DIAZ DIES IN EXILE AT PARIS

Former President of Mexico
Passes Away Very Suddenly.

FAMILY AT HIS BEDSIDE.

Despot Fought Against United States
With the Forties and French Forces at
Later Day—Was Elected President
Again.

Paris, July 3.—General Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, died here. General Diaz's wife, Senora Carmen Romero, Rubio Diaz and their son, Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and the latter's wife were at his bedside when the end came.

General Diaz began to fail rapidly about three weeks ago and, while his death was not unexpected, owing to his advanced age and recent failing health, the crisis came suddenly.

Colonel Diaz, in announcing the death of his father, said that a complication of disease, due to advanced age, was the cause.

General Diaz was born in 1830. His family were of old Spanish stock, with an infusion of Indian blood. Left fatherless at the age of three, he was educated at the expense of the bishop of Oaxaca, with the intention of becoming a priest, but he eventually turned to law and then at the outbreak of the war with the United States turned to a military career. He served throughout that struggle in a militia company. He and one other were the only two in the country who dared openly oppose the continuation of Santa Ana's dictatorship. His execution was ordered, but he escaped and joined Herrera's revolt. He speedily made a reputation as a soldier, and as a brigadier general he was the chief thorn in the side of the French forces, when, taking advantage of the civil war in the United States, they attempted to place Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne of a Mexican empire. Diaz harassed the enemy constantly, and in June, 1867, captured Mexico City with his forces. On the re-establishment of the republic he was unsuccessful as a candidate for president, but in 1877 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the fugitive president, Lerdo. His last and eighth election was in July, 1910.

To Diaz was given credit for the advance of Mexico to the status of a stable and prosperous government, although the autocratic methods he employed were widely criticized.

BRADSTREET'S TRADEREVUE

Further Improvement Outstanding
Feature of Report.

New York, July 3.—Bradstreet's says: Further improvement, notwithstanding vagaries of the weather and slow movements at some points, is the outstanding feature of the week's reports. Where the weather has been favorable seasonable goods have moved from the counters of retail dealers in larger volume. Crops collectively considered are promising. War orders are of enormous proportions, brass mills in New England sold far ahead, are intensely active; machine tool plants are overflowing with orders, subletting of contracts being a feature; steel mills are doing more; specifications for finished steel are larger; the melt of pig iron is increasing; idleness continues to decrease; effects of war orders are spreading out to other lines, percolating, as it were, through the trade; money is easy and country banks are drawing funds for crop moving purposes. Bank clearings, $3,269,000 for week.

The car skidded from the roadway over an embankment of some fifteen feet and in the fall Mr. Richey had his leg injured, as well as his arm badly bruised, while Mrs. Richey escaped without injury, but a friend who was with them sustained very severe injuries and was compelled to go to the hospital in Des Moines to undergo an operation as a result of the accident. Things to Consider in Buying a Car!

SERVICE—Every Overland Car sold in this vicinity since 1908 is still in service.

PRICE—No car today gives as much real value for the money as the Overland. You can satisfy yourself on this subject by comparing specifications with competitive cars.

UP-KEEP—No car was ever built that did not at some time or other need some repair. Repairs for the Overland can be obtained the same day as ordered, and at prices far below what other manufacturers charge. This fact does not occur to the average buyer until he needs some parts and finds it takes from one to three weeks to get parts and in many cases at prices two and three times what the Overland asks. Automobile factories have declined in numbers from 270 in 1911 to 119 in 1915. In other words 151 factories out of 270 have quit making cars in the last four years, and well informed men in the automobile business predict that the change in the next two years will be still more startling, which means that it will be still more difficult and still more delay on parts for cars that are not being manufactured at that time.

There is only one manufacturing plant in the world that produces more cars than the Overland Company, which has increased its production from 400 cars in 1908 to over 100,000 cars per year now. If the Overland car had not given far better average satisfaction to the buyer in the past it would not have outstripped all its competitors, many of which were in the automobile field twice as long.
