completely, motor picks up quickly, throttles down evenly and is conceded to be the most reliable and dependable type. Not only is this the best type of motor, but the Buick is the best motor of this type, because the Buick Motor Company is one of the pioneer builders of the overhead valve motor. The rest of the Buick car is equally as good. Let us show you.
