CHILD LABOR BILL IS PASSED BY THE SENATE

Measure Prohibits Interstate Commerce in Products of Children Under 14

Washington, Aug. 8.—The senate today passed the bill to prevent interstate commerce in products of child labor. The vote was 52 to 12.

The measure had already passed the house. Senators who voted against the bill were: Blankhead, Alabama; Bryan and Fletcher, Florida; Hardwick and Smith, Georgia; Overman and Simmons, North Carolina; Smith and Tillman, South Carolina; Williams, Mississippi (democrat) and Oliver and Penrose, Pennsylvania (republicans).

Opposition to the measure had come chiefly from southern cotton mill owners, and the group of southern democrats who voted against it had fought in caucus and maintained their opposition during the senate debate on the ground that the regulation proposed is unconstitutional and would interfere with the rights of the states.

Eleven democrats from the south, Senators Swanson and Martin, Virginia; Underwood, Alabama; Vandaman, Mississippi; James and Beckham, Kentucky; Ransdell, Louisiana; Robinson, Arkansas; Shields, Tennessee; Culbertson and Sheppard, Texas, voted for it.

In order to expedite consideration of the measure in conference, senate conferences were appointed immediately after the final vote was taken. The only amendment adopted would extend the bill's provisions to bar all products of establishments employing children from interstate commerce.

The house measure was directed only against those on which labor actually had been employed. Senator Borah did not offer the amendment he had drawn, attaching the immigration bill as a rider in order to force action on it at this session. Amendments to make the prohibition apply only to children under 14 years of age who could not read or write, to make it apply to children on farms, and to postpone its effective date for two years were voted down.

The bill as passed would prohibit interstate commerce in the product of any mine or quarry in which children under 16 years of age have been employed, or in the product of any mill, cannery, workshop, factory or manufacturing plant in which children under 14 years of age have worked.

Does Prohibition Prohibit?

Testimony of Two Reputable Witnesses of Des Moines, Iowa

The First Witness: Extract from an editorial which appeared in The Des Moines Evening Tribune of June 6, 1916:

"The Evening Tribune has asked a half dozen men recently who ought to know, and they agree that liquor can now be bought openly at more places than when we had saloons."

The Second Witness: Extract from a news article, prominently displayed on the first page of The Des Moines Capital of February 19, 1916:

"Des Moines banished the saloons a year ago last Wednesday. "But Des Moines today is consuming liquor at the rate of a million dollars' worth a year—mostly whiskey. "Des Moines is receiving two carloads of liquor a day. "This is at the rate of 750 carloads a year or fifteen trainloads of fifty cars each." * * *

Here we have the testimony of two responsible Iowa newspapers that Statewide PROHIBITION does not prohibit.

In Nebraska, under our Local Option, High License Law, the people of any community are granted an opportunity to say whether or not license shall be issued governing the sale of alcoholic beverages.

In future articles we will present evidence proving that Nebraska, under that law, has made great progress from a moral as well as from an economic standpoint.

LOVE SOLVES A BIG PROBLEM IN TENSE DRAMA

Powerful Story of Brave Man's Endeavor to Curb Inherited Evil.

William Russell and Helene Rosson Stars in "The Craving" at the Air Dome.

The bitterest struggle a man is forced to undergo is that of overcoming an inherent longing for drink, beguethed by some reckless ancestor, who had no thought of posterity. Such was the inheritance of Foster Calhoun in the Mutual Masterpicture, "The Craving," five-part drama.

A gripping, virile story of the battle of a strong man to overcome the taste for liquor, powerfully depicted with genuine dramatic force. The story tells of the expulsion of Calhoun from college, where he was one of the most popular men and star player of the football team. A rival learns of his inherited taste for liquor and brings about his disgrace by getting him drunk. He loses his sweetheart and flees to the west, where he continues his debauchery and finally marries a dance hall girl.

Of all Calhoun's old friends, but one stands by him: Crooky, a crippled newsboy. It is through Crooky's devotion that he is saved from himself. Calhoun finds his wife in the arms of another, and after a fight, in which a lamp is upset which ignites the cabin, Calhoun and Crooky flee to the mountains, believing that his wife and the other man were destroyed in the fire.

While up in the mountains Crooky prevails upon his friend to stop drinking. The fight is a bitter one and when Calhoun learns that his uncle has died and left him heir to his estate, he refuses to leave until he is sure that the craving for drink had permanently ceased. On his return to civilization he learns that the woman he married had duped him as she had a husband at the time of her marriage to Calhoun.

The girl of his college days had not forgotten him and realizing that he had gone through the fire accepts him at his new value.

Popular William Russell, one of the ablest of screen stars, as Foster Calhoun, makes this role stand out as one of the greatest of film characterizations. The intricacies of the role give him ample opportunity to display his remarkable powers for forceful acting. Helene Rosson as Margueret Cummings is excellent, while Charlotte Burton as Roby has never been cast before in such a dramatic role, or in one in which she has the opportunity for such strong emotional work.

MEN RELEASED FROM THE CHARGE OF TAKING HORSES

From Wednesday's Daily. The preliminary hearing of Melvie Sisk and William Lehenbauer, charged with attempting to steal a team of horses belonging to Arthur E. Jones at Louisville, was held yesterday in the court of Judge M. Archer, and as a result of the hearing the men were turned loose. The court held that the evidence offered was not strong enough to hold that a crime had been committed and accordingly the complaint against the men was dismissed by the court. The evidence failed to show clearly that the men had made any attempt to make a getaway with the horses, and of course they could not be bound over to the district court, and were given their liberty.

W. G. Boedeker, cashier of the Murray State bank, accompanied by his wife, departed yesterday afternoon for a trip of a few weeks in Colorado and the west.
