HER FRIENDS SEE A GREAT CHANGE

Iowa Woman Says She Feels Better Than for Years—Gives Tanlac the Credit for It.

"Since I began taking Tanlac my friends say I am looking a whole lot better and I certainly feel better than I have in years," said Mrs. Helen Gawley, of Lyons, Iowa.

"My stomach and kidneys worried me for several months and I was generally run down and weak. I had no appetite, what little I forced myself to eat would not digest. Gas pressed up into my chest and caused such terrible pains that I was afraid I had heart trouble.

"I was weak and nervous and I scarcely lived a moment without suffering severe pains in my back. I just felt worn out and tired all the time and had no energy.

WILL NOT ASK FEDERAL AID

State Meeting of Commissioners and Supervisors Decide Not to Ask for Aid For Bridge Work.

Cass county, which possesses the only two toll bridges in the state of Nebraska, was the center of attraction at the state meeting of the county commissioners and supervisors at Omaha yesterday when the matter of federal aid for the erection of bridges was discussed.

The question was brought up in a resolution signed by Hans H. Sieh and William McQuistan.

"Resolved, That our senators and representatives be requested to introduce an amendment to the federal road act at the coming session of congress making the accumulating funds to the credit of the different counties available to build roads and bridges on the federal aid roads within the counties."

The resolution was discussed at some length and much opposition developed to the changes proposed in the law as it was feared it might interfere with the operation of the federal aid law in the assisting of the highways of the state.

The representatives of Cass county pointed out the peculiar situation in this case where the Cass county interests are favorable to the adoption of the free bridge proposition but are facing the fact that Sapp county on account of its size and small valuations is up against it in supplying their share of the funds that might be needed in the erection of the bridge.

It was not the best reflection on the counties that the only two places in the state where the traveler was compelled to pay a tax to cross the streams was at Plattsmouth and Louisville. It worked a hardship on not only Cass county but the other counties in the southwestern portion of the state.

In opposing the resolution one delegate suggested that he understood that the owners of the two toll bridges across the Platte in Cass county were anxious to sell them to the state, and that the state did not desire to buy and old bridges.

After an extended discussion, in which numerous advocates of the status quo were heard, the resolution was defeated by a decisive vote.

It was different with a resolution asking that the legislature so amend the Nebraska law that precinct road overseers shall be appointive by the county commissioners, instead of elective. This is not a new proposition at all. It had been often urged, but when it has come up for legislative adjustment it has been found that the farmers like to have something to say about who shall be road overseer. As was once stated:

"There are a good many farmers who do not violently concern themselves about who is to be president of the United States, but when it comes to the selection of a road overseer in their precincts, they are very earnest in their desire to have something to say on the subject."

All of the officers of the road commissioners' organization were re-elected. They are: P. J. Kennedy, Des Moines, president; L. R. Barlow of Lodge Pole, vice president; C. A. Holmquist of Wausa, secretary-treasurer; Charles E. Hill, Hastings, sergeant-at-arms.

When it came to the selection of a meeting place for next year, Mr. Troyer of the Lincoln chamber of commerce extended the city's invitation. But the county clerk's organization, which is an adjunct of the commissioners' association, voted solidly for Omaha, while the division in the meeting was slightly in favor of that city also, and it was chosen.

SANCTITY OF CONTRACTS

One of the most discouraging features of present business conditions is the lack of respect for contracts.

A merchant, fearing that he may suffer from loss on an order already placed, unhesitatingly wires in an order cancelling the contract and leaving the other fellow with the bag to hold.

Every man engaged in business should show a profound respect for contracts, and, unless he does so, he cannot hope for permanent success in his business.

We talk about "prosperity", but prosperity is of little account, compared to the fine sense of honor that used to prevail in the business world, and the sanctity of contracts, either verbal or written. In fact, there can be no permanent prosperity without an enduring respect for contracts, in other words, the maintenance of good faith.

Behind every transaction in business or social life, there must be respect for the plighted word, or the whole structure of business and civilization will crumble.

Let us get back to the good old ways of our fathers, whose word was as good as their bond, and whose word was kept as a matter of course, regardless of its temporary effect on their fortunes.

We all want prosperity, but honor is more important than prosperity, and indeed real prosperity is impossible without it.

QUINTON HEADS STATE SHERIFFS

Meeting at Grand Island Elects Popular Cass County Official for Third Time as State President.

The members of the state sheriff's association which is meeting this week at Grand Island, are evidently of the same opinion as the people of Cass county in regard to keeping the services of a good and efficient official, as they have re-elected for president of their state association Sheriff Carl D. Quinton of Cass county.

Mr. Quinton has been the presiding officer of the association for the past two terms and his splendid handling of the office has caused his associates to insist that he remain in the position to which he has been elected.

Peter Duffy of O'Neill, the present secretary-treasurer was also re-elected.

The meeting has been one filled with great interest and the discussion of the automobile thieves and other phases of the work of law enforcement was discussed by the association as was the question of the present compensation that the county sheriff's are receiving. The sessions were well attended by representatives from the different counties and the greatest interest shown in the work of the convention. The closing session was marked by a very enjoyable banquet to the members.

