PLAYED FAVORITE GAME ON HIS 85TH BIRTHDAY

GRANDPA TOURTELOT ENJOYS MOST OF ALL A GAME OF ROOK.

And His Friends Who are Rook Players Were Present Yesterday to Help Him Celebrate.

From Tuesday's Daily. "Grandpa" Tourtelot as he is familiarly known, enjoys playing the fascinating game of Rook. Yesterday marking his 85th birthday anniversary, his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Baird, invited a number of Rook friends to come to the Baird home about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, to play a few games of progressive Rook with "Grandpa." The guests filled three tables and the games were entered into with the usual vim and enthusiasm and furnished several hours of pleasure. When the final count of the number of games won, was made, it was found that Mrs. John Hatt, Jr. had been the luckiest and was awarded the prize, a game of Rook. After the games, the hostess served a dainty birthday luncheon, which was likewise thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. The centerpiece consisted of a birthday cake, decorated with eighty-five small birthday candles. After the luncheon Grandpa was made the recipient of a number of birthday gifts, which will assist him in remembering this birthday. At dusk the Rook friends wished Grandpa many more happy birthdays and said they would be back on his eighty-sixth birthday anniversary to play another game of Rook with him. Thanking Mrs. Baird for her kind hospitality and delightful afternoon's entertainment afforded them, the guests wended their way homeward.

FINE LETTER FROM A PLATTSMOUTH BOY

HE GIVES A FINE DESCRIPTION OF THINGS AS HE VIEWS THEM IN FRANCE.

On December 17th, Charles A. Reynolds who is with Company M, 34th Eng. American Expeditionary Forces, wrote the following interesting letter to his brother and sister in this city:

"Receive your letters every week and they sure do cheer me up. By this time you have all heard the great news. What a relief it must be to the millions that have been fighting. We don't see a very great change here for the armies are advancing into Germany and as we are at a supply depot we have to keep on working." He also states that he has not been able to work as he has been on the sick list and the Captain had ordered him sent to the barracks. He says it may be some time before they come home and is hoping to be able to get away in the spring. He then tells about his trip across: "Left New York on the 16th of August aboard the H. M. S. Empidon, were accompanied by 16 other transports and a small convoy. Had pleasant weather all the way. Nothing exciting to speak of. No subs. We were met by a convoy consisting of about 20 destroyers and sub-chasers. Pulled up the Mersey on the night of the 28th at Liverpool. Entrained in the afternoon on the London & N. E. for Romney where we went into camp for a few days. While there we all visited a beautiful old estate belonging to a colonel in the British army. From there we marched to Southampton about 10 miles, where we embarked on the S. S. Yale, from the west coast. Made a flying trip across the channel in the night and landed in France at Le Havre. Again went into a rest camp for a day and night when we boarded the train for this place, where we are still stationed. It is 14 miles from Dijon which you can find on the map. Our company is composed of mechanics and are working at repairing different things. We are a long way from the old front and one or two of the boys have seen it. They went up on a R. E. convoy. This is the greatest place for mud I ever saw. We all wear boots at all times and it sure is fine. But, at that, not many of the boys are sick. Flu is all stamped out, I guess."
