VISITOR FROM NEHAWKA.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whiteman and son and daughter, from Nehawka, were in the city for a few hours last Monday evening, and while here Mr. Whiteman paid his respects to this office. Mr. Whiteman is one of the warm friends of this office for a great many years and we are always pleased to see him, but regret to learn that he is still suffering very much from his recent attack of rheumatism. He has consulted medical aid, made trips to the springs and started a few days ago on an auto trip to the west, but was compelled to abandon it and return home. He is some better however, at the present time, and we certainly hope that he may continue to improve, but is still compelled to get around with the aid of crutches.

NO HEAVY FROSTS IN NEBRASKA; BIG CORN YIELD

Killing frosts occurred Sunday night in Minnesota, below freezing temperatures being reported from all over the northern portion of the state. Twenty-six degrees was reported at Moorhead. There were also heavy frosts in northeastern South Dakota and eastern North Dakota and freezing weather in Canada. Crop damages were reported from the Dakotas.

The lowest temperature reported in Nebraska was 45 above zero at Hartington. The lowest in Omaha was 50 degrees at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Light showers reported from the northeastern portion extend about half across the state.

The weekly crop report of the Burlington railway shows the soil in good condition except in the southwestern portion of the state, where it is too dry for fall plowing. Threshing is nearly completed.

The corn crop of Nebraska is estimated at 220,000,000 bushels against 192,000,000 bushels last year. The Kansas corn crop is estimated at 82,000,000 bushels against 70,000,000 in 1916. The condition of this crop is reported as better now than it was August 1, when it was hewn to be exceptionally good. It is said if frost holds off a few weeks longer the corn yield will be immensely satisfactory and in any case it will be fairly so.

Late potatoes are in an excellent condition and the early crop is of average size. The condition of sugar beets is better than the average.

SIX U-BOATS SUNK BY U. S. DESTROYERS

Warships Convoying Fleet of Merchantmen, of Which Two Are Lost.

AMERICAN STEAMER SURVIVES ATTACK

Report From Westwego to Navy Department; Off Coast of France September 5.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—American destroyers are believed to have sunk six hostile submarines off the coast of France September 5, while convoying a fleet of merchantmen from the United States.

Two of the merchant ships were lost, but so far as reported, without loss of life. Meager reports to the navy department today give a brief account of the fight, transmitted from the American tank steamer Westwego, one of the ships which survived the attack.

The merchant fleet, of which the Westwego was one, was enroute to Europe from the United States when attacked. The vessels were under convoy, but no details of the fight were included in the reports received. No loss of life was reported nor were the names of the two ships sunk included in the dispatch. It is not known whether they were American ships or not. The navy department has cabled for additional information.

The Westwego was built by Germany in 1914 for the Rumanian account, under the name of the Sietua Romania. Later her registry was changed to American and afterward her name was made Westwego. The vessel is of 3,099 tons net and carried a crew of 42. Latest reports show she was in an American port August 8, and later sailed on a trans-Atlantic voyage, commanded by Captain Mulcoy.

Report to Navy. The navy department's only information was made public in the following statement:

"The navy department has received a report from Paris which states that the steamer Westwego reports on September 8, that, while cruising with several other ships, was attacked by a massed force of six submarines off the coast of France on September 5. The result of this attack was that two of the steamers attacked were sunk and probably all of the submarines were lost.

While this does not actually state that American destroyers were convoying the ships, it is believed to be the fact.

It was announced recently that a policy of convoying fleets of merchant ships across the Atlantic had been adopted, and since the Westwego and the other merchant craft which were the objects of the submarine attack were bound for Europe it is regarded as more than probable that American warships guarded the merchant ships on the way across.

Depth Bombs Probably Used. American warships have all been equipped with depth bombs for fighting submarines. This weapon has been highly perfected by American ordnance experts and proved very deadly.

If detailed reports bear out the first dispatch they will signalize the most notable action against submarines since the war began. In no other case has such a wholesale destruction of U-boats been reported. It also will mark a most striking victory for the American naval forces.

The Westwego had an experience with a German submarine before the United States entered the war, having been attacked by one January 1, while off the coast of England. She was proceeding from an American port with a cargo of oil for Europe, when a submarine fired five shots at her from astern. The Westwego's captain, J. S. Mulcoy, brought his vessel to a stop and sent a boat with his papers, whereupon the German submarine commander demanded a supply of oil, threatening to sink the ship if his demands were not complied with. The submarine commander also demanded that the vessel's $1,000,000 cargo of gasoline be thrown overboard, saying he would give Captain Mulcoy until the next morning to comply. Four barrels of cylinder oil were sent to the submarine and the Westwego proceeded. She saw no more of the submarine.

Itching, bleeding, protruding or blind piles have yielded to Doan's Ointment. 60c at all stores.
