

COUNCILMEN LOOK OVER NEW STYLE STREET PAVING

Well Pleased With Showing of New Material Now Being Used at Red Oak, Iowa.

From Thursday's Daily.
The party composed of Councilmen John Sattler, L. L. McCarty and J. H. McCracken, and Bert Coleman, who were at Red Oak, Iowa, yesterday to look over the new Vitrolith type of paving, were very much pleased with the showing of the new method that is fast becoming popular in this part of the west. The party saw the active operation of laying the paving and were enthusiastic over the showing made in this class of work.

The method used in the paving is new to this section of the country and gives a much harder pavement than that formed by plain concrete. It is claimed. The process used at Red Oak was that of laying several inches of a composition of Louisville limestone, sand and cement and after this had been placed to the required depth a quantity of the Sioux Falls granite, broken into small sized pieces was scattered over the surface of the fresh paving. Strips were placed on top of the paving and on these motorcycle engines were placed which furnished the vibration that caused the settling of the paving and forced all air bubbles or water out of the concrete to the surface and also caused the particles of granite to sink into the fresh concrete and when the vibrating process was finished the paving was strong enough to bear the weight of a person without breaking through instead of being soft and yielding as in the case of fresh concrete. After this style of paving has been laid it is covered by a dressing that hardens the top and makes it so that it can be used in ten days after being put down.

The councilmen attending the demonstration felt well repaid for their efforts in getting first hand information on the paving which will be considered among other types for the paving here this year. If the weather permits a large number of the council and the mayor may journey to Fremont Sunday to look over paving there that is of a similar type.

THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE CAUSES DOMESTIC WAR

"The Other Woman" in this Case Causes War that Filled Home With Destructiveness.

Being a Sheikh has its disadvantages as well as its advantages and oftentimes the gentleman who has imitated the methods of the desert chieftains finds that he occupies an unfavorable position in the midst of a warfare of his women. This has been proven in this city within the last few days also instead of the wife causing the disturbance in the triangle it seems to have been the "other woman," as they say in the movies.

One of the residents of this city has been living here or rather his wife has been making headquarters here with friends while he has been pursuing the elusive dollar in the state metropolis, and during his sojourn in the city that is known far and wide as the abode of Dan Butler, he became involved with one of the alluring ladies of that city and this fact reaching the ears of the wife caused more or less comment that in turn angered the Omaha lady and a few evenings ago she arrived here and sought the residence wherein the wife was making her home and there staged one of the lurid battles of the females for their mate, and as the strife increased she struck the wife or at least slapped her severely and then fled from the scene of action.

Sometime later the police were notified of the affair and Chief of Police Jones hastened to the scene but the lady doing the Dempsey act had fled and made good her escape back to Omaha.

ENTERTAIN VERY PLEASANTLY.

From Thursday's Daily.

Morgan at the Graham home and here the ladies spent the time in their business session until late in the afternoon when the members of the party were entertained at the Morgan Sweet Shop, the balcony there being very tastefully decorated with flowers and greens and made a most enjoyable spot for the gathering. Here very dainty and delicious refreshments were served that added to the pleasures of the occasion and it was a late hour when the ladies departed expressing their appreciation at the very gracious hospitality afforded them.

STORM BRINGS RELIEF FROM SULTRY CONDITION

This City Fortunate in Not Receiving Brunt of High Wind—Damage in Omaha.

From Thursday's Daily.
The large bank of dark hued clouds in the northwest caused much apprehension here late yesterday afternoon and the first touches of the wind that preceded the storm caused the motorists who had their cars on the main streets of the city to get them into places of safety before the storm broke, but fortunately the storm proved much milder than the indications had pointed to.

Some hail and a very heavy rain fell for a fifteen minute period from 5:15 to 5:30 but did very little damage and served only to clear the atmosphere of the humid heat that had prevailed during the afternoon.

In Omaha the storm was quite severe and resembled in some respects a repetition of the tornado of 1913 and swept through the west part of the district and tore out trees, paralyzed electric and telephone service and broke many windows in the west and east portions of the city.

An especially heavy rain resembled a cloudburst in many respects and as a result the cellars and streets were flooded for a short time.

The wind in Omaha reached a velocity of thirty-nine miles an hour, but differs from a tornado in that it was steady and prolonged and was followed by a rainfall of .82 inches. The storm seemed to have been the severest in the Field Club, Benson and Dundee districts.

The like at Glenwood, which is one of the most attractive spots in and near the Iowa city, was the scene yesterday of the picnic of the local chapter of the Order of De Molay, and which was held on the second anniversary of the order in the city and proved a very pleasant occasion for those attending. MISSOURI RIVER WASHES OUT 40 FEET OF RIP RAP

Section Men and Extra Gangs of Burlington Fight All Night to Retard Inroads of River

From Friday's Daily.
The Iowa bank of the Missouri river, which has been the scene of much cost and labor in the last few years, to check the tendency of the river to carve a new channel for itself through the fertile fields of Mills county, is once more causing trouble for the Burlington railroad and the residents of that locality.

Last evening the Missouri made a further raise that made the stream a dangerous factor for the safety of the rip rap and the works that had been built along the bank to check the stream and before the Burlington could get a force of workmen on the scene, some forty feet of the rip rap placed there in the last two years, was washed out and a hurry call was made for all of the section men in the employ of the railroad and these were rushed to the scene of action, which is almost straight east from the Burlington passenger station here.

The force of workmen labored all night and five car loads of rock and stone were used in an effort to help strengthen the rip rap against further inroads of the river and special gangs will be used in combatting the tendency of the Big Muddy to break through the rip rap and seek a new channel.

The river has been quite high for several days, and it is thought that there will be grave danger in the next week or ten days from the river as the June rise is now on.

From Friday's Daily.
Yesterday afternoon the members of the Methodist Sunday school to the number of 200 gathered at the pleasant farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Creamer on the Omaha highway just north of the Nebraska Masonic Home and enjoyed one of the most pleasant events of the year in the social activities of the church. The grounds committee of which W. F. Evers was chairman, had arranged the full details of the picnic grounds and had some eleven swings in readiness when the members of the party arrived to commence the festivities of the day at the picnic and the surroundings selected by the grounds committee were certainly ideal for the purpose.

The day was spent in games of all kinds from the events of the little folks to the baseball games in which the ladies of the Sunday school defeated the boys and from the reports received the members of the ladies' team showed some real class in their playing both in fielding and at the bat and overturned the hopes of the boys for an easy victory. Field sports and races of all kinds were staged by the members of the jolly party and proved a real treat to everyone.

As the afternoon drew to a close the baskets of good things to eat were unpacked and with the large supply of ice cream and other dainties served to complete the day of real enjoyment which will be long remembered by the participants in the event. Mrs. J. E. Wiles was the chairman of the refreshment committee and this organization proved very successful in its work.

GEORGE WADE HAS CLOSE CALL

On Tuesday of last week, George Wade had a close call, or at least he thinks that it was close enough. He was scooping coal at the school house and went up on the steps to take a rest. Apparently, or at least that is the only way that he can figure it out, he fainted and fell to the bottom of the stairs. He was unconscious for some time and a doctor's attention was necessary. He was some time in getting over the effects of his experience.—Elmwood Lender-Echo.
