The W. W. G. Girls of the Baptist bible school will meet with their member, Miss Alma Frans and will have an excellent time and not among the least of which will be a worth while program wherein Miss Margaret Garrison will be the leader.

Little Joseph Lindsay who attends school at Union had the misfortune to have his arm broken during the week end at home which also kept him from attending school for a few days. He is getting along as well as one would expect under the circumstances, however.

Joseph Lidgett, who has a fair herd of pure bred Chester White hogs ever came up the pike the other day attended a sale of this excellent strain which was held at Auburn where he purchased a number of very fine animals of this strain which he has now added to his already fine herd.

The Rev. Planck of the Baptist church was a visitor in Lincoln last Monday where he is taking a course of study. He is well pleased with the success with which the men's bible class at the Baptist church has been meeting as at the last class meeting Sunday there were 17 present which is very pleasing.

Two of Union's glad citizens are rejoicing that on February 12 the natal day of the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, fell on their anniversary, they being Henry O'Donnell and Elmer Withrow. Of course they have never been presidents of the United States, but will if they are asked to serve in that capacity.

County Commissioner Harris has been asked to act as a member of the auditing committee for the Farmers' Mutual Insurance company at Lincoln and on Wednesday of this week went there to act in that capacity. Mr. Harris acted in this place last year and gave such good satisfaction that he has been named for this year as well.

Henry H. Becker has been hopping to his corn shed during the past week. On last Wednesday and Thursday he shelled four thousand bushels at the H. W. Banning place south of town and on Friday shelled 2,000 for a Mr. Pierce and on Monday and Tuesday of this week done 4,000 for Mr. Peterson, all being in Otoe county.

Our old friend "Uncle" U. S. Towns who has been quite ill for some time and has been kept to his bed, wanted awful bad to see his son at Nehawka and was bundled up and made him a visit but was hardly able to be taken from his bed. While his condition is very serious we are hoping that he may soon be much better.

There are many happy people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Everett, caused by the arrival of a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Everett, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Everett. It is an even break as to who is the most pleased by the pleasant event, the happy grandfather, the proud father or that pleasant young man "Uncle Leslie" Everett. However, they are all doing nicely as well as the young man and his mother.

Makes Purchase of Garage

A. W. Propst, who has demonstrated his ability as a garage man, has purchased the Burbee garage in Union and is at this time running the place. He also demonstrated his superior judgment when he has decided to retain the two Burbee brothers as workmen in his place of business. He also has John Irviss as a workman as well. Mr. Propst has disposed of many new cars during the past year and has made a success of the business this far and we are certain that he will continue by fair treatment of the public to succeed.

Let Us Forget

Do not forget about those piles, which have been troubling you. Many cases have been treated and cured but for obvious reasons they do not care to have their names published, but come to our office and we will furnish you the names and you can satisfy yourself as to the efficacy of the treatment and cures.

NEHAWKA AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS DO PRACTICAL WORK

Class Room Work Supplementing by Doing Project Work on Their Farms at Home.

One of the agencies which is helping in a very effective way to arouse more interest on the part of the farm boy in the farm and farm activities is the Smith-Hughes work in agriculture which is being carried out in a great many high schools in Journal-Stockman territory. The work is effective because it is more than book-learning alone. It is a combination of class-room and a factory work with work in the field. The Smith-Hughes instructors in agriculture are on the job 12 months of the year. Every boy enrolled in the course is required to carry on a project on his home farm. That project may be raising chickens, growing corn, raising pigs, keeping tests on the cows of the dairy herd, etc. One of the essentials in this work which commends it, is the fact that the boy carries on book-keeping practices. When he finishes his corn project he knows how many hours of labor for man and horses were required. He knows whether the production of that corn resulted in a profit or a loss. The same is true in feeding of his hogs. Having learned the cost of production, he can determine what some of the factors were that reduced the profits or made the project a losing one. Naturally he has learned a real lesson with the completion of the project.

Agricultural Work in Nehawka.

A Smith-Hughes course is established in the Nehawka consolidated schools at Nehawka, Neb. The instructor in this work as well as the superintendent is L. W. Burley. "As this a small school," says Professor Burley, "we are carrying but part time vocational agriculture. That is, we alternate a course in crops and soil with one in animal husbandry. The shop work goes along well as the work is more or less individual, pupils taking harder projects or jobs as they progress in the farm. The farm shop at the school is not plastered but rough inside and the pupils always feel at home there. They are not afraid of hurting the building and it gives them conditions such as they would have in the shed at home. It is fitted with 14 benches and wood work tools. In addition to the instruction in wood working, soldering, forging and harness repairing are taught."

Speaking of the keeping of cost of production records, Professor Burley cites the case of one of the boys enrolled in the course who raised Kanred wheat last year. He grew a crop of eight acres. His work showed a profit of $96.50 after allowing himself $30.00 for his own labor and the rent of the land. Another boy made $51.22 after paying himself $13.40 for labor in the growing of nine acres of corn. One of his fields yielded 60 bushels per acre. In the growing of corn the boys are taught the best methods consistent with better yields. They select their seeds in the field and store it properly and carry out other recognized practices. In other words, they learn by doing.

The farm shop work which is carried on, is made as practical as possible. There have been cases where students taught manual training or other shop work were given problems which were not of any particular value. At the Nehawka school among the things which are made are wagon tongues, bread boards, book ends, hog troughs, gates, scoop boards and A-shaped hog houses. They are also taught how to repair various farm implements.
