RED CROSS WORK IN PLATTSMOUTH

This Noble Work Was Given a Start Friday in Two Meetings, in the Afternoon and Evening.

From Saturday's Daily. The Red Cross work in this city was given a start yesterday in two meetings held at the auditorium of the public library to promote the organization of a local chapter of this society for the relief of the wounded in wartime and the suffering of mankind.

In the afternoon a meeting for the ladies was held under the auspices of the National Surgical Dressings Committee of America, which is actively engaged in the war relief work and which supplies a great many of the base hospitals in France with supplies for the care of the wounded of our allies, as well as the German wounded who are brought in from the front.

This organization is very active in the larger cities, and in Omaha there is a large chapter, that is actively engaged in the making of bandages, as well as the comfort kits that are being presented to each soldier at the front. Mrs. O. C. Redick of Omaha and Mrs. J. T. Stewart of Council Bluffs were present at the meeting and explained to the ladies a part of what was expected of the members of the society in assisting in the care of the wounded. Mrs. Redick, who has charge of the work of the preparation of bandages in the Omaha committee, had with her a sample of the packages used by the surgeons at the front, and in the preparation of which the noble women of America are working day and night to relieve the suffering of the wounded of friend and foe.

Mrs. Stewart, who has the supervision of the making of the comfort kits for the soldiers, pointed out to the ladies the articles that are necessary in one of these kits, consisting of needle, thread, tooth brush, paste, and other small articles that will be found a necessity in the care of clothing and of the person. These have been dispatched to the front in large numbers by the members of the committee. Both addresses were listened to with the greatest of interest by the ladies and a great deal learned of the working of the society. The formation of a local chapter of the organization was carried out by the selection of Mrs. T. P. Livingston as the chairman, and preparations will be made to commence the work of aiding in the relief of the soldiers.

In the evening the Commercial club met at the auditorium of the library to take up the work of the formation of a Red Cross chapter and quite a large number, both of men and women were in attendance to learn of what was desired and to take their part freely and fully in the cause of humanity. President W. A. Robertson of the Commercial club, stated the purpose of the meeting and the need of the Red Cross work in the world wide war. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. G. McClusky of the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. T. P. Livingston, who was in attendance at the meeting, was asked by President Robertson to explain a little of the Red Cross society's work in peace and war time. Dr. Livingston stated that the American Red Cross was one of the forty-six national societies devoted to the needs of suffering humanity all over the world. It knew no race, creed or nationality in the work of relief, and on the battlefields of the world was carrying on the work of relieving the suffering and pain of the soldiers of all the warring nations. The American society of the Red Cross had established through the battlefields of France six of the finest base hospitals in the world, and at present there were 3,200 surgeons and 7,000 nurses in the field looking after the needs of the suffering. The members of the society in service were devoted to the aid of those needing it, and any sum contributed to the work of the Red Cross would do the greatest good in the world. The women of the United States and all over the world were doing a great good in the terrible war in providing for the work of mercy, and there could be nothing greater in the world than this work.

It was decided that the Plattsmouth chapter be formed at once, and steps were taken to perfect the organization by the election of officers, and the following were chosen:

President—Judge James T. Begley.
Vice President—Dr. T. P. Livingston.

Treasurer—R. F. Patterson.
Secretary—William A. Robertson.

After a short discussion of the work that will be needed from the local association in the securing of members the meeting adjourned as the Red Cross chapter, to meet again on Thursday evening next, at 8 o'clock at the library building. The bandage committee will also meet at the library on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A treat was given those in attendance at the meeting when one of the O'Brien-Hicks iceless containers was brought forth, and which contained ice cream, which was served to the gathering and much enjoyed, and President Robertson and Mr. R. F. Patterson, assisted by Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. T. P. Livingston did the serving in splendid shape. The ice cream had been kept all day in the container without ice and was as hard as when first placed in the container, and it certainly was a pleasing test of the heat and cold proof qualities of this device. This is the factory that has been desirous of locating in this city, and today there are a number of strong boosters for the Hicks-O'Brien company. The cones used in serving the cream were also turned out on the machines invented by L. C. Sharp of this city.

After the close of the Red Cross meeting the regular business of the Commercial club was taken up and some time spent in discussing the secretaryship of the club, which position had been made vacant by the resignation of Henry A. Schneider. It was finally decided that the place should be left vacant at present and that President William A. Robertson be empowered to see if some suitable person could not be secured for the position.

In the selection of the delegates to the state convention of Commercial clubs the following were chosen: E. H. Wescott, F. M. Bestor, J. P. Falter, R. F. Patterson, L. C. Sharp. This meeting will be held in Omaha, May 22-25, in connection with the state conservation meeting, and every member of the Commercial club is invited to attend the meetings at Omaha at least one day.

