BACKSLIDERS

It is impossible for those who were once enlightened and have tasted of the heavenly gift, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.—Hebrews vi, 4 to 6.

All's not fair in love. Some are brunettes.

Don't forget Bargain day, Wednesday the 18th.

Did you go to church yesterday? If not, why not?

Now that spring is here, we are all seeing better days.

It seems that living is high because things cost so much.

Growing old is a bad habit. Keeping it up will get you.

Some marry for better or worse. Some for target practice.

The light brigade charged like thunder. So do the sugar men.

Push makes many a success in life, and his wife does the pushing.

A nice refreshing show helps everything at this time of the year.

The difference between our last year's suit is merely a matter of time.

Your hair has muscles. This, however, does not make you strong headed.

The coal dealer is still in the ring, and it will be the ice man's turn pretty soon.

Sunshine is eating its way into human hearts these days and making them beat faster.

Many parties are given just to get a gang of autos in front of the house for people to see.

Women never thought of smoking 20 or 30 years ago, which is why they didn't do it.

People, with or without teeth, may enjoy learning a Detroit dentist is in jail for something.

The wool crop is short. So are we and a great many other people at this stage of the game.

John Rockefeller, Jr., makes only a million a month, but perhaps he gets his gas at cost.

From the way birds hang around a garden they seem to think all kinds of seed are bird seed.

An ordinary piano contains about a mile of wire, which will make about 17 radio aerials.

People who object to little boys fighting should not send them to school in red neckties.

The small boy thinks his teacher ought to know everything. Look at the questions she asks.

A woman goes to the opera to see what she can see and to a party to hear what she can hear.

Brevity may be the soul of wit, but there is nothing very funny about being short of cash.

It isn't so hard to tell which side of the house a small boy resembles. He resembles the outside.

Laughing is considered effeminate in China; but then, the Chinese have nothing much to laugh at.

A Kentucky mountaineer is 114 years old which is a lot of tobacco for any one man to chew.

A St. Louis man walked into the jail and asked to be hung, so he may believe what reformers say about him.

Col. W. J. Bryan is strictly opposed to teaching Darwinism. So are we. And so ought every white person, male and female.

When you are complaining of the hard times in America; just turn your thinker in the direction of Russia; maybe you won't feel so bad.

The legislature is to be in session two weeks longer. Oh, Lord!

Day by day in every way, the baseball season is getting nearer and nearer.

Now is the time for women to get out their heavy furs; it's going to be a hot summer.

A man has a right to be nervous when he proposes. Proposing is the cause of marriage.

It seems to be the idea of the Russian soviet government to make another '93 out of '23.

Boston is having daylight robberies. They have so much to do they can't finish at night.

A perfect lady never chews tobacco in public or shoots any man unless he is her husband.

They say a Cincinnati cafe owner has been identified as a bandit. We say it sounds plausible.

In Spokane a woman shot two men and now she can't claim they were both her husband.

The difference between a dance and a bootleggers' convention isn't as much as it should be.

Groundhog is some hog alright. After giving us six more weeks of winter he kept right on.

It isn't that income taxes are any worse than they used to be, but the novelty has worn off them.

Also there is nothing that could convince a rooster that he wouldn't be a success in grand opera.

The way of the transgressor, though, is kept crowded by boos who fancy that they can beat the game.

A New Yorker was caught robbing a Los Angeles bank, proving it is safer to stay in your own home town.

One cannot even pretend to keep tabs on the new periodicals that adorn the news stands. Suffice to say that one would have time for nothing else if he tried to read a third of the magazines offered him.

Senator Eorah wants to establish a real world court in which justice is to be dispensed "unhampered by the political prejudices of the countries involved." The senator is thinking of some other world.

The tariff has been pouring money into Uncle Sam's pockets at the rate of over 400 million dollars a year. Customs receipts in March were over 62 millions. Some figure that the tariff will collect as high as 700 million dollars in 1923. Indirectly, of course, Americans are paying it, for without tariff a lot of things would be cheaper.

Two Ohio surgeons claim that by injecting fluid from the adrenal glands into the heart of a dying man, and sometimes of a dead man, the organ can be strengthened and life brought back, if the cause of the disease can be eradicated promptly. Jealous lovers whose hearts stop beating when they see other men with their girls will be much interested in this.

The jury that acquitted Governor Small of Illinois in his recent trial for conspiracy and misuse of state funds is also under investigation and three more indictments have already been returned. It is alleged that the jury was "fixed" in advance. The sheriff who had charge of the selection has since been made superintendent of prisons and some of the jurors are said to have also been handsomely provided for. Even the politicians have a hard time in going straight in Illinois. This is not as small a matter as it may seem.

POLICY NEEDED

American railroad executives held a conference some two weeks ago in an attempt to agree upon a policy that will enable them to better cope with an increasing volume of traffic. A situation has arisen during the last few months strikingly like that of the war period which led first to voluntary efforts of the railroads to co-operate in the movement of traffic and, after that had failed, to federal operation.

During the last year the steam roads have greatly increased their rolling equipment and deliveries to be made within the next few months will in a measure relieve the strain under which the majority of them are now operating. If, however, traffic should continue to increase during the remainder of the year a situation may well be created in which the roads can neither move the traffic nor earn any substantial profit from operation. With commodity prices advancing the cost of materials and of fuel bought by the railroads will also increase but the suggestion of a higher charge for transportation service at this time with resistance not only from shipping resources but from political sources as well.

The railroads need to fortify themselves and prepare for whatever exigencies may arise. They need particularly to decide whether in their judgment anything is to be expected from the present transportation act, especially from its consolidation features. For some months after that act was passed there was little need for co-operative effort among the carriers that the law contemplates but with traffic at the present level and with rolling stock admittedly inadequate the probability of relief thru consolidation should be definitely ascertained.

The conclusions reached by the executives are likely to affect profoundly the trend of transportation developments and probably legislation in the immediate future.

THE MEAT SUPPLY

How much meat do you eat? The average American ate 150 pounds last year, including babies, in striking contrast to the 100 pounds of 1911. And it is. Beef totaled 61 pounds for each of us.

And yet here comes J. C. Mohler of the Kansas state board of agriculture with a warning that extinction of the beef industry is threatened by decline in meat consumption. He says we're eating 26 pounds of beef a year less than we ate in 1901, apiece.

There's a reason, as usual. You used to be able to get a steak—yes, a whole meal—for a quarter. High prices become prohibitive—a boom-crang.

Of a thousand married women to whom that questionnaire was sent, 872 said they were happy. If that percentage holds up, it's a brighter world than the pessimists would have us think.

JAKE AND TEDDY R.

JAKE, 12651

Jake is a black jack with white points. Was foaled May 28, 1912. Is 15 1/2 hands high, weight 1150. Sired by Big Jake, and his dam was Lady Elgin. He is an excellent jack, and has a good reputation as a foal getter.

TEDDY
