DEATH OF MRS. JACOB WENDELL, AN OLD RESIDENT HERE

The Deceased Was a Very Prominent Lady and Her Death Was Quite Sudden.

The community was shocked this morning to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Jacob Wendell at her home last night at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Wendell had been in her usual health and activity until only a few days ago when she succumbed to an attack of cold and her system was evidently not strong enough to resist it. Her advanced age of eighty-two years has been borne with unusual strength and fortitude. Her recent associations in church and social activities have encouraged her friends in the hope the frailties so common to one of her advanced years would not fasten on her for some time to come.

Mrs. Wendell has been for many years a resident of Plattsburgh. Her maiden name was Harriett A. Sherman. She was born October 2, 1834, near Johnsonville, New York, where she resided for many years with her parents. She received her education at Fort Edward academy, New York. On October 2, 1859, she was married to Jacob Wendell, and in 1885 they came to Nebraska, making their home at Plattsburgh.

Mr. Wendell preceded her to the "better world" on February 19 of the present year. The incident of his death and the loneliness caused by the separation from the companion with whom she had traveled in life for almost fifty-seven years, weighed heavily upon her, and the strong, indomitable spirit she has so long evidenced began to break.

Loving hands and tender ministries from those nearest and dearest to her made the closing days of her life as comfortable as possible. Her sudden taking was one from the midst of life, as only a few days ago she attended an afternoon meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church and was making plans to soon entertain them in her own home.

To those who knew Mrs. Wendell best she was a strong and faithful friend, a kind and generous neighbor, an active, energetic member of society who never failed to become a part of the movements for the benefit and uplift of humanity.

Her two daughters, Mrs. Charles Forbes and Mrs. A. E. Gass, have always been most closely attentive and devoted to the comfort and pleasure of their mother, and were with her when the final summons came.

The funeral of this good woman will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the late residence. Rev. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will have charge.

TALENTED NEW YORK SINGER VISITOR HERE

Miss Elizabeth Wood of New York city arrived in the city last evening for a brief visit with her aunt, Mrs. J. T. Baird, and family. Miss Wood was born and reared in New Orleans, where Mrs. Baird resided when a girl, but this was the first opportunity she had ever had of seeing any of the Bairds. She is quite a talented musician and is on her way back to New York after having taken part in a number of musical festivals. She sang in New Orleans the first of last week and at the May Festival held under the auspices of Iowa state college last Friday and Saturday, taking the contralto part in Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah." Besides having a class, she sings in two of the large churches in New York, the Hamilton Grange Reformed and the Hebrew Tabernacle. Miss Wood regretted very much that she could not prolong her visit in Plattsburgh, but was obliged to be back by Wednesday of this week. She left on No. 2 this afternoon.

Judge W. H. Newell is feeling somewhat indisposed for the past two days as the result of the effects of the heat, but at last reports was showing signs of great improvement. Mr. Newell, who is an ardent fisherman, was out along the Missouri river last Friday, and the exposure to the heat seems to have been too much for him as Saturday he was feeling quite poorly, but he has since improved so that it is thought that with a few days of quiet at home he will be able to be around as usual.

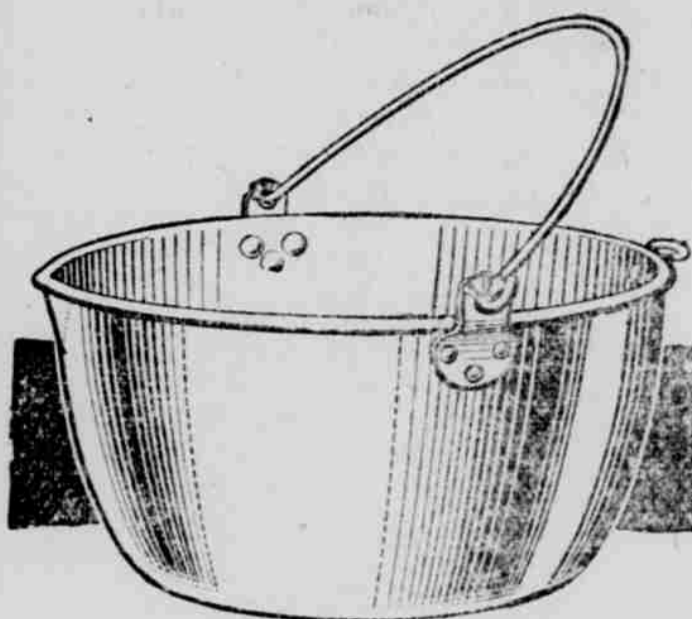

Malvin Moore of Griswold, Iowa, was an over Sunday visitor in this city, coming over Saturday morning and departing on No. 6 this morning for his home. He is much impressed with our farming country and the general appearance of the city.

MAN PASSING AS INSURANCE AGENT SECURES GOOD MONEY

Posing as an agent for an insurance company, a man giving his name as L. Hess, last Friday succeeded in persuading R. A. McCoy, of this city, to endorse a forged cashier's check for $55.78 on a bank at Miller, Iowa, and leaving town before the discovery of the forgery was made. The sheriff and secret service men were put on his trail at once, when a letter received yesterday from a notary public at Miller notified the bank here of the fact. No clues which could lead to his arrest have been found.

A telegram from Plattsburgh pertaining to a business deal convinced Mr. McCoy of the man's veracity, and he accompanied him to the bank and endorsed the check, to enable the stranger to procure needed funds. The fact of its being a cashier's check was further convincing evidence as they are notably hard to procure. This is proof that the man's plans were well laid and it is very likely a game that has been worked by him in other places as well as this.

The telegram sent from Plattsburgh is rather an important clue on the fact of it, though investigation, so far, has failed to ascertain whether the forger had an accomplice or sent the wire to himself. Either is possible and the authorities are making further investigation.

He is supposed to have left town on Friday evening though this is not a proved fact. It is more than likely that he lost no time in getting out of the city after accomplishing his purpose, however. There is no doubt that, though efforts so far have failed, the man will be apprehended sooner or later if he works the game with any regularity. Meanwhile Mr. McCoy is out $55.78.—Nebraska City News.

The man Hess is not known in this city and no one apparently has any knowledge of his being here or having any business transactions and it looks as though the Nebraska City man will be out his hard earned cash as a result of his kindness to the stranger.

W. T. Scotten Very Low.

Reports from the bedside of W. T. Scotten this morning are that the patient is in very critical condition with only a slight improvement shown. Mr. Scotten is conscious only a part of the time and suffers greatly from his illness. The complications of his malady are such as to offer but little hopes for his recovery.