A letter was also read from the Omaha Machine works relative to the location of a metallic packing manufacturing company in this city, and for which it is desired to have stock subscriptions of $5,000. The plant will be run in connection with the Western Machine and Foundry company of this city. It was referred to the committee on new industries for further action.

The matter of the chautauqua was discussed and the sale of the tickets for the event discussed, and the president stated that the sale of the 400 $2 tickets would be commenced at once.

BANQUET BY THE JUNIOR CLASS

Riley Hotel Transformed Into a Spot of Beauty in Honor of the Senior Class.

From Saturday's Daily.

The annual banquet tendered by the junior class of the high school to their associates of the senior class was held last evening at the Hotel Riley, when the dining room of the hotel was transformed into a spot of rarest beauty for the occasion with the handsomest of decorations, arranged by the members of the class. Throughout the room the purple and white, the colors of the high school, were in evidence, carried out in streamers festooned from the chandeliers and with the windows draped in these colors, making a scene of much beauty. On the north wall of the dining room the "1917" was brought out very effectively in the decorative scheme. The table decorations were pink and white roses, which added to the beauty of the room and a fitting setting for the pleasant gathering.

The Holly orchestra was stationed in the lobby of the hotel and gave a very pleasant program during the course of the banquet that proved a most enjoyable feature of the occasion and the numbers selected included both the standard masterpieces as well as the popular song hits of the day and were received with marked approval by a large number of young people in attendance.

The banquet itself was most delicious and served under the personal direction of Miss Ina Sutley was all that possibly could be asked for by the most discriminating.

The seniors, the guests of honor, were welcomed to the banquet board by Ludwig Halas, president of the junior class, in a few well chosen words of greeting, and was very gracefully responded to by Glen Elliott, president of the senior class. Superintendent W. G. Brooks, of the Plattsmouth city schools, was given the subject "Sincere Success," and this, as Mr. Brooks expressed, was the sentiment of every member of the high school for the members of the class that in a few short days will leave their school associations to embark upon the serious proposition of life and the problems that confront them.

Miss Elva Hartford responded to the toast, "Enthusiastic Enjoyment," in a very charming manner and was followed by the senior quartet in a musical number that was greatly enjoyed and received with the heartiest approval by the auditors and demonstrated the ability of the young people in the musical line. The subject, "Noble Notoriety," was assigned to Miss Mary Egenberger and was given in a very pleasing style that received the warmest approval of the members of the two classes. Albert Olson responded to the toast, "Individual Integrity" and his address was one filled with many pleasing thoughts to the young people. Miss Batrice Seybert, one of the members of the class of '17, gave one of her pleasing readings that was much enjoyed.

For the toast "Outright Optimism" Henry Herold was selected and his address was bubbling with the bright things that life held out to the members of the two classes. "Rightful Rewards" was responded to by Miss Elizabeth Beeson and "Seniority" by Miss Marion Maury, both of which proved decided hits of the toast list and were warmly received. The farewell was spoken by the toastmaster, Carl Wohlfarth, as the midnight hour drew near and the members of the classes departed homeward with a feeling of regret that the happy occasion had come to a close.

FRED STULL SUFFERS FROM KICK OF VICIOUS MULE

Fred Stull, who is engaged in working on the John Falter farm west of the city, late yesterday afternoon met with an accident that resulted very seriously to him. Mr. Stull was engaged in clipping one of the mules used on the farm, and in doing so came a little too close to the business end of the mule, with the result that Mr. Stull was kicked in the head by the mule, and for several hours was unconscious as the result of the vicious blow, and it is feared that he may have sustained a dangerous if not fatal injury. Medical assistance was at once summoned and the victim of the accident made as comfortable as possible. This morning he was reported as resting easy, and while still suffering much from the injury had regained consciousness and seemed to be out of danger from serious results as a consequence of the mixup with the mule.

Best Remedy for Whooping Cough.

"Last winter when my little boy had the whooping cough I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. J. B. Roberts, East St. Louis, Ill. "It kept his cough loose and relieved him of those dreadful coughing spells. It is the only cough medicine I keep in the house because I have the most confidence in it." This remedy is also good for colds and croup.

A FINE TRUCK.

From Friday's Daily. Yesterday the auto firm of J. H. McMaken & Son had one of the new Buick auto trucks in the city for a demonstration, and it was used in carrying heavy loads of brick from the Burlington tracks to the site of the new high school building. The truck did splendid work and its carrying power certainly was demonstrated by the heavy loads that it easily carried up the steep grade of high school hill without the least difficulty.
