Are Sowing Much Wheat
Roy and Ray Becker are seeding this year about one hundred and fifty acres of wheat and corn. They will make for the three boys some two hundred acres. There is being a large acreage sown to wheat and especially where the hail struck. The matter of getting at the ground was one thing and also the experience of the wheat being sown in a barrow while the corn was an almost complete loss.

Will Trade 1916 Ford
Will trade a 1916 Ford touring car good running condition for a cow. Must be good and a Jersey preferred. Box 245 Plattsmouth.

Will Hold Memorial

The twenty pupils enrolled in the Grammar room have perfect attendance for the first two weeks of school.

The second grade has been reviewing most of their first grade work as a foundation for their real work of the year.

The third grade has taken up geography as a new subject for this year and Geography note books will be kept all year.

The children who attended the state fair, reproduced the shapes of the buildings and gates very cleverly on the sand table.

The X English class is beginning an intensive study of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," and is finding it very interesting reading.

Three boys from Weeping Water visited the school on Wednesday. They brought posters advertising the football game between Weeping Water and Plattsmouth.

There are fifteen boys in the Manual training class. Their first work was to make bread or meat boards, but most of the boys are now working on necktie racks.

The X English class has charge of the Union school notes at present. They say "we know what we want to say, but we can't say it."

The class wonders if this is the problem of the other English classes.

The first grade children are grasping hold of their work well for the number of days they have been in school. Their work includes tracing of words at the blackboard and various kinds of busy work to teach them how to spell and write. Their numerical work includes problems whose answers are no more than three, as well as counting to ten using objects.

Although some of the Home Economics girls did not know on which finger the thimble belonged, we can not say these things of them now. They have finished two short projects in sewing and can handle recipes in the Food laboratory with marked skill.

If you could see the signs of determination upon their faces while working you might guess easily that this skill has been acquired through conscientious effort.

The different grades in High school have had their class meetings and elected their sponsors and officers for the year. They are as follows: Seniors—Cordelia Roddy, president; Beulah Pell, secretary; Mr. Severyn, sponsor. Juniors, John H. Brandt, president; Harold James, secretary; Bessie Copenhaver, treasurer; Miss Neumann, sponsor. Sophomores—George Thacker, president; George Garrison, vice president; Sterling Harris, secretary-treasurer; Miss Neumann, sponsor. Freshmen Ruby Meade, president; Wymore Fletcher, vice president; Alice Armstrong, secretary-treasurer; Miss Tobin, sponsor.

The Sophomores felt it their duty to become better acquainted with all the new students who entered our High school this fall as Freshmen. Accordingly, they invited them to a party the evening of the second Friday of school. All gathered in the assembly room and here George Thacker, as the Sophomore class president, read the roll call. It was necessary for the Freshmen to show their oratorical skill before they could enter the game room. All complied with the request and even Mr. Severyn and Miss Tobin did so very well that they were permitted to enter the games. But we Sophomores can not understand why Mr. Severyn persists in asking such preposterous questions. As each Freshman entered the gymnasium, he was bedecked with a fancy green cap. We were hardly able to discern between cap and face. They seemed very proud of their caps and were quite willing to show off in a parade. The evening was spent in games and the giving of tried-and-found-true advice to the under-classes. Refreshments consisting of one-half a cracker were then served, but seeing the look of disappointment on the faces of our guests, we decided to be more human with them. The Freshmen were all well pleased with the evening's entertainment and expressed their appreciation of the same. We will say they have the right school spirit. By the way, have you noticed that the Freshmen no longer chew gum? Well, we have the honor of having broken them of that habit.

Oxen are scarce as hens' teeth
Transportation Association Conducts Long Search Before Locating a Yoke of Cattle.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—"Times do change," is the unanimous verdict of officials of the American electric railway association who searched three months for a team of oxen to be used in connection with the annual convention here October 2-6.

"When someone suggested an ox team to show the stages in the progress of transportation everyone was certain that finding the oxen would be easy," said Secretary James W. Welch.

"But when we began to look for them we couldn't find one. Ezra Meeker, an Oregon trail pioneer, who drove an ox team about the country in the interest of good roads, was appealed to but his team was stuffed and on exhibition in Seattle, Washington.

"We asked stockyards officials, wild west shows and many others. Eventually we heard of one blind ox in Phillips, Wis., and after getting the entire city interested in the search, we located a yoke near there."

Together with the pungent showing old and new types of transportation, the convention will hear addresses from all living former presidents of the organization, many of whom ran horse car lines, according to plans. Trackless transportation, taxes and public relations are other subjects included on the program.
