THE VALUE OF A LIFE

By special arrangement through the courtesy of local Modern Woodmen, the Puls & Gansemer hall has booked two reels of motion pictures, featuring George Gray, in a true and realistic film story of his part in the present war—not of bloodshed—but in the fight against and conquest of that menacing monster of the human flesh—tuberculosis. Gray is one of the million members of the Modern Woodmen of America. Discovering that he is afflicted with the disease, he takes advantage of the comforts, care, and cure of the Sanatorium owned, maintained, and operated by that Society, free of charge to its members. For several years that fraternal institution has thus actively and effectively cooperated in the world-wide movement advocated by the Red Cross and medical authorities, to stamp out the dread "white plague" and Gray is the beneficiary of this Woodmen life-saving station. It is an intensely interesting and heart-gripping story of the leaving-taking of wife and children. Weak in body and hopeless in mind he journeys to the beautiful Rocky Mountain region near Colorado Springs, Colo., where, in the rarified climate and constant sunshine, at an altitude of 7,000 feet, he is destined to spend nine months at the foot of Mount Cedar, in the care of the most modern Sanatorium in the world. His experiences in "chasing the cure," his absolute rest from all cares and labor, his gradual return to health and strength, his "hikes" among the fragrant pines and over the rocky trails of the U. S. forest reserve, leased by and adjoining the Sanatorium, result in his final return to family and friends, victorious over his foe. "The Value of a Life" is a thrilling and dramatic story—and absolutely true as well; indeed, Gray's experience has been duplicated by nearly 3,000 of his fellow Neighbors, who have already enjoyed the benefits of this justly celebrated institution. This film is pronounced by competent authorities to be one of the very best in this age of highly developed motion pictures, and is in such great demand that it can be booked only for one day and night in each town or city. It is a rare opportunity one can not afford to miss. At the Puls & Gansemer hall on February 24th, in addition to the regular program, 6 reels in all.

Dr. Gilmore was a Plattsmouth visitor Tuesday.

Mrs. John Yardley has been on the sick list for the past week.
