DEMOCRATS LOUDLY ACCLAIM WILSON'S REG-IME OF PEACE

Cheer Glynn's Keynote Speech On Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity.

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—The democratic national convention, at its first session today, heard the keynote of Americanism and peace, preparedness and prosperity, sounded by former Governor Glynn of New York, as temporary chairman, and, with a high pitch of enthusiasm, emphatically registered by demonstration after demonstration its approval of President Wilson's peaceful conduct of foreign affairs.

The convention, which has gotten under way with such perfunctory demonstrations as mark every national gathering of the kind, soon stirred itself into roaring cheers as Chairman Glynn cited historic parallels to show that other presidents, including republicans, had adjusted threatening foreign situations without resort to war.

Policy American.
"The policy of the administration," he declared, "has been just as American as the American flag itself."

He went down the lists of presidents, recounting their action to avoid war, the delegates catching the spirit of his argument, and as he referred to each particular president some delegate would call:

"What did he do?"
"He settled the trouble by negotiation," was the reply which Glynn invariably returned, and the convention would roar its approval.

Bryan Weeps.
William J. Bryan, as a newspaper correspondent in the press box, wept with emotion as Glynn pictured the victories of peace, but he laughed with the crowd when a Texas delegate interrupting Glynn, leaped to his chair and cried:

"And don't forget that policy also is satisfactory to William Jennings Bryan."

Aside from a sixteen-minute demonstration when Chairman Glynn predicted President Wilson's re-election, Glynn's speech was sprinkled with demonstrations which he found it difficult to stem so he could go on.

It was plain that the telling points on the delegates were the recital of President Wilson's effort to keep the country at peace.

No Homes War-Wrecked.
"This policy," he said, "may not satisfy the fire-eater and the swash-buckler.

"But it does satisfy the mothers of the land, at whose hearth and fire-side no jingoistic war has placed an empty chair.

"It does satisfy the daughters of this land, from whom bluster and brag have sent no loving brother to the dissolution of the grave.

"It does satisfy the fathers of this land and the sons of this land who will fight for our flag and die for our flag when reason primes the rifle; when honor draws the sword, and when justice breathes a blessing on the standard they upheld."

The last of the words were drowned out in a roar of applause that swept the Coliseum.

"Repeat it," cried the delegates, "repeat it." "All right, be quiet, and I'll repeat it," responded Glynn, and he did to applause and cheering.

No other president since the civil war, Glynn told the convention, had faced such crucial problems, none had displayed a grasp of statesmanship more profound.

Decision Up to Voter.
"Whether the course the country has pursued during this crucial period is to be continued and whether the principles that have been asserted as our national policy shall be indorsed or withdrawn," Glynn told the convention, was the paramount question of the voter to decide.

"No lesser issue must cloud it," said he, "no unrelated problems must confuse it."

After hearing the keynote speech, the convention adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow. Committees then went into session to prepare their work for the session.

Today the big Coliseum, holding about 12,000 people, was practically filled, and despite a constantly rising temperature it was fairly comfortable between lines of suffragists spread along twelve blocks of Locust street, the most traveled route to the Coliseum.

The suffragists seated on chair ranged along the curbs were arrayed in white and yellow and held yellow parasols. The waving lines of yellow gave the demonstration the popular name "Golden Lane."

Although the officers of the bank say that the machine is a somewhat expensive addition, yet they feel that it will add to their already extended service to their customers the further accommodation of a monthly statement if their customers desire it, without the necessity of always carrying in their pass books, and that it is in line with the progressive spirit of the time.
