THE SPIRIT.

Recited by a traveling man, J. W. Johnson, of Des Moines, Iowa, to Sam G. Smith, while out on a drive: "Not in the far-off regions of space, The Spirit hath its throne; In every heart it findeth place, And waiteth to be known.

Thought answereth alone to thought, And Soul with Soul hath kin, The outward God, he findeth not, Who finds not God within.

And if the vision comes to thee, Revealed by inward sign, Earth will be full of duty, And with his glory shine.

Thou shalt not unattended go, Nor pitch thy tent alone, The indwelling God shall go with thee, And show thee of his own.

So go thou not in search of Him, But to thyself repair; And wait within the silence dim, And thou shalt find him there.

He that good thinketh—Good may do— And God will help him thereunto But never yet, was good deed wrought, Without a beginning of good thought."

HARRIS COOK NOT ABLE TO BE HERE

It was hoped that Harris Cook would be able to be here for the holidays, but he has not sufficiently recovered from the Spanish influenza, to permit his traveling.

During the late summer, Harris enlisted at Municipal pier, in the Naval Reserve officers training school, where he was for some time, and was after having completed the course there sent to the Great Lakes Training Station.

Completing the portion of the course which was provided at that place he was sent to Cleveland, O., where he was placed on a boat, for experience and training there, and made a number of trips, having completed that portion of the course, and was to have gone to Pelham Bay, N. Y., where he was to have graduated as Ensign. The weather being good, he was taken for another trip on the boat from Cleveland, and during that trip was taken with the influenza, being on the boat four days, before reaching port at Detroit, where he requested to be put off, and went to the home of his uncle David Hawksworth, where Mr. Hawksworth, also was taken with the influenza, Harris has had the influenza for the past three weeks, and is not sufficiently recovered to be able to come at this time. This is a disappointment to Harris, his parents, and relatives here, as well as the host of friends which he has at this place.

HOLD YOUR LIBERTY BONDS.

They Are Worth Having, the Best Investment Which It is Possible to Have.

That the people might have the advantage of owning high class investment, and they have been made in such denominations that one could purchase just that amount there they could handle. That it had been urged that all take as much as they could handle even if it required something of a sacrifice to do so, is true, and this is as it should be as it is teaching thrift and economy, which is an essential on the education of everyone. Now you have the bonds, you may not have them all paid for, but nevertheless, hold to them, you are a portion of this government and when you are holding the bonds, you are adding that much to the firmness of their price, when you let go you are adding just your influence to the breaking of their value. This is our country, and the obligation is ours, let us make the investment the best. Why could we offer these obligations for less than their face value, and pay the difference to the purchaser, when bye and bye, if you desired to be the possessor of the bonds, you will be compelled to pay a premium in order to get them. You have them now keep them and profit by the holding of them, and do not let that profit be

CHARLES LOW ARRIVES AT HOME

From Monday's Daily.

Yesterday Charles Low, who is a Top Sergeant, arrived home after having been mustered out of the service at Sound Beach, Conn., last Thursday. Sergeant Low was on a boat for thirty-six hours, enroute for France with others, when the boat was stopped by wireless message, and the boats ordered to return to port. This was at the time of the signing of the armistice. As the time slips by we get someone back, at all the stages of getting into action, many who have been through the campaign, while others had just landed in a foreign land and others who had just started. Sergeant Low, makes an elegant looking soldier, and is glad to get back to his home.

Few Escape.

There are few indeed who escape having at least one cold during the winter months, and they are fortunate who have but one and get through with it quickly and without any serious consequences. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and observe the directions with each bottle, and you are likely to be one of the fortunate ones. The worth and merit of this remedy has been fully proven. There are many families who have always used it for years when troubled with a cough or cold, and with the very best results.
