Mr. Oldfield also expressed the pinion that the demicrats would favor the re-enactment of the excess profits taxes, but in a modified form; ncreased inheritance taxes on a graduated scale, and the imposition f a gift tax in an effort to reach hose of wealth seeking to avoid the payment of high surtaxes through gifts of money to relatives.

These taxes have been opposed eretofore by administration officers, who have made it plain that they have not now in mind any general revision of the existing revenue law, which was enacted late last year and which became generally effective last January 1.

Proponents of the proposed changs expressed confidence today, howver, that with the change in the house membership in the new congress, they would have more than an ven chance of success. "Progressive" republican leaders in their estimates of strength count on almost solid democratic support for their proposals, and likewise the democrats look o the left wing of the majority party for support for their program.

There seems to be more doubt in he minds of these leaders about the situation in the senate, but their expressed hope that with an increased iemocratic and republican "progressive" vote their revision plan could be put through. They pointed out that it was the senate as now constituted that upset the original proosal to reduce the maximum Income
