MAKES DEMAND FOR THE OFFICE SPOILS

Senator Elkins of West Virginia Informs the President Republicans Growing Restless.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Speeding up of the replacement of democratic federal office holders with republican appointees was urged today by Senator Elkins, republican, West Virginia, who wrote a letter of complaint to every member of the cabinet and later presented his views in an interview with President Harding.

To the president, Senator Elkins declared that the republicans in positions in the government, the cabinet and in the executive branch, are "expressing impatience and disappointment that so little progress has been made in the past eight months in calling to the support of the administration men loyal to it and in full sympathy with it."

A large majority of the important positions in the government, the West Virginia senator said, are still held by "deserving democrats," whose party members he charged with having laid a "thoroughly organized and adroitly handled plan" to keep their appointees in power.

In the campaign, said Senator Elkins, in a statement issued at the white house, "the republicans charged and believed and convinced the American people to the effect that these men were inefficient. The republican party promised to rid the government of these appointees. The republican party was voted responsible, and to discharge it successfully, its members should be called in to help with the job."

Aurora, Neb., Oct. 12.—If Senator Reed of this county is not a candidate for governor next year it will not be the fault of American Legion members, who, possibly because of their indorsement of his language bill, have written him scores of letters promising to support him, if he enters the race.

Reed, a farmer, lives in the southern part of the county. He represented Hamilton county in the house one term and York and Hamilton counties in the senate two terms.

Drugless Naprapathy in Violation of Medical Law—Court Affirms Brown County Decision

R. P. Carpenter of Long Pine is held by the supreme court to have violated the Nebraska law regulating the practice of medicine when he practiced what is known as naprapathy, a drugless system of healing, slightly similar to chiropractic. Carpenter made a fight in the courts for what he called his constitutional rights. He was defended by Chas. Darrow, the famous criminal lawyer. A school in Chicago where the system of healing is taught was interested in the defense.

Carpenter was fined in the lower court $50 each on four counts for illegal practice of medicine. The supreme court holds that the law regulating the practice of medicine is not void as discriminatory because it fails to provide that persons desiring to practice naprapathy may treat diseases without an examination for a state license. Unless so provided by the legislature it is not incumbent upon the state board of health to furnish means for examination of the qualifications of all persons desiring to treat patients by drugless or other methods of healing for fee or reward, and fail to do so is not a denial of any constitutional rights says the court. "Neither the legislature nor the state board of health can be expected to anticipate the inception of new methods of healing," says the court's opinion.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING WEDNESDAY

Miss Marjorie Ambler United in Marriage to Mr. Fred P. Norris of Avoca Oct. 12

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ambler was the scene of a most happy occasion on Wednesday evening, October 12, when their eldest daughter, Marjorie, was given in marriage to Fred P. Norris of Avoca.

The bride, becomingly gowned in white crepe over satin and wearing a corsage bouquet of ophelia roses and candy-tuft, accompanied by the groom, entered the living room to the strains of MacDowell's "To a Water Lily" played by Doris Ambler during the ceremony.

The double ring service was performed by Rev. W. H. Riley, Merton Norris acting as ring-bearer and was witnessed by the immediate relatives only.

After congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Norris led the way to the dining room, where delicious cake and ice cream were served. Mrs. Ray Norris and Miss Maude Baldwin, Mrs. Norris and Helen Baldwin and Mrs. Edward Dowler, assisted Mrs. Ambler in the dining room.

The newly wedded couple need no introduction to this community, both having lived here from their earliest year. They are well favorably known by a host of friends, whose good wishes go with them into their new home, which is being made ready for their occupancy on the Norris farm.

"O fortunate, O happy day! When a ne household finds its place.

Among the myriad homes of earth, Like new star just sprung to birth, And rolled on its harmonious way, Into the boundless realms of space!"