ANNOUNCE DATE OF HOLDING BANQUET

Young Men's Bible Class Will Hold Annual Event on Friday Evening, January 14th.

The young men's bible class of the First Methodist church of this city have announced the date of their annual banquet, an event that attracts the attention of the young men of the community as an occasion when the feast of plenty and of the soul can be enjoyed.

This year the date will be Friday, January 14th, and a splendid toast list has been arranged and the chief speaker will be one who is probably one of the most gifted orators in the state and one of the busiest men in the City of Omaha and whose coming will furnish this city with an opportunity of hearing something worth while.

The ladies of the church are to prepare the feast of the occasion and this is sufficient to guarantee that that part of the banquet will be all that could be desired by the most discriminating.

The name of the toastmaster will not be announced until later, but he is to be one of the rising young men of the community and one well fitted to preside at an occasion of this kind.

The banquet date is only a month away and the residents of the community can prepare now for a rare treat in the banquet line this year.

THE LADIES AID SOCIETY MEETS

Methodist Church Parlors Scene of a Very Pleasant Gathering Yesterday Afternoon.

From Friday's Daily.

Friday afternoon the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist church met at the church parlors and enjoyed a most delightful occasion and one filled with the greatest of interest to all.

The hostesses of the afternoon were Mesdames W. F. Evers, Lillian Carstairs and James M. Hill and the gracious hospitality afforded the members of the party was much enjoyed by those who were fortunate enough to be present.

The members of the society were busily engaged during the business session in discussion of the plans for serving the banquet of the Y. M. B. C. on January 14th, and also outlining the watch party which will be held at the church on New Year's eve.

One of the features of the afternoon that will be long very pleasantly remembered by the ladies present was the address made by Attorney C. A. Rawls on "Abraham Lincoln," and in his discussion of the life of the great leader of his people in their hour of trial. Mr. Rawls entered into a personal and pleasing analysis of the life work of Lincoln.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Liston were called to Omaha on account of the sickness of their son, Dr. O. E. Liston, who had to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The operation was a success and he is getting along as well as could be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Brinton are rejoicing because of the birth of a fine daughter to them on last Friday. Both mother and babe are doing nicely and the parents have the hearty congratulations of the neighborhood in this happy event.

Word comes from friends of Dan Fentiman and Oscar Miller to the effect that they have had their heads together recently a good deal and they state that they intend starting a barber shop. Well, what do you know about that? We have it figured out that if it can't be done any other way, Dan can hold them while Oscar puts on the tonsorial art work. Glad to hear of their launching in a new enterprise.

Last Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Renard motored down from Lincoln to get the latter's father, E. Hendricks, who returned with them to spend Thanksgiving day. Mr. Renard lived for some time in Cherry county and at the present time was a quarter section of land up there and has a fine lake on it and this he has stocked with fine game fish, so at the present time there are many good sized fish in the lake and a lot of the smaller ones. He expects to develop this industry there to a considerable extent. The Sollars family also spent Thanksgiving at the Renard home. On Sunday all were going to the Sollars home to help do justice to a big opossum dinner, but the roads would not permit. Mr. Hendricks returned home Monday morning.

Ed Smith, who has been operating the mill at this place for the Omaha Milling Products company, has purchased the lease and is now in full control of the mill and management of the same. Mr. Smith is an expert miller and has managed a number of big mills. He has already established a reputation among the housewives by milling flour that makes the finest loaves of bread in the world. He is making a good flour as any of them and is selling a lot of it. He also is selling a lot of mill feed. We believe that a mill doing a good business in Elmwood is a fine thing for the town and surrounding country and we would support Mr. Smith and help him make the milling business a big success here.

Since Justice of the Peace E. P. Buck has fixed up his office at the A. E. Jameson headquarters, the office has become quite popular. Some parties were down from Manly a few days ago and had their differences settled by the Justice.

One of the best improvements the city has made for some time is that being done this week—the installing of electric lights in the alleys behind the stores in the business blocks. As long as these are kept burning, it will make it not quite so easy for the store looting gangs to make our town a victim.

A. M. Cherry of Clarion, Iowa, arrived Sunday evening to see his brother C. M. Cherry, who has been very sick the past week and his condition has been so serious his brother was notified and his sons, Ed of Omaha and Will of Alliance, and also his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Miller of Omaha were here to see him last week.

W. W. Davis took his son Edward to Omaha Tuesday morning for an examination for a growth or lump in the stomach, which was caused by being hit by a base ball about a year ago. The examination showed that an operation would be very dangerous and about the only method that could be used was the radium treatment. It is a very serious case but it is hoped that Edward will pull through O. K.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coatsman, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Cronwell left Tuesday morning for California to spend the winter. They would spend the day in Omaha with the A. L. Baistons family and with Mr. Cronwell's sister. Their first stop in California will be near San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Coatsman will visit his brother-in-law Charley Gardner at Oakland, while Mr. and Mrs. Cronwell will visit two sisters of Mrs. Cronwell's at Vallejo. They will then extend their visit to southern California.
